

Bush FY05 Budget Education Priorities in Iraq vs. Priorities in America

	Iraq	America
Helping Citizens with Job Training	$60 million for demobilizing and job training for 130,000 enemy combatants .	23.8 percent cut ($316 million) in vocational education, despite President's promise to create "Jobs for the 21st Century" program
	$353 million for American-Iraqi Enterprise Fund and job training	$151 million cut in adult training, dislocated worker activities, employment service state grants, and grants to states for reemployment services
Providing Access to Higher Education	$20 million for Higher Education and Development (HEAD) projects, creating US-Iraqi University partnerships to expand access to higher education for all Iraqis	60.3 percent cut ($101 million) for Perkins Loans, and $327 million cut in Pell Grants, closing the door to higher education opportunities for millions of lower income students
Expanding Literacy	$40 million for building 275 schools and training 10,000 teachers	$8 million cut for reading programs from Department of Education
Providing Children with Basic Skills	USAID Accelerated Learning Program provides intensive personal education to low income and at risk Iraqi children	2.5 percent ($177 million) funding for Head Start by 2006, even though head Start currently can only serve 13.5 % of eligible children because of funding restrictions