Taxpayers Should Not Fund Liberal News Organizations

From Congressman Lamar Smith's remarks on the House floor...

"Since 2002, over $362 million dollars in government grants have gone to fund a liberal news organization by the name of Internews.

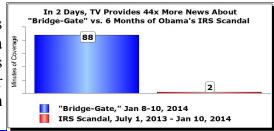

The Business and Media Institute describes Internews as a liberal journalism nonprofit and states that not only does it push a liberal agenda but it also has helped create at least three other liberal organizations.

Why are taxpayers' dollars subsidizing a liberal news outlet? This is a misuse of the public's money. People need unbiased information so that they can form their own opinions and make educated decisions. One of the greatest challenges a democratic America faces today is a biased media. It is inexcusable and irresponsible for the federal government to give any of the American taxpayers' dollars to a liberal media organization."

'Bridgegate' Receives 44 Times More Coverage Than IRS

From the Media Research Center...

"In less than 48 hours, ABC, CBS and NBC deluged viewers with coverage of Chris Christie's traffic jam scandal, devoting a staggering 88 minutes to the story. In comparison, these same news outlets over the last six months have allowed a scant two minutes for the latest on [the] Internal Revenue Service scandal. The disparity in less than two days is 44-to-one."

'Journalism Has Died' at the New York Times

From the Daily Caller...

"[A recent Senate report] found that the attacks [on Benghazi] were preventable...[However, a New York Times article from December concluded that after] 'months of investigation...' there was 'no evidence that Al Qaeda or other international terrorist groups had any role in the assault.'

[To this article, Senator Lindsay Graham proclaimed], 'To my friends at the New York Times: Journalism has died at this paper...' Senator John McCain also lit into the New York Times in a floor speech, referring to the paper as 'the surrogate of the Obama administration.'"

Times' Abramson: 'No Question' Editorial Stance is Liberal

New York Times' Executive Editor Jill Abramson was interviewed on a multitude of topics about the Times, including if the paper has a liberal bias. She was asked, "The New York Times is often labeled as left-wing, liberal. How do you respond to that?" She answered that the Times has a "cosmopolitan outlook towards the world and to this country and this city" and later conceded that, "There's no question that the editorial stance of The New York Times is a liberal point of view."

Networks Rush to Label McDonnell a Republican

From NewsBusters...

"Less than 24-hours after former Gov. Bob McDonnell was indicted...all three networks immediately identified McDonnell as a Republican. The media failed to uphold the same party ID standard when it involved scandal plagued Democratic Gov. [Elliot Spitzer]...In March 2008, Spitzer was identified as 'Client Number 9' in a prostitution ring, but for two straight days ABC and NBC failed to label Spitzer as a Democrat."
