HYDE COMMENTS ON PASSING OF FORMER U.S. AMBASSADOR TO UNITED NATIONS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Upon learning of the death of former United States Ambassador to the United Nations Jeane Kirkpatrick, Chairman of the House Committee on International Relations Henry J. Hyde (R-IL) made the following statement:

Jeane was a strong voice for sanity in some of the most treacherous times in our Nation's history. As a prominent American diplomat, scholar and educator, she continued to shape our country's foreign policies even after her service to our Nation as National Security Advisor and Ambassador to the United Nations had ended. Her legacy will live on for a long time to come.
