

CRS Report for Congress

Received through the CRS Web

Days Reserved for Special Business in the House

James V. Saturno
Specialist on the Congress
Government and Finance Division

As presented in the following table and described below, several provisions in the rules of the House provide for certain types of business to be privileged for consideration on specified days, some under special procedures. For more information on legislative process, see [<http://www.crs.gov/products/guides/guidehome.shtml>].

Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday
Every Monday: Motions to suspend the rules	Every Tuesday: Motions to suspend the rules	Every Wednesday: Call of Committees under the Calendar Wednesday procedure
	First and Third Tuesdays: Consideration of measures on the Private Calendar
Second and Fourth Mondays: Motions to discharge committees  Consideration of District of Columbia business	Second and Fourth Tuesdays: Consideration of measures on the Corrections Calendar

- Motions to suspend the rules are in order every Monday and Tuesday (Rule XV, Clause 1). A suspension motion may be debated for 40 minutes (equally divided between a proponent and opponent), may not be amended from the floor, and must pass by a vote of two-thirds of those present and voting. In addition, the suspension procedure effectively waives all rules of the House that would prevent consideration of a measure, so that no points of order may be raised against a measure being considered under suspension. House rules place no formal restrictions on the types of measures that may be considered under suspension, but party rules effectively restrict the procedure to use in considering relatively noncontroversial measures.

- Motions to discharge committees (for measures that have been placed on the Discharge Calendar after securing signatures from a majority of Representatives (218 with no vacancies) on a discharge petition) are in order on the second and fourth Mondays of each month (Rule XV, Clause 2). If a discharge motion is successful, the measure may be considered in the House or the Committee of the Whole, as appropriate.
- Consideration of District of Columbia business (for measures on either the House or Union Calendar) is privileged on the second and fourth Mondays of each month (Rule XV, Clause 4), and could occur in the House or the Committee of the Whole, as appropriate. This privilege is rarely used in modern practice.
- Consideration of measures on the Private Calendar is privileged on the first and third Tuesdays of each month (Rule XV, Clause 5). Private bills are those of a private, rather than public, nature (i.e., they apply only to specified individuals, corporations, or other entities). Measures called up from the Private Calendar are normally passed by unanimous consent. However, if two or more Members object to the measure, it is recommitted to the committee that reported it. The Speaker is required to direct the clerk to call measures on the Private Calendar on the first Tuesday, but consideration on the third Tuesday is discretionary. Consideration of measures on the Private Calendar may also be dispensed with by two-thirds vote.
- Consideration of measures on the Corrections Calendar is privileged on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month (Rule XV, Clause 6). The Corrections Calendar process is designed to expedite the House's ability to consider measures that would repeal or correct laws, rules, or regulations considered to be obsolete, duplicative, burdensome, or too costly. After a relevant measure has been reported from committee and placed on the House or Union Calendar, it may be placed on the Corrections Calendar by the Speaker following consultation with the minority leader. Corrections Calendar measures are considered in the House under the one-hour rule, with the previous question automatically ordered, providing for a final vote at the end of the hour. No amendments are in order except those recommended by the committee of jurisdiction or offered by the chairman of the committee of jurisdiction or his designee. A motion to recommit the measure to committee with or without instructions is in order. A three-fifths vote is required for passage.
- The Call of Committees under the Calendar Wednesday procedure is privileged every Wednesday (Rule XV, Clause 7). Any measure not otherwise privileged would be eligible for consideration in the House or the Committee of the Whole, as appropriate, under this procedure. However, under modern practice the procedure is routinely waived by unanimous consent.