

Republican Budget Would Be Devastating for Minnesota Women

Senate Democrats are working to provide a fair shot for everyone to succeed by creating good paying jobs and opportunity for working women. Instead of protecting programs critical to women across the country, Republicans have again introduced a budget that would take an enormous toll on women by cutting the services they rely on for their health and the health of their children.¹

3,393 fewer Minnesota women could be screened for cancer. The Republican budget would cut funding for the National Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Detection Program, which helps low-income, uninsured, or underinsured women gain access to diagnostic services like clinical breast examinations, mammograms, pap tests, and pelvic examinations. The deep cuts in the Republican budget could result in Minnesota receiving $855,028 less funding. [P.L. 113-76; CDC, accessed 4/11/14; DPCC Calculations Based on Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health, and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies FY12 Levels, 7/25/12]

22,432 fewer children could receive life-saving vaccinations. Grants for childhood immunizations help to purchase and distribute vaccines for poor and uninsured children. The Republican budget could cut $1,532,601 in funding for life-saving vaccinations in Minnesota. [P.L. 113-76; CDC, accessed 4/11/14; DPCC Calculations Based on Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health, and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies FY12 Levels, 7/25/12]

Reproductive health programs in Minnesota could be cut by $556,872. The Republican budget could cut $556,872 in services funding for the Title X family planning program in Minnesota, which provided access to contraceptives supplies, reproductive health information and counseling, breast and pelvic examinations, breast and cervical cancer screening, STD and HIV prevention education, and pregnancy counseling to 52,242 women in 2012 alone. [P.L. 113-76; HHS accessed 2/26/13; HHS, 11/12/12]

Over 754,000 women in Minnesota will lose access to health benefits. The Republican budget repeals the Affordable Care Act, eliminating health insurance coverage and new benefits for millions of Americans and jeopardizing their access to stable, secure, affordable care. 754,000 women and 553,000 children in Minnesota would have a lifetime limit on their coverage under the Republican budget. [White House blog, 3/5/12]

32,122 fewer women and children could have access to maternal and child health services in Minnesota. The Maternal and Child Health Block grant helps states provide critical maternal and child health services, including prenatal care, well-child services, and other services through clinics, home visits, and school-based health programs. The Republican budget could cut $1,572,941 million in funding from Minnesota, resulting in 32,122 fewer women and children served. [P.L. 113-76; HRSA, accessed on 4/11/14; DPCC Calculations Based on Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health, and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies FY12 Levels, 7/25/12]

¹ Reductions to discretionary programs are determined by calculating the percentage reduction from the nondefense budget authority provided under the Budget Control Act for FY16 before sequestration to the budget authority provided under the House Republican Budget in FY16, and applying that reduction (15 percent) to the most recent programmatic levels to illustrate potential differences.

290 fewer victims of domestic violence could be served through the STOP Violence Against Women Program. Funding for the STOP Violence Against Women Program helps states provide support services for victims of domestic violence. The Republican budget could cut $325,702 in funding from Minnesota, resulting in 290 fewer women and children served. Additionally, the Republican budget could cut $43,866 in funding to Minnesota, for the Sexual Assault Services program, which is dedicated to assisting victims of sexual assault through rape crisis centers and other programs. At the same time, because the Republican budget repeals the Affordable Care Act, insurance companies will again be able to say that being a victim of domestic violence or sexual assault is a "pre-existing condition" that will force women to pay more for their health insurance. [White House, 4/9/14; DOJ, accessed 4/11/14; NWLC, 12/5/13; New York Times, 6/1/08]

Millions more women will have to pay more for contraceptive coverage. The Republican Budget repeals the Affordable Care Act, which requires that insurance plans provide coverage without cost sharing for a variety of preventive health services, including cervical cancer and breast cancer screenings as well as contraceptive drugs. In 2013, more than 24 million more contraceptive prescriptions were filled without a co-pay than the previous year, resulting in savings to women throughout the country of more than $483 million. [IMS Institute for Healthcare Informatics, 4/9/14; USAToday, 4/16/14]