PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 1293 was introduced by Representative Steve Buyer of Indiana, the Ranking Member of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs, on March 4, 2009. H.R. 1293, the Disabled Veterans Home Improvement and Structural Alteration Grant Increase Act of 2009, would increase the amount the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is authorized to pay under the Home Improvements and Structural Alterations (HISA) program from $4,100 to $6,800 for veterans with service-connected disabilities and from $1,200 to $2,000 for veterans with non-service-connected disabilities. The increase would become effective in the case of a veteran who first applied for a HISA grant on, or after, the date of enactment. H.R. 1293 would also clarify that a veteran who received the maximum amount of reimbursement under the law before enactment would not be entitled to additional monetary benefits.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

HISA grants are furnished through the Veterans Health Administration of the VA as part of home health services for the purpose of providing access to or within the home for the continuation of treatment for the veterans' disability. The benefit is paid from the Medical Services appropriation account and is available to both veterans with service-connected and non-service-connected disabilities. Typically, HISA grants are used for such things as widening doors; putting in handrails or special lighting; making kitchens, bathrooms, windows, or electrical outlets and switches more accessible; and, building ramps or improving entrance paths and driveways.

The HISA grant is distinct from the Specially Adapted Housing (SAH) program and Special Home Adaptation (SHA) grants which are administered through the Veterans Benefits Administration of the VA and available to veterans with service-connected disabilities. A service-disabled veteran may receive both a HISA grant and either an SAH or SHA grant.

The HISA program was first authorized in 1973 by Public Law 93-82 (87 Stat. 179). The program was created out of concern that veterans could not be discharged from hospitals because their homes were not able to accommodate their disabilities. An amendment to clarify the projects that could receive HISA grants was enacted in 1976 by Public Law 94-581 (90 Stat. 2842). The law also created a distinction between the lifetime grant ceiling for service-connected and non-service-connected veterans in the amount of $2,500 and $600, respectively.

In 1992, Public Law 102-405 (106 Stat. 1984) increased the lifetime benefit limit from $2,500 to $4,100 for service-connected veterans and from $600 to $1,200 for non-service-connected veterans.

The HISA grant ceiling has not been raised in 17 years, yet the cost of home modifications have increased over the same period. In addition, there is a new generation of veterans from Operation Enduring Freedom (OEF) and Operation Iraqi Freedom (OIF) returning home.

A June 12, 2008, joint Department of Defense (DoD) and VA Inspectors Generals review of the care transition process for injured OEF/OIF servicemembers found that continuity of care was hindered by the inability of an injured active duty servicemember to obtain a HISA grant prior to discharge. Responding to this need, Public Law 110-289 (122 Stat. 2654), was enacted to allow VA to provide such grants to eligible servicemembers prior to their discharge from military service.

VA is seeing an increasing number of service-connected veterans using the HISA grant with a marked 19.6 percent increase from fiscal year 2007 to fiscal year 2008. VA expects that the trend will continue to grow at an average increase of 1.4 percent per year.

Increasing the HISA grant amount would help veterans with a wide range of disabilities make much needed home alterations to use essential living areas, such as kitchens, bathrooms and bedrooms.

H.R. 1293 would increase the maximum amount of the grants to $6,800 for service-connected veterans and $2,000 for non-service-connected veterans. The proposed increase reflects three percent for each year since 1992 to account for inflation and would provide a reasonable amount for the type of home modifications intended in this title.

H.R. 1293—Disabled Veterans Home Improvement and Structural Alteration Grant Increase Act of 2009

H.R. 1293 would increase the maximum grant amounts awarded to certain disabled veterans. Those grants are used to improve access to homes and to essential sanitary facilities. CBO estimates that implementing the bill would cost $20 million over the 2010–2014 period, assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts. Enacting the bill would not affect direct spending or revenues.

Under current law, the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) may award a maximum of $4,100 to veterans with service-connected disabilities and $1,200 to veterans with nonservice-connected disabilities. The bill would increase those maximum allowable amounts to $6,800 and $2,000, respectively. Based on data from VA on the number and dollar amounts of grants awarded over the 2003–2008 period, CBO estimates that under the bill almost 2,000 veterans with service-connected disabilities would receive an additional $1,900 each year and almost 700 veterans with nonservice-connected disabilities would receive an additional $760 each year, for an annual cost of $4 million.

H.R. 1293 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would not affect the budgets of state, local, or tribal governments.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Sunita D'Monte. The estimate was approved by Theresa Gullo, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

The Committee adopts as its own the estimate of Federal mandates regarding H.R. 1293 prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office pursuant to section 423 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE STATEMENT

No advisory committees within the meaning of section 5(b) of the Federal Advisory Committee Act would be created by H.R. 1293.

CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY STATEMENT

Pursuant to clause 3(d)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee finds that the Constitutional authority for H.R. 1293 is provided by Article I, section 8 of the Constitution of the United States.
