

House Republicans

REAL ENERGY SOLUTIONS

Daily Fact Sheet for June 25, 2008

- Speaker Pelosi and her Democratic colleagues plan to hold a news conference on the Democrats' "efforts to lower gas prices" today but the Speaker's plans have completely imploded. None of the four bills Democratic leaders had planned to vote on this week would increase production of American energy to help lower gas prices – even though more energy production is exactly what the American people want, according to poll after poll.
- Meanwhile, the Associated Press reports that Democrats are "maneuvering to block Republican attempts to expand offshore drilling, an idea gaining in popularity amid $4-a-gallon gas prices."
- House Republicans have introduced an "all of the above" energy plan that would increase production of American energy, encourage more conservation and efficiency, and promote the use of alternative fuels, and we will continue to fight every day on behalf of struggling families and small businesses.
