

If you're a federal student loan recipient, there are two key points to remember. First, the interest you pay is lower than commercial rates because the federal government subsidizes the rate. Second, if you are a student borrower, you don't begin to repay the amount you borrowed until you leave school or drop below half-time.

As generous as these terms are, you shouldn't forget that you do have to repay your loan. Failure to do so could result in your loan(s) being declared delinquent. This could have a negative impact on your financial status and creditworthiness in the future. This section outlines repayment requirements and describes the special circumstances under which your obligation to repay can be reduced or forgiven.

BORROWER'S RESPONSIBILITIES

When you obtain a federal student loan you have certain responsibilities. Here are some important ones:

Think about how much you're borrowing

- Think about what your repayment obligation means before you take out a student loan.
- If you don't repay your student loan on time or according to the terms in your promissory note,* you could default* on this legal obligation, which has serious consequences and will adversely affect your credit rating.

Signing a promissory note means you agree to repay the loan

- When you sign a promissory note,* you're agreeing to repay the loan according to the terms of the note.
- The note states that except in cases of loan discharge (cancellation), you must repay the loan, even if you don't complete your education (unless, for example, because the school closed).
- Also, you must repay your loan even if you can't get a job after you complete the program or you didn't like the education you paid for.

The U.S. Department of Education does not guarantee the quality of education you receive or that you will find a job in your field of study.

Make payments regardless of receiving billing notices

- You must make payments on your loan even if you don't receive a bill or repayment notice.
- Billing statements (or coupon books) are sent to you as a convenience. You're obligated to make payments even if you don't receive any reminders.
- You must also make monthly payments in the full amount required by your repayment plan. Partial payments do not fulfill your obligation to repay your student loan on time.

Continue to pay while waiting for deferment, forbearance or discharge approval

- If you apply for a deferment, forbearance or a loan discharge, you must continue to make payments until you have been notified that your request has been approved.
- If you don't, you might end up in default.*
- Keep a copy of any request form you submit, and document all contact you have with the firm that holds your loan.

*See "Important Terms," page 35.

Terms frequently used in discussing financial aid throughout this publication will appear in boldface type with an asterisk, and you'll find a description of them under "Important Terms," beginning on page 35.

Notify your lender or loan servicing agency when you ...

- Graduate;
- Withdraw from school;
- Drop below half-time* status;
- Change your name, address or Social Security number†; or
- Transfer to another school.

†Note: New Social Security numbers are issued only in very rare circumstances. See www.ssa.gov/ssnumber/ for rules on changing them.

Keep in touch with your lender or loan servicing agency.

Receive entrance and exit counseling

- For Direct or FFEL Stafford Loans, you must receive entrance counseling before you're given your first loan disbursement, unless you've previously borrowed a Stafford Loan.
- No matter what type of federal student loan you have, you must receive exit counseling before you leave school.
- Your school will provide the counseling and important information about your loan.
- Your lender will give you additional information.

BORROWER'S RIGHTS

You have certain rights as a borrower. Some of them are listed below.

Before the first loan disbursement

Before your school makes your first loan disbursement, you must receive the following information about your loan from your school, lender or the Direct Loan Servicing Center:

- Information about the maximum repayment periods and the minimum repayment amount.
- An explanation of default* and its consequences.
- An explanation of available options for consolidating your loans and a statement that you can prepay your student loan(s) at any time without a penalty.

Before you leave school

Before you leave school, you will receive the following information about your loan (as part of exit counseling) from your school, lender or the Direct Loan Servicing Center:

- A current description of your loans, including average anticipated monthly payments.
- The amount of your total debt (principal and estimated interest), your current interest rate and the total interest charges on your loan.
- If you have FFEL (Federal) Stafford Loans, the name of the lender or agency that holds your loans, where to send your payments and where to write or call if you have questions.
- If you have Direct Stafford Loans, the address and telephone number of the Direct Loan Servicing Center.
- An explanation of the fees you might be charged during the repayment period, such as late charges and collection or litigation costs if you're delinquent or in default.*
- A reminder of available options for loan consolidation and a reminder that you can prepay your loan without penalty at any time.
- A description of applicable deferment, forbearance and discharge (cancellation) provisions.
- Repayment options and advice about debt management that will help you in making your payments.
- Notification that you must provide your expected permanent address and the name and address of your expected employer.
- Notification that you must also provide any corrections to your school's records concerning your name, Social Security number, references and driver's license number (if you have one).
