Spotlight on Health Care

In November 2009, the House passed health care reform legislation. As a member of the Energy and Commerce Committee, I introduced several Vermont ideas require the federal government to negotiate prescription drug prices allow young people through the age of 26 repeal the health insurance industry's exemption

"Like most Vermonters, I believe affordable access to quality health care is a fundamental right of all Americans. My work on this critical issue – in Vermont and now in Congress – has long been guided by three principles: everybody must be covered, everybody must contribute based upon his or her ability to pay, and coverage need not be related to employment. I will continue to push for comprehensive reform of our health care system to achieve quality, affordable care for all Vermonters and all Americans. And I will continue to bring Vermont's values and successes in improving health care to the national stage."
