

Republican Budget Would Be Devastating for Kansas Women

Senate Democrats have introduced a budget that cuts wasteful spending, invests in what the economy needs to grow, and protects programs critical to women across the country. Meanwhile, Republicans have again introduced a budget that would take an enormous toll on the nation's women, cutting the services they rely on for their health and the health of their children.

1,632 fewer Kansas women will be screened for cancer. The Republican budget would cut funding for the National Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Detection Program, which helps low-income, uninsured, or underinsured women gain access to diagnostic services like clinical breast examinations, mammograms, pap tests, and pelvic examinations. The deep cuts in the Republican budget could result in Kansas receiving $411,100 less funding. CDC, accessed [12/17/12; DPCC Calculations Based on Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health, and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies, 7/25/12]

4,497 fewer children will receive life-saving vaccinations. Grants for childhood immunizations help to purchase and distribute vaccines for poor and uninsured children. The Republican budget could cut $307,329 in funding for life-saving vaccinations in Kansas. CDC, accessed [12/17/12; DPCC Calculations Based on Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health, and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies, 7/25/12]

Reproductive health programs in Kansas could be cut by $492,412. The Republican budget could cut $492,412 in services funding for the Title X family planning program in Kansas, which provides access to contraceptive supplies, reproductive health information and counseling, breast and pelvic examinations, breast and cervical cancer screening, STD and HIV prevention education, and pregnancy counseling to 35,597 women in 2011 alone. HHS accessed [2/26/13; HHS, 11/12/12; Family Planning Coalition, 12/21/12; DPCC Calculations Based on CBPP, 3/14/13]

Over 374,000 women in Kansas will lose access to health benefits. The Republican budget repeals the Affordable Care Act, eliminating health insurance coverage and new benefits for millions of Americans and jeopardizing their access to stable, secure, affordable care. 374,000 women and 279,000 children in Kansas would have a lifetime limit on their coverage under the Republican budget. White House blog, [3/5/12]

44,878 fewer women and children will have access to maternal and child health services in Kansas. The Maternal and Child Health Block Grant program helps states provide critical maternal and child health services, including prenatal care, well child services, and other services through clinics, home visits, and school-based health programs. The Republican budget would cut $0.8 million in funding from Kansas, resulting in 44,878 fewer women and children served. HRSA, accessed on [3/19/13; DPCC Calculations Based on Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health, and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies, 7/25/12]