Dear Friend:

Welcome to our nation's capital city!

Enclosed you will find information on numerous sights, as well as maps to help you have an enjoyable stay in Washington, D.C. Many of these activities are free of charge. I hope you will find this information useful as you plan your trip.

In these pages, I have marked several destinations I personally recommend. Also, if you're in town while the House and Senate are in session, I hope you will have time to join me for a unique tradition, the Nebraska Breakfast. See the "Capitol Hill" page for more details.

I welcome you to stop by my office and take a look around. My staff and I will be happy to show you the Capitol building and grounds as well as answer any questions you may have about Washington, D.C.

I look forward to your visit!

HISTORIC AREAS

GEORGETOWN

Georgetown is over 300 years old, making it the oldest neighborhood in Washington. Once a busy tobacco port, it is where George Washington planned our nation's capitol. Francis Scott Key, who wrote "The Star Spangled Banner," lived and practiced law here. As a Senator, John F. Kennedy lived here as well. The closest metro stop is Foggy Bottom, a 5 - 10 block walk.

C&O Canal

This canal, which stretches from Georgetown to Cumberland, Maryland, was built to link the resources from rural areas to the cities of the East. Coal, grain and lumber were transported into Georgetown by mule-drawn barges until 1924.

Georgetown University

Founded in 1789 by John Carroll and the Society of Jesuits, a worldwide order of Catholic priests. George Washington visited the oldest surviving building on the campus, Old North. Built in 1795, the building housed his grandnephews, Augustine and Bushrod. Today Georgetown University is the oldest Catholic university in the United States, ranking among the most distinguished educational institutions in the nation.

Embassy Row

Massachusetts Avenue between Dupont Circle and Observatory Circle, north of Georgetown. Mansions of wealthy Washington socialites before the 1930s, these edifices now house many foreign embassies and chanceries.

OLD TOWN ALEXANDRIA

Scottish tobacco merchants founded Alexandria in 1749. Old Town originally was a part of DC until 1846 when the town became a part of Virginia. In the 1980's Old Town re-cobble stoned the streets, rebricked the sidewalks, installed gardens and patios and restored over 1,000 historic facades. Old Town is a wonderful place to shop, dine and enjoy Virginia's famous hospitality. From the King Street Metro Stop walk East on King Street.

Christ Church

118 N. Washington Street, at Cameron Street. This redbrick Colonial building with a domed steeple and quiet, shady cemetery was the place of worship for George Washington and Robert E. Lee. Open Monday - Friday 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., Sunday 9 a.m. - noon, and 2 p.m. - 4:40 p.m. Guided tours are free.

Carlyle House

121 North Fairfax Street. The home of Scottish merchant John Carlyle showcases Alexandria's rich history. The house is patterned after 18th century Scottish and northern English homes. Open Tuesday - Saturday 10 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Sunday noon - 4:30 p.m. Tours given on the ½ hour. Admission $3, seniors and students $1, under 10 free.

OTHER POINTS OF INTEREST

Call (202) 537-6200 for service times open to the public.

HELPFUL HINTS

Call the Washington office well in advance for help in planning your trip to Washington, D.C. Passes to the Capitol Gallery are limited and given out on a first-come, first-serve basis. Some attractions are booked months in advance.

Try to be realistic about what you can see and do on a short trip. Purchase a good guidebook and Washington, D.C. street map. Read ahead of time about places you plan on visiting.

Due to the events of 9/11 some buildings and attractions in Washington are no longer giving tours or have scaled back tour schedules. It is always a good idea to call ahead to each place you plan on visiting.

While walking around D.C., pack a small bag with snacks, water, juice, hand wipes, notebook, pen, camera, extra film, raincoats and umbrellas that easily fold up.

During the summer months plan on numerous water breaks, as D.C. can get very hot and humid.

Carry plenty of loose change and small monetary bills for Metro fares, snacks, drinks and taxi rides.

Cabs are fast and reliable. Make sure to agree to a fare before you start your ride as D.C. cabs work on a zone system and not a fare system.

Take advantage of the many free concerts, lectures, and activities in D.C. A wonderful place for updated information is through the Washington Post's website at www.washingtonpost.com.

As in any city in America, be aware of your surroundings and safety. Travel only in well-lit areas after dark. Carry your purse close to your body and your wallet in a front pocket. If possible, carry a fanny-pack or backpack instead.

The District has limited parking and you will have to pay a great deal of money to park your car in a garage or lot. There is some street parking, but you can only park for up to 2 hours. It is much easier to use D.C.'s cheap, clean and safe public transportation system than to drive, especially when traveling downtown.
