From Congressman Joe Sestak

Dear Friend,

In late 2008 I gathered my staff to discuss our preparations for representing the interests of the 7th Congressional District and our Nation in the 111th Congress. My message was clear and heartfelt. I thanked them for their extraordinary efforts over the past two years. Then I told them our Nation was headed for an unprecedented economic crisis and that the next two years would be the most difficult and important period to serve in government since WWII. As such, our constituents and the country would require even more of them. Given that they had worked 7 days per week for an average of 12 hours per day since I was inaugurated, that was not an easy message to deliver.

To their great credit the staff rose to that challenge. As you will see in the pages of this program, my legislative team has been at the forefront of efforts to pass a meaningful stimulus package, reform our healthcare system, protect our seniors, Veterans, and children, and create the conditions for our Nation to emerge from this crisis stronger than before. Also, our District Office has been working over 500 individual cases per month including hundreds of potential foreclosures and applications for Social Security benefits. It is from the trends they identify in the course of their casework that much of my legislative agenda devolves. For example, they were quick to identify exorbitant interest rates charged for student loans and credit cards, the difficulty homeowners experienced in communicating with their lenders when foreclosure was threatened, the unnecessarily low rate of applications for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), and inequities in eligibility for Veterans benefits. In each case action has been completed or is in progress to correct a flawed program or policy.

Today's event reflects that same unyielding, innovative, and collaborative commitment to our constituents and the notion of 'good government.' We are continuing the progress achieved in our prior events to improve the ability of Small Businesses, Veterans, Educators, and, today, Working Families to emerge stronger from this recession. In the 7th Congressional District we are aiming for the fullest possible integration of government and non-governmental organizations to unite our community and revitalize our neighborhoods, schools, work force, and businesses. In Washington, we are working hard with our President to reduce the impact of this crisis and restore our once proud national reputation for transparent, accountable, and efficient financial systems. I am also personally committed to eliminating the partisanship and reducing the influence of special interests that are choking the life from our democratic process and stealing the hope and prosperity from our working and middle-class families.

As you know too well, working families are struggling across three generations with the high cost of education, health insurance, and energy. They are first to feel the effects of unemployment and underemployment. As a result, they are also faced with foreclosure, backlogged applications for Veterans and Social Security benefits, and a generally uncertain future. Unless we act with speed, unity of purpose, and a spirit of shared sacrifice, for the first time in our history the young people of today will experience a much lower standard of living than their parents. Worse, future generations will suffer even greater consequences including compromised national security, the devastation of our environment, and unchecked dependence on imported, costly energy.

To demonstrate their commitment to a brighter today and tomorrow, more than fifty organizations are present today to offer their services and expertise to you and your families. That they are present on a Saturday morning when they could be with their own families reflects their professionalism and the respect they have for your very busy life Monday through Friday. They know you are working every possible hour to make ends meet and they want to provide some resources that may help you overcome these difficult times. To each and every organization and individual present -- and in particular Interboro High School as well as Ms. Cheryl Browning, Mr. William J. Clark, Mr. Jim Daugherty, Mr. Brent Ennis, Ms. Carol Goertzel, Ms. Patricia Hasson, Mr. James Savage, Ms. Barbara Stephens, and Ms. Laurie Watkins who will join me on the panel and in Executive Session -- I say thank you. It is an honor to work with you to benefit our working families, the 7th Congressional District, and our Nation.

Sincerely,

Joe Sestak

Member of Congress

Joe Sestak is a former 3-Star Admiral who successfully ran for Congress in 2006 after completing his 31-year military service to our country. He is the senior military veteran in history to be elected and serve in the U.S. Congress. Joe led a series of operational commands, culminating in command of the USS George Washington carrier battle group (30 ships/100 aircraft/15,000 Sailors) that conducted combat operations in Afghanistan and Iraq. Joe served as President Clinton's Director of Defense Policy at the White House and after 9/11, the Navy selected Joe to become the first Director of the Navy's anti-terrorism unit. The son of a first-generation Navy Captain, Joe followed in the footsteps of his father and attended the U.S. Naval Academy where he graduated 2nd in his Class. He later earned a Ph.D. in Political Economy and Government from Harvard University. After his 31-year distinguished military career, Joe returned home to Delaware County, Pennsylvania with his family, where his parents and siblings also live.

Joe ran for Congressional office on the platform that national security begins at home with the economic, health, education, and environment/energy security of our citizens; these four security pillars, along with defense security, provide for our country's overall national security. In Congress, he is a member of the Committee on Education and Labor, where he impacts our need for a skilled, educated workforce; Vice-Chair of the Small Business Committee, addressing the severe economic conditions that face businesses and their employees; the Armed Services Committee, where he continues to enhance our Nation's defense security; and the Subcommittee on Health, Employment, Labor and Pension, where he is working for our Nation's health security.

Joe believes in a 21st Century Agenda for Opportunity that restores the American Dream by ensuring economic, health, defense, environment/energy and education security so that families can get to work restoring their opportunity for a stronger future. It involves securing the middle class by closing income inequalities; creating an economy where entrepreneurship is the norm not the exception; a healthcare system that is not only affordable and accessible, but one that spurs innovation rather than inefficiency; a national security strategy that makes all of our other goals possible; an energy plan that creates jobs and new industries; and an education plan that ensures a young person can expect a more prosperous life than the generation before.

Information about Government Assistance and Grants

The Pennsylvania 7th Congressional District Federal and State Grants & Resources Directory is a guide published and updated by Congressman Sestak's office to aid constituents and organizations through federal funding assistance and grant processes. The below information summarizes some key terms, grant basics, federal and state grant sources, private funding sources, and other resources. The entire directory is available in searchable PDF format online at http://www.sestak.house.gov/services2.shtml., and is updated every February. We encourage you to attend the meetings held for municipalities, first responders, private organizations, and individuals to describe how to use the directory, which are usually held in February.

General Guide to Government Funding Assistance

Individual benefits: Individual benefits are often called "entitlements," and include Social Security benefits, Medicare, VA benefits, etc. For more information or assistance with these benefits, contact the Congressman's District Office at 610-892-8623 or mail to 600 N. Jackson Street, Suite 203, Media, PA 19063 or visit <a href="http://www.govbenefits.gov/govben

Appropriations: Often referred to as "earmarks," appropriations are usually large projects that are specifically placed in appropriations bills for limited purposes (i.e. not on-going operations). Forms to apply for an appropriation are available beginning in January by visiting http://www.sestak.house.gov/fed.doc or contacting the District Office at 610-892-8623 or by mail at 600 N. Jackson Street, Suite 203, Media, PA 19063. The forms must be completed and returned to the District Office by the designated deadline (usually the end of February). Appropriations are approved once the appropriation bill containing it passes both houses and is signed by the President. This can happen as early as late fall, but in the last several decades, the process has often extended to the end of the year, and in some cases into the beginning of the next year. It should also be noted that recent actions by Congress have dramatically cut funds available for appropriations.

Grants: As the amount of money going to appropriations has decreased, more money has been funneled into the competitive grant process. Federal grant dollars are designated for federally administered grants, but large block grants are also given to states and local governments to administer. Even though a grant may come from a Pennsylvania department, quite often the source of the funding is a federal block grant. In addition to government grant money, hundreds of foundations and individuals offer grant opportunities and these should not be overlooked.

Procurement: Whether you are a small or large company, there are often government procurement opportunities available to you. One way to learn more about the procurement process is to attend the yearly PA 7th District's procurement summit. This event brings together government procurement officials, large government contractors, and area businesses to provide educational and networking opportunities, facilitating regional access to federal procurement dollars. If you are interested in attending, please state so in an email by visiting http://www.sestak.house.gov/IMA/issue_subscribe.shtml or contact the District Office at 610-892-8623 or by mail at 600 N. Jackson Street, Suite 203, Media, PA 19063 to ensure you are on the notification list for this event. In the meantime, visit the Businesses and Non-Profits tab of http://www.usa.gov/ or https://www.fbo.gov/ to learn more about the federal government procurement process. Additional assistance is available through the Procurement Technical Assistance Centers. To find the center closest to you, contact Clyde Stoltzfus at 215-898-1219 or clydes@wharton.upenn.edu.

Grant Basics

- 1. Determine your need and formulate a plan for implementation.
- Search or browse the federal, state, and private catalogs for potential grant opportunities that fit you need. This may require some creative thinking. Often grant solicitations will describe what they do not want, but will not fully explain what they will accept.
- 3. Once you have identified potential funding sources, it is often recommended that you contact the grant technician at the granting source to discuss the application process and how best to present your grant request in a way that maximizes the chances of award selection.
- 4. Check the sites weekly for new grant postings.
- 5. Learn how to write grant proposals. (see below for grant writing resources)

Other Resources

Federal Trade Commission (FTC) Consumer Alert (http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/consumer/alerts/alt134.shtm)

Ads claiming federal grants are available for home repairs, home business, and unpaid bills are often a scam. Most sources of grants do not give money to individuals for personal need (except in disaster situations). The FTC, the Nation's Consumer Protection Agency, also warns consumers to beware of paying "processing fees" for free information.

OMB establishes government-wide grants management policies and guidelines through circulars and common rules. OMB Circulars are cited in Catalog program descriptions and may be printed out full text.

7th Congressional District Resources Directory

In addition to the Grant Directory, organizations seeking funding should review the 7th Congressional District Resource Directory for the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA or Recovery Act), available online at http://www.sestak.house.gov.

This directory is updated weekly and provides detailed information on the provisions of the ARRA, and includes contact information and websites for programs. It is organized by government agency.

In many cases, ARRA provides additional funding for existing programs at the Federal and State levels. In light of this, if you are interested in applying for funding, you should visit the Federal Agency to which you would normally apply for funds.

For new programs, detailed implementation plans may not yet be available, but the website locations are provided for future reference.

How to Locate and Use the 7th Congressional Resource Directory:

- Visit http://www.sestak.house.gov
- Scroll down to "Pennsylvania 7th Congressional District American Recover and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) Resource Directory"
- Open PDF, "Resource Directory"
- With any questions, please contact my District Office at 610-892-8623.
