August 9, 2006

Dear Candidate:

Thank you for your interest in obtaining a Congressional nomination from my office! Each year, Members of Congress have the unique opportunity to nominate outstanding young men and women in their Congressional Districts to the prestigious United States Service Academies.

The Academies have a longstanding tradition of grooming patriotic leaders and high-level military professionals and I wish you the best of luck in your pursuit of this legacy of duty and honor.

Should you have any questions about the nomination process or if you require any further information, please contact my District Outreach Coordinator, Sari Vatske, in my District Office or you may e-mail her at sari.vatske@mail.house.gov.

Thank you,

Debbie Wasserman Schultz
Member of Congress

The Nomination and Appointment Process

In order to be considered for an appointment to a United States Service Academy, each applicant must have obtained a nomination from an authorized nominating source. The Vice President of the United States, as well as Members of the United States Senate and the United States House of Representatives, may nominate applicants who meet the eligibility requirements established by law. Applicants may apply for and receive nominations from the Vice President, their U.S. Senators and their Congressional Representative.

Members of Congress are allowed five vacancies at each of the Service Academies. For each vacancy that Members of Congress have at the Service Academies, they may nominate up to 10 candidates to compete for that vacancy. A student remains in one of the vacancy slots until that student graduates from the Service Academy.

Under the competitive nominating process, which is utilized in this office, the Service Academies will select one candidate of the 10 nominees, who they believe to be the most qualified for an appointment. The nine nominees who are not selected will then compete for other available appointments in a nationwide pool of nominees.
