PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 113th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 159

WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, JULY 19, 2013

No. 104

House of Representatives

The House met at 9 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend Patrick J. Conroy, offered the following prayer: Compassionate and merciful God, we give You thanks for giving us another day.

As this House comes together at the end of the week, bless the work of its Members.

Give them strength, fortitude, and patience. Fill their hearts with charity, their minds with understanding, their wills with courage to do the right thing for all of America.

The work that they have is difficult work. May they rise together to accomplish what is best for our great Nation and, indeed, for all the world, for You have blessed us with many graces and given us the responsibility of being a light shining on a hill.

May all that is done this day be for Your greater honor and glory.
Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to clause 1, rule I, I demand a vote on agreeing to the Speaker's approval of the Journal.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the Speaker's approval of the Journal.

The question was taken; and the Speaker announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER. Pursuant to clause 8, rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. WELCH) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. WELCH led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair will entertain up to five requests for 1-minute speeches on each side of the aisle.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE FURLOUGHS

(Mr. WITTMAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WITTMAN. Mr. Speaker, this week, our civilian defense employees are at their desks, working fervently, after staying home for their first furlough day last week. Now they're having to take a furlough day each week for the next 11 weeks.

I have talked with folks in my district who are, to say the least, frustrated as our Nation and they are deeply, deeply affected by these furloughs. As one constituent said, they are "being held hostage."

The United States is the greatest Nation in the world and has the greatest military the world has ever known because we have citizens dedicated to serve—dedicated in spite of a lack of true leadership in Washington.

While the administration had other choices rather than to furlough these essential employees, they chose instead to make a political statement on the backs of our fellow citizens to spread the pain far and wide. Our Nation's defense will undoubtedly suffer.

I continue to urge the administration to utilize the flexibility it has, and I urge Congress to get to work on our Nation's defense legislation.

BRANDON WEBB

(Mr. BARROW of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BARROW of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to thank a longtime staff member in my office, Brandon Webb.

After more than 6 years of service to the people of Georgia's 12th District, Brandon left my office to serve as legislative director for Congresswoman ROBIN KELLY of Illinois.

Brandon joined my staff in 2007 as a staff assistant, and climbed through the ranks to serve as senior legislative assistant. Brandon played an important role in crafting legislation, including a bill to cut the Federal vehicle fleet, saving the Federal Government over $500 million; and he helped our communities by organizing free health fairs for families in the 12th District so they could get the care they need.

I would like to congratulate Brandon on his promotion with Congresswoman KELLY. I also congratulate him and his new bride, Sabrina, on their recent marriage.

I am honored to have had the privilege to work with Brandon, and on behalf of the people in Georgia he served for over 6 years, I would like to thank him for his hard work and dedication.

CHILDREN DESERVE QUALITY EDUCATION

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, our education system needs reform for America's children.

For far too long, we have watched as government red tape and regulations have robbed our youth from learning the skills necessary to succeed. Children deserve better than ineffective, status quo education practices. We must empower those who know what's best for our children rather than continue the tradition of Big Government mandates.

House Republicans, led by Education Chairman JOHN KLINE, have a plan to reform our education system with commonsense solutions. By removing the power of government bureaucracy and by empowering locally elected school boards, our teachers, parents, and local leaders, we will have the opportunity to develop a working educational plan to help our children succeed.

As the House votes on the Student Success Act today, it is my hope that Members from both sides of the aisle will join together and support this legislation for the sake of our children's future.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September the 11th in the global war on terrorism.

THE REALITY OF CLIMATE CHANGE

(Mr. WELCH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WELCH. Mr. Speaker, climate change is real. The future damage that will be done if we fail to address it is foreseeable and predictable.

We are living through an extended period of radical weather. The weather systems of 2012 produced the secondmost damaging infliction to the economy in the history of our country—$115 billion—much of it from Hurricane Sandy, much of it from an extended drought. Sea levels are rising. This is measurable. This is not debatable. It is fact.

What we are doing in this Congress is arguing about energy policy, but we are having that argument in the context of denying that the failure to address climate change won't have serious economic and social implications. Sea levels are rising. The damage to our Treasury is rising. The suffering of our people is real. So it is absolutely essential that the House of Representatives acknowledge the reality of climate change and include that in its debate on energy policy.

LANCASTER HEROES

(Mr. PITTS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, today, I come to the floor to recognize two young heroes from Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

Last week, a young 5-year-old girl, Jocelyn Rojas, was abducted from her front yard by a stranger, an older man, who turned out to be a previously convicted sex offender.

The police and folks across the neighborhood quickly organized a search. Tamar Boggs and Chris Garcia set out on their bikes with other friends, and when the boys spotted a suspicious car wandering through their development, they checked it out and saw the young girl inside. They relentlessly chased the driver on their bikes for 15 furious minutes. In recognizing that the boys wouldn't give up, the man let Jocelyn out of the car and drove away. She immediately ran to the boys, asking for her mother, and they safely took her back home.

While they may not think of themselves as heroes, they certainly are. Thanks to Tamar and Chris, Jocelyn is home, and the suspect is now in custody.

PROPHETSTOWN FIRE

(Mrs. BUSTOS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. BUSTOS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak about the terrible fire earlier this week that destroyed much of Prophetstown, Illinois—a small town in Whiteside County, Illinois, that I have the honor of representing.

The blaze destroyed nearly all of downtown and disrupted the lives of so many people living and working in this northwestern Illinois town full of caring people. Several families of this town of more than 2,000 people lost all of their possessions, not to mention their livelihoods.

Angie Stegmiller lost everything she owned in the fire, including precious knickknacks that were handed down from her grandparents. Her cats are still missing. As Angie said, "It's not the stuff. It's the memories behind the stuff." She is still holding out hope that her cats will return.

The community's response to the fire should serve as an inspiration to all. Residents are coming together to help one another through this. The Methodist church has received so many food donations that its freezers are overfilled. Neighbors are helping neighbors clean up the rubble and are turning over spare bedrooms and bathrooms to those who are temporarily homeless. Residents have begun the slogan "Prophetstown Strong" to refer to the resiliency of this community.

I have no doubt that, due to the spirit and resolve of the citizens of Prophetstown, this town will recover and be stronger.

FOR HARDWORKING AMERICANS

(Mr. BENTIVOLIO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BENTIVOLIO. Mr. Speaker, we've had a few acrimonious weeks over the last month, but, today, I want to talk about something that crosses the partisan divide, something that makes this country go. Whether you're a Republican or a Democrat, it's undeniable that the ethic of hard work is the glue that binds our Nation together, and when we go back and forth, yelling at each other, we in Congress tend to forget that.

Our task is to promote legislation that leads our country into the 21st century.

As Congress prepares to take up some major issues, we must keep in mind that the people of this Nation want solutions, solutions that empower them to achieve their American Dream. We must remember what keeps this country together. We must strive valiantly and dare greatly, and we must develop solutions that promote hard work and an honest wage.

LET'S GET AMERICA BACK TO WORK

(Mr. CICILLINE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. CICILLINE. Mr. Speaker, since taking control of the House of Representatives, House Republicans have held 39 separate votes that would undermine all or part of the Affordable Care Act. What is most unfortunate is that, in those 2½ years, the House Republican leadership has refused to work across the aisle with Democrats to put people back to work and pass a comprehensive jobs bill, a bill that would help middle class families.

It's time for the House Republican leadership to put away political slogans and partisan gamesmanship and to get serious about governing.

Let's focus on rebuilding the crumbling infrastructure of our country so we can move goods, services, and information to compete in a 21st century economy. Let's harness American innovation and support the resurgence of American manufacturing by taking up the Make It In America agenda of the Democratic Caucus. Let's also protect young people and families from rising interest rates on student loans.

Mr. Speaker, let's stop wasting time, and let's get America back to work.

IN HONOR OF THE SERVICE OF TOM PRICE

(Mr. GOSAR asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. GOSAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize a distinguished leader who has earned the respect of everyone who knows him, Mr. Tom Price. Tom has lived in the Kingman area for almost 30 years and is married to Ada Calderon Mora. Together, they have six children and four grandsons.

Tom is a successful attorney who is happy to advise anyone on one's legal situation. He is a critical thinker—the kind of man who is able to take a complex situation, simplify it and put it into a context that is usable, workable, and solvable. Tom has that gift. He serves on several boards in the community, but, today, I honor him for his service to the Kingman Chamber of Commerce.

He has served in each of the executive officer positions within the Kingman Chamber of Commerce, and is serving in his last year as immediate past chairman. He is the chairman of the Business and Government Committee, which concentrates on educating the community on political issues and candidates.

Tom, thank you for your work and for your dedication to our community. I truly believe that the entire Kingman area is a better place to live in because of you.

For a life that has included more than 30 years of service, I am pleased to recognize Tom Price, in this great body, as a true American and a leader for the businessmen and -women of Kingman, Arizona.

SUPPORTING FEDERAL FUNDING FOR SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

(Mr. McNERNEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. McNERNEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to bring your attention to the development of an exciting new fabric that was recently created by biomedical engineers at the University of California at Davis—a fabric that drives moisture away.

Two graduate students, Siyuan Xing and Jia Jiang, at the Micro-Nano Innovations Laboratory, led by Professor Tingrui Pan, with the financial support of the National Science Foundation, developed a textile that stays dry by forming moisture into droplets that drain away by attaching a network of water-attracting threads to water-repellent fabric.

Now, discoveries like these have led to significant advances in a variety of applications. This project could be used to develop and improve active gear; but, more significantly, it is likely to be developed in the materials that will help our firefighters and our troops stay cool while in the field or that will help astronauts conserve precious liquids while in space.

I am proud to support Federal funding for scientific research, and I urge my colleagues to do the same.

STUDENT SUCCESS ACT

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. RODNEY DAVIS of Illinois). Pursuant to House Resolution 303 and rule XVIII, the Chair declares the House in the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the bill, H.R. 5.

Will the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. COLLINS) kindly take the chair.

IN THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Accordingly, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the bill (H.R. 5) to support State and local accountability for public education, protect State and local authority, inform parents of the performance of their children's schools, and for other purposes, with Mr. COLLINS of Georgia (Acting Chair) in the chair.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The Acting CHAIR. When the Committee of the Whole rose on Thursday, July 18, 2013, amendment No. 21 printed in House Report 113-158 offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. BROWN), had been disposed of.

AMENDMENT NO. 22 OFFERED BY MR. CULBERSON

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 22 printed in House Report 113-158.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

“SEC. 5561. STATES TO RETAIN RIGHTS AND AUTHORITIES THEY DO NOT EXPRESSLY WAIVE.

“(a) RETENTION OF RIGHTS AND AUTHORITIES.—No officer, employee, or other authority of the Secretary shall enforce against an authority of a State, nor shall any authority of a State have any obligation to obey, any requirement imposed as a condition of receiving assistance under a grant program established under this Act, nor shall such program operate within a State, unless the legislature of that State shall have by law expressly approved that program and, in doing so, have waived the State's rights and authorities to act inconsistently with any requirement that might be imposed by the Secretary as a condition of receiving that assistance.

“(b) AMENDMENT OF TERMS OF RECEIPT OF FEDERAL FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE.—An officer, employee, or other authority of the Secretary may release assistance under a grant program established under this Act to a State only after the legislature of the State has by law expressly approved the program (as described in subsection (a)). This approval may be accomplished by a vote to affirm a State budget that includes the use of such Federal funds and any such State budget must expressly include any requirement imposed as a condition of receiving assistance under a grant program established under this Act so that by approving the budget, the State legislature is expressly approving the grant program and, in doing so, waiving the State's rights and authorities to act inconsistently with any requirement that might be imposed by the Secretary as a condition of receiving that assistance.

“(c) SPECIAL RULE FOR STATES WITH BIENNIAL LEGISLATURES.—In the case of a State with a biennial legislature—

“(1) during a year in which the State legislature does not meet, subsections (a) and (b) shall not apply; and

“(2) during a year in which the State legislature meets, subsections (a) and (b) shall apply, and, with respect to any grant program established under this Act during the most recent year in which the State legislature did not meet, the State may by law expressly disapprove the grant program, and, if such disapproval occurs, an officer, employee, or other authority of the Secretary may not release any additional assistance to the State under that grant program.

“(d) DEFINITION OF STATE AUTHORITY.—As used in this section, the term ‘authority of a State’ includes any administering agency of the State, any officer or employee of the State, and any local government authority of the State.

“(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section applies in each State beginning on the 90th day after the end of the first regular session of the legislature of that State that begins 5 years after the date of the enactment of the Student Success Act and shall continue to apply in subsequent years until otherwise provided by law.

“SEC. 5562. DEDICATION OF SAVINGS TO DEFICIT REDUCTION.

“Notwithstanding any formula reallocations stipulated under the Student Success Act, any funds under such Act not allocated to a State because a State did not affirmatively agree to the receipt of such funds shall not be reallocated among the States.

“SEC. 5563. DEFINITION OF STATE WITH BIENNIAL LEGISLATURE.

“SEC. 5564. INTENT OF CONGRESS.

“It is the intent of Congress that other than the terms and conditions expressly approved by State law under the terms of this subpart, control over public education and parental rights to control the education of their children are vested exclusively within the autonomous zone of independent authority reserved to the States and individual Americans by the United States Constitution, other than the Federal Government's undiminishable obligation to enforce minimum Federal standards of equal protection and due process.”

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 303, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CULBERSON) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

My amendment will restore state sovereignty over public education and restore parental rights over the education of their children by restoring the State legislature's power to accept or reject Federal education grant dollars.

I've worked closely with the committee to ensure that this amendment supports the goals of local control and flexibility as promoted by H.R. 5, and I sincerely appreciate Chairman KLINE's support of this important amendment, as well as his continued leadership to improve our Nation's education system.

State legislatures, Mr. Chairman, should have the ability to make an informed decision regarding Federal grant dollars just as a patient consents to a medical procedure after a doctor explains the risks and benefits.

I'm grateful for RSC Tenth Amendment Task Force Chairman ROB BISHOP's support and co-authorship of legislation we filed in this regard and the support of the National Taxpayers Union and the Council for Citizens Against Government Waste because my amendment will actually ensure that if State legislatures reject the grant dollars, they will be dedicated to reducing the deficit and paying off our outstanding national debt.

Finally, it should be noted that the Congressional Budget Office indicates that my amendment will have no impact on directed spending.

I want to thank Chairman KLINE again for his support and urge my colleagues to support both my amendment and the underlying bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chair, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Massachusetts is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I oppose this amendment because it endangers education funding for sort of a political exercise here.

This amendment would actually require State legislatures to approve every single grant program from the Department of Education before States receive the money. So taking the authority from the local communities, local education agencies, putting it back into the State malaise of legislative process is overly burdensome on States, creates a mountain of unnecessary paperwork, and delays students and schools from receiving the much-needed funding. And when the short-sighted State legislatures may refuse that funding, this amendment would take the money and send it back, returning it to the deficit, as opposed to its intended use, which is the education of disadvantaged students.

I sometimes wonder if my colleagues remember why the Federal Government is involved in education K-12 at all, and that is the mandated addressing of a shortage of attention to disadvantaged students.

This is just another attempt by the majority to slash education funding. Mr. Chair, it's not the time to play politics now. Now is the time to increase our investment in education and in our children so that we can be competitive and so that they can have an opportunity moving forward.

This amendment is simply a distraction to the very real and very big problems that this entire bill, H.R. 5, has, and it lets students down. H.R. 5 guts education funding because it locks in that automatic cut of sequestration. It does nothing to ensure students improve learning, and it does nothing to ensure that they graduate from school. It lets students with disabilities be taught to a different, lower standard, and H.R. 5 block grants funds and forces States to give the money to private schools and for-profit companies instead of students.

For these reasons, Mr. Chairman, I urge that my colleagues vote "no" on this amendment, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CULBERSON. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I'd point out that the amendment, in fact, upholds our system of dual sovereignty and ensures local control over local dollars, and the legislatures will actually be able to conduct this vote as a part of their regular legislative proceedings during their annual budget vote.

As it says in the language itself, the vote will be taken by the State legislatures as a part of their budget vote. This is a vote they take as a part of their regular legislative session. It's no additional burden on the States. We are simply ensuring transparency and ensuring that the legislatures fully understand the implications of accepting the Federal dollars. Those dollars, for example, that Texas rejects, we want to make sure go toward deficit reduction and paying down the national debt.

It will be no additional burden on the states. In fact, this amendment will reaffirm and restore our Constitution system of dual sovereignty where the States retain a residuary and viable sovereignty over those issues that deal exclusively with the citizens of their own State.

I want to thank Chairman KLINE again for his support and urge Members to adopt this amendment and the underlying bill.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chair, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Look, I just want to give a little historical perspective to this again. The whole reason that the Federal Government is involved in K-12 education is because States weren't doing the job when it came to addressing disadvantaged students. There was a judicial mandate that said that States had to step up and do that. They, the States, then had a problem with the fact of how much that was going to cost, so the Federal Government stepped forward and said you can have some Federal moneys if you do the job. So we've had that tension between how they'll do the job and how we'll hold them accountable for years.

But this notion of saying that the State government will now decide whether or not local communities will accept the grant—and if they don't, we're not going to apply that money to actually educating those children that are disadvantaged, we're going to toss it back into the Treasury—is no other than a way of cutting education funding. We don't need education cuts at this point in time. We need an investment in education.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Actually, the money will continue to flow to the States as it does today. The State law already sets up a mechanism for the money to flow through the States to local school districts. So that money will continue to flow. Also, under the language of my amendment, the Federal Government has an unshakeable obligation to ensure equal protection and due process.

So that 14th Amendment obligation on the Federal Government is undiminished and is expressly reaffirmed in my amendment so that there will be no discrimination nor imposition on every American's right to equal protection and due process.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TIERNEY. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chair, I don't want to beat a dead horse here, but simply the notion is that States that were already at fault for not doing the job, now get to not do the job again as long as their State legislatures are the ones that make the decision. The language doesn't make it quite as simple as to how they'll vote in the State legislature. There will be a delay, if it's done at all. And if a State should make the unwise decision, as they have done historically, which gave the reason for us being involved at all in the first place at the Federal level, then you're cutting education money; you're not applying it to the use of educating disadvantaged students.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I urge the House to adopt the amendment and support Chairman KLINE's underlying bill and move for passage.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CULBERSON).

The question was taken; and the Acting Chair announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas will be postponed.

AMENDMENT NO. 23 OFFERED BY MR. FITZPATRICK.

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 23 printed in House Report 113-158.

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

At the end of subpart 3 of part E of title V of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as proposed to be amended by section 501 of the bill, add the following new section:

“SEC. 5552. CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECKS.

“(a) CONDITION OF RECEIPT OF FUNDS.—A local educational agency or State educational agency shall be ineligible for funds under this Act if such agency—

“(1) employs an individual who—

“(A) refuses to consent to a criminal background check that includes—

“(i) a search of the State criminal registry or repository in the State where the individual resides and each State where such individual previously resided;

“(ii) a search of State-based child abuse and neglect registries and databases in the State where the individual resides and each State where such individual previously resided;

“(iii) a search of the National Crime Information Center;

“(iv) a Federal Bureau of Investigation fingerprint check using the Integrated Automated Fingerprint Identification System; and

“(v) a search of the National Sex Offender Registry established under the Adam Walsh Child Protection and Safety Act of 2006 (42 U.S.C. 16901 et seq.);

“(B) makes a false statement in connection with such criminal background check;

“(C) is registered or is required to be registered on a State sex offender registry or the National Sex Offender Registry established under the Adam Walsh Child Protection and Safety Act of 2006 (42 U.S.C. 16901 et seq.); or “(D) has been convicted of a felony consisting of—

“(i) homicide;

“(ii) child abuse or neglect;

“(iii) a crime against children, including child pornography;

“(iv) domestic violence;

“(v) a crime involving rape or sexual assault;

“(vi) kidnapping;

“(vii) arson; or

“(2) knowingly facilitates the transfer of an employee if the agency knows, or has probable cause to believe, that the employee engaged in sexual misconduct with a student.

“(b) FEES FOR BACKGROUND CHECKS.—The Attorney General or a State may charge any applicable fees for conducting a criminal background check under this section.”

At the end of the bill add the following:

TITLE VIII—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 801. FINDINGS; SENSE OF THE CONGRESS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds as follows:

(1) To avoid negative attention and litigation, some local educational agencies have entered into agreements with employees who are suspected of abusing or are known to have abused students.

(2) Instead of reporting sexual misconduct with minors to the proper authorities such as the police or child welfare services, under such agreements the local educational agencies, schools, and employees keep the information private and facilitate the employee’s transfer to another local educational agency.

(b) SENSE OF THE CONGRESS.—It is the sense of the Congress that—

(1) confidentiality agreements between local educational agencies or schools and suspected child sex abusers should be prohibited;

(2) the practice of employee transfers after suspected or proven sexual misconduct should be stopped, and States should require local educational agencies and schools to provide law enforcement with all information regarding sexual conduct between an employee and a minor; and

(3) Congress should help protect children and help stop this unacceptable practice in our schools.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 303, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. FITZPATRICK. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank the chairman of our committee, Mr. KLINE, for his important work on the Student Success Act.

This amendment, Mr. Chairman, is designed to stop the abhorrent practice in America’s schools known as “passing the trash.”

“Passing the trash” is a term used to describe those cases where school administrators deceitfully move to other school districts teachers who are known or suspected of being sexual predators.

The predator is allowed to resign their employment—often keep their teaching certificate—and move on to a new, unsuspecting school to continue their deplorable crimes. Sometimes they are moved with a recommendation of their previous employer.

The matter of passing the trash was first brought to my attention in 2006 when I learned of the story of 12-year-old Jeremy Bell, who was drugged, abused, and then murdered by his elementary school principal. Jeremy Bell’s principal had been passed between schools and school districts despite multiple allegations of sexual misconduct brought to the attention of school administrators and school boards.

Sadly, Jeremy’s story is not the only one of its kind. Reports show that nearly 10 percent of students are targets of educator sexual misconduct sometime during their school career.

These predators must be stopped.

This amendment would block State or local education agencies from receiving funds if they facilitate the transfer of an employee and they know or have probable cause to believe that the employee has engaged in sexual misconduct with a minor. Furthermore, the amendment would require the hiring of employees to be compliant with the Adam Walsh Child Protection and Safety Act background check requirements.

Teachers play an important part in the development of our children, and in doing so they shape the future of our Nation. Many of us are here today thanks to the devotion of a teacher or teachers who saw the potential in us and took it upon themselves to go above and beyond in our education.

We know that the overwhelming majority of educators are committed, caring individuals who are deeply invested in the development of their students. Because of this, we owe it to them to rid our schools of the bad actors. This amendment ensures that the days of sweeping child predators under the rug are over. By holding all educators to the very high standards set by their peers, we can ensure that quality education for all children will be a reality, while also doing everything we can to protect their innocence.

I urge my colleagues to vote “yes” on this amendment and on the underlying bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TIERNEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of amendment No. 8 offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

The Acting CHAIR. Without objection, the gentleman from Massachusetts is recognized for 5 minutes.

There was no objection.

Mr. TIERNEY. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the essence of this provision is included in the Democratic substitute amendment that Mr. MILLER is offering with the intent of protecting children’s safety in all the schools throughout the country. Mr. MILLER wants to thank the gentleman for joining the Democrats in this effort.

Congressman FITZPATRICK’S amendment would require all schools to conduct comprehensive background checks for all of their employees, including FBI fingerprint checks, State criminal records, child abuse registries, and the National Sex Offender Registry.

The amendment also includes a critical provision that denies Federal funds to schools from employing any individual who is found by these checks to be a potential danger to children. Schools would also lose Federal funds if they transfer such employee to another school, which unfortunately happens too many times.

Tragically, the abuse of students by trusted adults has become a regular occurrence. We read about students being abused in the headlines. Every child deserves a safe and abuse-free learning environment. That’s why we include a similar provision in the Democratic substitute and why earlier this session Mr. MILLER introduced a similar bill, the Protecting Students From Sexual and Violent Predators Act, H.R. 2083. That bill overwhelmingly passed the House in a bipartisan fashion just 2½ years ago.

Mr. MILLER’S bill and his amendment are stronger versions of Mr. FITZPATRICK’S amendment because his provisions also cover school contractors, and the checks also include any crime against a child, even if it’s a misdemeanor. But this amendment is a step in the right direction.

This amendment and these provisions are needed in Federal law, Mr. Chairman, because according to a recent General Accountability Office study conducted by Mr. MILLER’S office, State laws are inconsistent in their coverage of the types of checks, types of crimes covered, and the individuals who must be checked. Some States only check licensed employees, and some States don't check contractors, leading to some school districts unknowingly hiring offenders.

Children in school need to be safe from any adult who has access to them, regardless of their position.

The GAO investigations also highlighted a wide range of cases in numerous States where convicted sex offenders working in schools had previously targeted children. In other cases, the GAO found that districts knowingly passed a potential predator to another school district, allowing the offender to resign instead of reporting him. The inconsistencies and glaring holes in the way schools screen prospective employees lead to gaps in student protection and all too often to abuse.

A child's safety in school is too important to leave to chance. We must ensure all children, regardless of where they live, are free from the abuse of violent sexual predators. There is no place for this in our Nation's schools.

The vast majority of school staff is trustworthy and work hard every day to support students' learning needs. We honor and respect their work, which is so central to the success of the Nation. These criminal background checks are essential, however, to ensure that schools and school districts are doing everything they possibly can to protect children's safety. That is the most fundamental of our priorities.

Mr. Chairman, again we want to thank Mr. FITZPATRICK and Mr. MEEHAN for offering this amendment and urge a "yes" vote.

I yield back the balance of my time.

□ 0930

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for his support of the amendment and for his comments here this morning. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment and to support the underlying bill.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK).

AMENDMENT NO. 24 OFFERED BY MS. JACKSON LEE

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 24 printed in House Report 113-158.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

At the end of the bill add the following:

SEC. 801. STUDY AND REPORT.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a study on—

(1) the use of State educational agencies to monitor, supervise, or control underperforming local educational agencies; and

(2) whether equal educational opportunities are being provided to students in the local educational agencies described in paragraph (1), and the impact the use of State educational agencies as described in such paragraph would have on such opportunities.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall report to Congress the results of the study conducted under subsection (a). Such report shall include recommendations regarding—

(1) the advisability of authorizing a State educational agency to close a local educational agency over the opposition of a locally elected school board; and

(2) best practices governing the exercise of authority by a State educational agency in monitoring, supervising, and controlling underperforming local educational agencies, with particular emphasis on rural local educational agencies and urban local educational agencies that are disproportionately minority.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 303, the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON LEE) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Texas.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to be on the floor with Mr. TIERNEY and the gentleman from California, and their commitment and their comments on the question of the equality of education for at-risk children. I think if there is anything that comes out of this important discussion, and from the chairman's presence on the floor, it should be that we should be focused with tunnel vision on the concern about at-risk children.

My amendment is a straightforward amendment. It is an amendment that gives information. Specifically, it calls for a study and a report containing recommendations regarding the advisability of authorizing a State education authority to close a school district over the opposition of the locally elected school board, families, students, teachers, and calls for best practices governing the exercise of authority by a State education agency in monitoring, supervising, and controlling underperforming school districts, with particular emphasis on rural and underserved districts and underserved communities.

Our children are our precious resource, and I have been in schools and school districts where children loved the atmosphere in which they are in. They clamor for the teachers. There is a mutual respect and coming together, and all they need is a focus of resources and improvement. But rather than getting that, authority is used to either undermine the funding of those school districts or in essence say to those school teachers and all of those who have been working—and taxpayers—that, in fact, this school will not be given dollars to improve.

The Center on Reinventing Public Education assessed a number of States, and the interesting determination was that States spent less on improving school districts and schools, less on improving, but more on shutting them down or not allowing them to go forward in at-risk areas. This chart gives you the balance of distribution of performance and improvement; and many States, such as Texas, spend less than 5 percent on performance.

So what does my amendment do? It provides balance between local control over schools and our State educational agencies by providing a report. It makes sure that taxpayers and locally elected officials are not ignored by the State. It also has a way of preventing communities from being blamed as the problem and engaging the community. It prevents poorly prepared State-elected officials who've been placed in positions to run schools from taking money from those schools as opposed to investing in those schools.

It makes sure that minor problems are fixed before you go to drastic concerns. It allows a determination of a structure of appeal so that the appeal is allowed broadly by those who are impacted, taxpayers, for example, who are very important. And it allows a determination whether the State authorities are given the effective oversight of a rural district, an at-risk district; and then it provides the opportunity to ensure that there is fair play and that we are interested in the quality of education.

I ask my colleagues to support the amendment.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. Chair, I thank Chairman KLINE and Ranking Member MILLER for their work to improve education for our Nation's children. I thank the Rules Committee for making in order Jackson Lee Amendment #24 for full consideration by the House of Representatives.

My amendment to H.R. 5, the "Student Success Act," is simple and is an important addition to this bill. I believe that my amendment to H.R. 5 can be supported by every member of the House.

JACKSON LEE AMENDMENT #24

This amendment directs the Secretary of Education to conduct a study and produce a report to Congress with recommendations regarding the advisability of authorizing a state education authority to close a school district over the opposition of a locally elected school board, and regarding best practices governing the exercise of authority by a state education agency in monitoring, supervising and controlling underperforming school districts with particular emphasis on rural and underrepresented school districts.

The purpose of the amendment is to create an opportunity for states to receive information guidance on what is happening around the Nation regarding forced school district mergers or closures.

Forced school district mergers and closures by a state without careful consideration of the sensitivity of the communities impacted can result in unintended consequences.

A report can provide recommendations regarding the advisability of an authorized state education authority to close a school district over the opposition of a locally elected school board.

Having access to the knowledge and experience of other state education agencies to factor into the decision to close or merge a school board can be of benefit to the 24 states with laws that allow these types of actions.

A report is not intended to suggest that there are no circumstances when a state may need to exercise its authority to intervene and act in the best interest of children or communities if the school district is unable to do so.

The report can provide easy access to lessons learned and a list of voluntary best practices that may be of great benefit to states that have the authority to close a locally elected school board.

The 24 states with the authority to close or merge a school district include: Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, South Carolina, North Carolina, Missouri, Arkansas, California, and New Mexico.

There are important reasons why states need to have the report proposed by this amendment as resources they can reference when making a difficult decision regarding a school district's future.

Much of the reason for such a report flow from the same arguments many of my colleagues make regarding the power of the federal government.

When states close or merge local school districts their actions: reduce local control over schools and increases state authority over school districts; imply that the community has the problem and the states have the answers, and assumes that states have the ability to effectively run school districts; routinely place poorly prepared state-selected officials in positions to run school districts, which means there is little possibility of any meaningful change occurring in the classroom; usually focus on cleaning up minor problems and incompetent administration but do not go to the root of the social problems facing disadvantaged students in urban and rural school districts; foster negative connotations and impressions that hinder self-esteem of school board members, administrators, teachers, students and parents; and produce unnecessary showdowns between state and local officials which slow the overhaul of management practices, drain resources from educational reforms and reinforce division between impacted citizens and state government.

Another damaging impact of forced school district closures are the foreseeable hardened negative feelings toward state government that result.

The parents, students or elected school boards have no voice in the decision by the state to close or merge a school district.

This amendment does not assume that there is no role or circumstance under which the 24 state governments with laws that allow intervention and closure of school districts should not be able to act. The amendment seeks to provide information to these states on the experience of other states with the power to close a school district. The benefit of the report can be accessed by all states who may want to weigh the pros and cons of pursuing action against school districts as well as provide guidance on best practices.

Due process that is transparent and supports the principle that all school districts within a state will be treated the same would be a strong step forward in raising public confidence in the decisions of state government. It would be very prudent to be sure that when a state decides to act to help a failing school they can recruit the best experts in the field. Finally, local engagement in the decision making process removes tension and raises the possibility of a successful outcome.

My Congressional district once included the North Forest Independent School District, which was closed by the Texas Education Agency on July 1, 2013.

The decision to close North Forest Independent School District by the Texas Education Association displayed a reckless disregard for the children, parents, teachers, and administrators of the North Forest Independent School District.

There was no reason to close the school district and many reasons to work with the elected school board and engaged community to address the issues raised by the Texas Education Association.

The decision to deprive the community served by the school district did not give parents any say or control over the decision to dissolve the locally elected 7-member North Forest Independent School District board and was not in the interest of the education of the students served by the schools in that district. All of the members of the former North Forest Independent School board were African American. The North Forest School District was 70% African American and 29% Hispanic.

In making the decision to close the district, the Texas Education Agency took a "guillotine" approach to resolving the problems associated with the North Forest Independent School District—an approach that was wholly unnecessary given the progress the district has made as well as the availability of viable and less disruptive alternatives, including a proposed partnership between North Forest Independent School District and local public charter schools that was announced on March 8, 2013.

There must be a remedy to prevent this from happening to any other school districts. Jackson Lee Amendment #24 is designed to prevent this from happening by providing Congress with much needed information on the impact to school districts that face closure or merging.

The practice of closing and merging school districts is disproportionately happening to school districts serving rural and underserved students. This amendment is intended to provide Congress with more information about what happens to these school districts and discover better remedies when there are goals that are established by States that can mean the closing or merging of a school district.

A study conducted by S.L. Bowen in 2007, titled "Is bigger that much better? School district size, high school completion, and post-secondary enrollment rates in Maine," published in the Maine View suggests the best interest of students are not being served. This study supported by the Maine Heritage Policy Center compared high school completion rates of the 15 largest and 15 smallest school districts in Maine and found that the graduation rate for smaller districts was six percent higher than for larger districts.

Another study, by A. Howle & C. Howley conducted in 2006 on the subject of small schools and the pressure to consolidate is available in the Educational Policy Analysis Archives, 14(10), 1–23.

This report on school size reviewed the research on the effects of small schools. The report states that children from economically disadvantaged families have higher achievement in small schools and small districts; the relationship between aggregate student achievement and socioeconomic status is consistently weaker in smaller schools and districts (equity effects of size); dropout rates are lower in smaller schools; students' school activity participation is higher in smaller schools; and smaller high schools can offer adequate curriculum.

There is research to indicate that this would be a worthwhile amendment that the full House can support.

I urge all members to vote in favor of Jackson Lee Amendment #24.

SEVEN REASONS WHY THE JACKSON LEE AMENDMENT IS NEEDED

The Jackson Lee Amendment would: Balance local control over schools with state authority over school districts; make sure that taxpayers and locally elected officials are not ignored by the State; prevent communities from being blamed as the problem and the states as having all of the answers; prevent poorly prepared state-selected officials from being placed in positions to run school districts; make sure that minor problems and incompetent administration issues can be dealt with without merging or closing school districts; make sure that state appointed heads of school districts have effective oversight to be sure that a fair and impartial process for decision making is established and maintained; and prevent unnecessary showdowns between state and local officials which slow the overhaul of management practices, drain resources from educational reforms and reinforce division between impacted citizens and state government.

IN SUPPORT OF JACKSON LEE AMENDMENT #24—NORTH FOREST INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT

The facts about NFISD:

The closure of North Forest Independent School District was unnecessary given the progress the district had made as well as the availability of viable and less disruptive alternatives, including a proposed partnership between North Forest Independent School District and local public charter schools that was announced on March 8, 2013.

The North Forest Independent School District electoral district had 50,000 registered voters whose voting power was diluted because they will be absorbed into the Houston Independent School District but no additional seats will be added to the Houston Independent School District board.

There was no reason to close the North Forest Independent School District since it was solvent; had received awards for excellence and had received significant outside funding to continue.

The North Forest Independent School District proposed a sound alternative plan to the Texas Education Agency that was applauded by the U.S. Department of Education and supported by experts like Dr. Rod Paige, former Secretary of the Department of Education.

The North Forest Independent School District was the victim of an unfair process since there was no provision for an appeal of an adverse decision by the Governor, who appears to have unfettered discretion.

The State appointed official that made the decision to close North Forest was the only person to hear opposition to their plan. There was no appeals process to check the discretion of the state appointed official.

WHEN STATES CLOSE OR MERGE LOCAL SCHOOL DISTRICTS, THEIR ACTIONS:

Reduce local control over schools and increase state authority over school districts; imply that the community has the problem and the states have the answers, and assumes that states have the ability to effectively run school districts; routinely place poorly prepared state-selected officials in positions to run school districts, which means there is little possibility of any meaningful change occurring in the classroom; usually focus on cleaning up minor problems and incompetent administration but do not go to the root of the social problems facing disadvantaged students in urban and rural school districts; foster negative connotations and impressions that hinder self-esteem of school board members, administrators, teachers, students and parents; and produce unnecessary showdowns between state and local officials which slow the overhaul of management practices, drain resources from educational reforms and reinforce division between impacted citizens and state government.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Chairman, I claim the time in opposition to the amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Minnesota is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Chairman, this amendment requires the Secretary of Education to conduct a study to examine underperforming school districts, whether equal educational opportunities are being afforded to students in those school districts, and the impact of closing these school districts.

Mr. Chairman, as the amendment clearly states, this is a State activity in which the Federal Government has no role and should not be involved. We do not need recommendations from the U.S. Department of Education on how States are to protect the constitutional rights of students. This is the law of the land today.

I urge my colleagues to oppose this amendment and support the Student Success Act.

I yield back the balance of my time. Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Chairman, well, as we started, the reason why the Federal Government got engaged in education is because I remember times in the South and across America when there was unequal education and we needed the U.S. Department of Education. More importantly, we needed the courts. Today I stand here and ask for a simple inquiry made by the U.S. Department of Education: Are State agencies effectively closing school districts and not seeking to improve them?

A very fine example is the closure of the North Forest Independent School District in Houston, Texas. It's solvent, 50,000 registered voters, 7,000 students, had received awards, and what did the State agency do, the State agency came in, to the opposition of the community, teachers, supporters of a combined effort between a public school and charter school, proposed coming together to put forward the best proposal to keep this school teaching our children, support by Republicans and Democrats, and an autocratic State agency closed the school district.

So this is a simple inquiry. It is an inquiry as to whether or not you want to boost up the taxpayers and boost up the parents who have no standing. It is a question of whether or not you want to make sure that there is a basis of a fair appeal as opposed to an autocratic process, a dictatorial process. I ask my colleagues, all of them have faced this. No one wants to interfere with the running of a school district or interfere with the administrators or educators; but what you do want to interfere with is business decisions closing rural school districts and closing urban school districts and not allowing the people, the teachers to be able to understand and to give input into the best process, Mr. Chairman.

I would like to refer to the Center on Reinventing Public Education, and I would argue in closing, Mr. Chairman, that this amendment gives opportunity. I ask you to support the Jackson Lee amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time. The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON LEE).

The question was taken; and the Acting Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from Texas will be postponed.

AMENDMENT NO. 25 OFFERED BY MR. CANTOR

The Acting CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 25 printed in House Report 113-158.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

Insert after section 128, the following new section:

SEC. 129. TITLE I PORTABILITY.

Chapter B of subpart 1 of part A of title I (20 U.S.C. 6331 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“SEC. 1128. TITLE I FUNDS FOLLOW THE LOW-INCOME CHILD STATE OPTION.

“(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law and to the extent permitted under State law, a State educational agency may allocate grant funds under this chapter among the local educational agencies in the State based on the number of eligible children enrolled in the public schools served by each local educational agency.

“(b) ELIGIBLE CHILD.—

“(1) DEFINITION.—In this section, the term ‘eligible child’ means a child aged 5 to 17, inclusive, from a family with an income below the poverty level on the basis of the most recent satisfactory data published by the Department of Commerce.

“(2) CRITERIA OF POVERTY.—In determining the families with incomes below the poverty level for the purposes of this section, a State educational agency shall use the criteria of poverty used by the Census Bureau in compiling the most recent decennial census, as the criteria have been updated by increases in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers, published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

“(c) STUDENT ENROLLMENT IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—

“(1) IDENTIFICATION OF ELIGIBLE CHILDREN.—On an annual basis, on a date to be determined by the State educational agency, each local educational agency that receives grant funding in accordance with subsection (a) shall inform the State educational agency of the number of eligible children enrolled in public schools served by the local educational agency.

“(2) ALLOCATION TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—Based on the identification of eligible children in paragraph (1), the State educational agency shall provide to a local educational agency an amount equal to the sum of the amount available for each eligible child in the State multiplied by the number of eligible children identified by the local educational agency under paragraph (1).

“(3) DISTRIBUTION TO SCHOOLS.—Each local educational agency that receives funds under paragraph (2) shall distribute such funds to the public schools served by the local educational agency—

“(A) based on the number of eligible children enrolled in such schools; and

“(B) in a manner that would, in the absence of such Federal funds, supplement the funds made available from non-Federal resources for the education of pupils participating in programs under this subpart, and not to supplant such funds.”

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 303, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. CANTOR) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Virginia.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Chairman, a good education is the first step in the long walk to living the American Dream. That is what this amendment is about, Mr. Chairman.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I rise to claim the time in opposition.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, this amendment is not about a good education. This is an amendment suggesting an approach that in fact the amendment doesn't enable to happen, and that is the idea that a student can choose the school under the guise of portability, when in fact it doesn't set up any mechanisms for the students to do that.

The suggestion here somehow is that, in fact, the students will make this choice or the parents will make this choice. We've had the right under No Child Left Behind for students to make the choice to elect to go to any schools in the district in which they sought to do that. Of course, what we found out, in many instances, it's less than 2 to 3 percent of the parents who make that decision. There are many reasons why they don't do that. In fact, it's a decision that it doesn't work for them because of lack of transportation in poor neighbors, lack of issues of personal safety of the students.

The difference in my district, in some parts of my district of going to the school that's next to your home or walking the six or eight or 10 blocks to where the next school is, it's a matter of personal safety for those children. We have children, unfortunately, who are harmed every day on our streets, in some cases killed on those streets. So for parents, this isn't just a choice; that it's a better school.

Also under the Cantor amendment, you would be requiring school districts to engage in an entirely complex accounting system, and I don't know why we'd burden them with that. We currently have in many, many districts open enrollment. And as I say, parents can choose that if they want, but in many cases they can't because of barriers to that enrollment. So this is a suggestion somehow that you can just pick up and move your child.

What we see in survey after survey after survey is what parents want, and they want their neighborhood school, the school next to them, they want that school to be functioning at a high level so that their child, their children, can get an education at that school.

I know that maybe the author of this amendment isn't familiar with these parents, that these parents are struggling between their jobs, their work, holding their families together. Very often it's individual working women supporting these families. This is a difficult task. And the idea that the burden won't be on the district to improve that local school, but we'll just leave it be under the guise that parents can opt to send their children somewhere else when, in fact, that's not a real option for them.

This amendment doesn't address the concern about open enrollment, it doesn't address the systems that the States have set up, and it clearly doesn't address the needs of the parents. And it fails to recognize that in many school districts, there's only one school, there's only one middle school, there's only two elementary schools. That's not the issue here. This isn't like a panoply of wide choices that are made available. That's why many of us have encouraged charter schools inside these districts so parents will have that choice that is within reach of them.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Alabama (Mrs. ROBY).

Mrs. ROBY. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of Leader CANTOR's amendment to H.R. 5. It's an amendment that would allow title I dollars to actually follow the student to the school of their choice. I thank the leader for recognizing me.

We all agree that every child deserves equal access to quality education—one that challenges them, builds critical-thinking skills, and enhances their opportunity for success. But all too often, the system fails those who need it most. For too long, we have perpetuated failure by not demanding accountability for results.

This amendment would allow title I dollars to follow the child to the school that their parent deems best.

As a mother of a child in public school, I understand firsthand how important it is for parents to be able to choose the school that best fits their child's needs. School choice can help drive innovation, healthy competition and, most importantly, accountability.

If a low-income parent makes the brave and noble decision to seek a better opportunity for their child, the last thing we should do here is make it more difficult by withholding funding meant to help educate that child.

Mr. Chairman, we can't afford to do the same old thing expecting different results. I urge my colleagues to adopt this amendment and pass the Student Success Act. Let's get Washington out of the way to ensure a brighter future for our children.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Connecticut (Ms. DELAURO).

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Miller substitute amendment and in strong opposition to the underlying bill which, as it is, drastically underfunds our education system and sets up our children and our Nation to fail.

Right now, the majority's bill freezes education funding through the end of the decade at just above the sequestration level in 2013. Compared to last year's level, this means a $570 million cut to education funding—one of our fundamental priorities as a Nation—for each of the next 5 years.

Nor does the majority's bill allow for annual increases due to inflation or enrollment growth. In effect, the majority is trying to lock in Federal education spending at a level far below what is needed and then simply walking away from our schools and our kids. And keep in mind, all of these cuts come on top of several earlier rounds of deep cuts by the majority to education spending.

Mr. Chairman, without access to quality education, there is no middle class. The compact is broken that allows hard work to pay off and allows future generations to do better. We cannot allow this to happen.

I urge my colleagues to support the Miller substitute to this flawed bill.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Utah (Mr. BISHOP).

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Chairman, my home State has been one of the leaders in the area of equitable funding for kids, so that whether you come from a wealthy mountain resort or the inner city of Salt Lake City or a west desert rural ranching family, the same amount of money follows the kid to their schools in any situation. And we did that simply because we care about kids, and we established a fair system of disbursing the money.

When we did a GI bill, the money followed the GI.

Only in Washington, here, with these particular funds, where the Department of Education does not have an equitable disposal mechanism, do we find this situation in which we treat kids differently.

It appears to me that some of the outside groups that may be opposed to this are simply saying they like this antiquated disposal system, which means that some title I schools get a whole lot of money, and other title I schools don't get very much money, if any at all, because we don't have an equitable system for disbursing our funds.

We need to do what many States are doing right now and make sure that we have an equitable distribution system. This amendment moves us in that direction.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, how much time do I have?

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman has 30 seconds remaining.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Chairman, this amendment just doesn't address the realities of the current law. First of all, the underlying bill takes away the choice that parents have today. This amendment wants to pretend like it's a choice.

When the gentleman from Utah says the money follows the child, no, in Utah they have State equalization. It's the same amount of money wherever you go. No money follows you.

The suggestion in the Cantor amendment is that somehow this money will follow you, except that it requires States and districts to set up an entirely new bookkeeping system. These are people who say they don't want to burden those districts.

The fact of the matter is, under current law, parents can choose to send their children to another school. Whether all of the money will follow them or not, under the Cantor amendment, there's no mechanism and there's no money. There is no full entitlement to the money.

I know the gentleman wanted to have vouchers, and this is an imitation voucher, but it doesn't work. It simply doesn't work for the child, for the parents, or for the school districts.

I yield back the balance of my time. Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the remaining time.

Mr. Chairman, what I'd say to the gentleman from California, first of all, this is an amendment which provides States the option, if they want, to allow this type of funding or flow of Federal dollars. No one's forcing any State to do anything or any local school district.

I'd also point out, Mr. Chairman, that I believe there are several cities—I think one in the gentleman's State, in San Francisco—which actually have allowed for State dollars to follow the kids. So I think to the point that it's a bookkeeping difficulty, certainly there are localities, school districts who've figured out that this can be easily done.

And I want to follow up on the point that the gentleman from Utah has made. This is about how Federal dollars currently are allocated under title I. And in the school districts, once the school districts have the money, the way the Federal requirement is now, there are some schools that receive a lot of title I money, and there are others that could receive none, if very little title I money. But, in fact, what the amendment is about is trying to provide all title I kids with the resources that I think all of us want them to have.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. CANTOR. I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. The reason some schools don't have a lot of title I money, or some title I money, is they don't have title I students. It follows the students to those schools.

Mr. CANTOR. Reclaiming my time, Mr. Chairman, the state of the law is such that there is a requirement now that title I moneys at the local level go to schools with 75 percent or higher of population. It is the overpopulated, poorest schools that are, in the law, said to get the moneys first.

The problem is: What if your school doesn't quite make that cutoff? What if that population isn't quite at that benchmark? What about the title I kids in those schools?

That's what this is trying to address, Mr. Chairman.

And so, again, too many of our underprivileged children today are finding themselves in schools that cannot address the problem, and this amendment is aimed at trying to restore those children and those parents' ability to have the quality of education that all of us want. Again, this amendment does so by granting the States the power, if they so choose, to allow title I funds to follow the students.

I believe the current system clearly is leaving some kids behind that exist in these schools that aren't getting any money. And the lack of access to quality schools and quality teachers will and can hold children back, and, most especially, those children living in poverty and those often with special needs who do require help.

Many States are reforming their system to address these inequities and these shortcomings and, in fact, as I indicated earlier, there were some major school systems, and I know of one in the gentleman's State, that have actually tried to redirect State and local moneys according to this spirit, which is: allow every child to have equal access to funds and resources. But, unfortunately, those States don't have the flexibility to match up Federal funds with these type of reform efforts that are ongoing at the local and State level.

Federal title I funding was created to help the most vulnerable of our students—foster children, the homeless, those living below the poverty line—and this amendment will give States the option to allow title I funds to follow each student to the public school—including charter school—of their choice.

Again, right now, Federal dollars do not follow all of the students that they are supposed to help. This amendment will make certain that, no matter what school a low-income student attends, he or she will benefit from these dollars.

Mr. Chairman, improving our education system is a bipartisan issue, and this amendment builds on the bipartisan work being done at the State level.

Mr. Chairman, I'd like to, at this time, just thank the leadership of the gentleman from Minnesota, the Chairman of the Education and the Workforce Committee, for his commitment to responding to the desires of all of our constituents who believe that education is the fundamental building block for all to achieve the American Dream. I salute him and his work and his tenacity to try and get things right in the reforms that are necessary to allow for that promise to be realized by all of our kids.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. CANTOR).

The amendment was agreed to.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 303, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) and a Member opposed each will control 10 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 5 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, this debate highlights some of the stark choices about the direction of our education system. The Republican bill sends us backwards, letting students down at a critical time. This substitute amendment I'm offering will move the Nation forward.

Every day, schools are making great strides to take our education system into the 21st century. They are raising standards, trying new ways to boost learning, improving the skills of teachers and principals.

Mr. Chairman, we, in Congress, should be a partner in these efforts, providing resources and the support to help them move forward—not gutting funding and walking away from our responsibility to help, as the Republican bill does.

Despite some good things in current law, No Child Left Behind's one-size-fits-all approach has hampered progress. It's time to revise the law, building on what we have learned over the past decade, spreading best practices to all schools, not just to some.

The Democratic approach does this. It maintains our bedrock civil rights responsibility. My amendment would help ensure that all students have access to a world-class education, regardless of their background or ZIP code, and that teachers, principals, and schools have supports and resources to provide that education.

Unlike the Republican bill, the Democratic amendment improves current law in several ways:

We call upon States to set high expectations for students, ensuring every child graduates prepared for college or for a career;

We eliminate the one-size-fits-all approach of accountability called AYP, but we still call on schools to improve the student learning and graduation rates each year;

We give districts and schools the flexibility to determine how to improve learning and graduation rates;

We ensure teachers and principals get timely and useful feedback so that they can improve their skills;

We also ensure educators have good working conditions and positive supports to help them do their jobs even better than they do now;

We provide robust funding for literacy, for STEM, for technology and other subjects like art and music to ensure that all students have a well-rounded education; and

We provide resources and supports to ensure that students are safe, healthy, and free from bullying in schools so that they can focus on learning.

The Republican bill does not come close to meeting any of these goals. In their effort to eliminate Federal involvement in education:

They let students down;

They fail to ensure students improve their learning or graduate from high school;

They fail to ensure that students with disabilities are taught to the same high standards as other students;

They fail to provide adequate funding and resources for students and schools;

They fail to move beyond the narrow focus of reading and math and to ensure that all students get a well-rounded education.

If we can't pass a better bipartisan bill, No Child Left Behind will remain the law of the land, and this is unacceptable. It's unacceptable to the scores of organizations who oppose H.R. 5, from business to labor to civil rights to disability advocates to education organizations, and that's why so many groups support this substitute amendment.

This fight is about equity. It's about every child in our country getting an education they deserve, regardless of poverty, disability, or other challenges.

I urge my Democratic and Republican colleagues to support this Democratic substitute so that the students and their families have the education system they need to prepare for the future.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Chairman, I rise to claim time in opposition to the amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Minnesota is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

When No Child Left Behind was signed into law more than a decade ago, it was heralded as groundbreaking, and certainly in many ways it was. The expanded use of data helped superintendents, principals, and teachers pay more attention to the students with the greatest need. Parents now have more access to important information about the quality of teachers and schools, and some student achievement gaps have narrowed.

However, hindsight is 20/20, and we can now clearly identify the law's weaknesses:

The Adequate Yearly Progress accountability metric is a one-size-fits-all mandate that fails to provide schools any meaningful information about their performance;

The law's Highly Qualified Teacher requirements value credentials over an educator's ability to motivate students in the classroom;

Strict mandates and funding restrictions stunt the development of innovative local education programs.

The Student Success Act will correct the mistakes of the past and provide States and school districts the flexibility they need to put more children on the path to a brighter future.

Flexibility, Mr. Chairman, I might say, has been begged for, demanded, year after year since this law passed. Superintendent after superintendent and principal after principal has said to me: I don't need money here, but I've got it. I need the money over here, and I can't spend it. If I just had more flexibility, we could take care of making sure that all these kids get the education that they deserve.

The substitute offered by my colleagues on the other side of the aisle simply continues the same failed policies we're seeking to correct and encourages greater Federal intrusion in classrooms. No matter what you call it, AYP, or any other rigid Federal accountability system is still the wrong approach. Replacing the existing law's 100 percent proficiency target with a menu of equally unrealistic goals is not the answer.

Enshrining the unprecedented control over schools assumed by the Obama administration, rather than supporting the innovation occurring at the State and local level, is not the answer.

This substitute also fails to meaningfully consolidate programs or give States and school districts greater freedom to use Federal funds. It includes outrageous and unrealistic authorization levels that Congress and the administration will never come close to meeting. I welcome meaningful contributions from my colleagues across the aisle. But a substitute that doubles down on the status quo is not what students, parents, or educators deserve.

I urge my colleagues to oppose the amendment and support the underlying bill that will empower the Nation's parents, teachers, principals, and school administrators to deliver the educational system our students need, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT).

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of Mr. MILLER's substitute and in opposition to the underlying bill.

We must never forget that the Elementary and Secondary Education Act is rooted in the civil rights movement. Since 1965, the role of Federal involvement in the schools has been to eliminate inequality in education, not just provide additional funds for schools to use as they please.

This bill is not a thoughtful response to the concerns of parents, students, teachers, and school officials. It takes several steps backwards. It reduces our investment in education. It would lock in the sequester spending cuts. It treats professional development as an afterthought. It would eliminate Federal investment in science and math education. Yes, the Republican bill does mention science, but the proposal does nothing to tie high accountability measures to science assessments.

A real proposal would not foster an expectation that a lack of improvement is acceptable; a real proposal would have wraparound services; a real proposal would not abandon students with disabilities; a real proposal would not consider professional development as a mere afterthought. We should be considering a proposal that recognizes that Federal investment and high standards in science and other areas, as well as literacy and foreign language development, are critical components to the high-quality education that every student deserves.

I rise in opposition to H.R. 5.

We must never forget that ESEA is rooted in the Civil Rights movement. Since 1965, the role of federal involvement in schools has been to close the skills gap and eliminate inequality in education, not just provide additional funds for schools to use as they please.

I agree with the basic principles of ESEA, but I believe that the law needs reforming. While No Child Left Behind was presented as the means to close the achievement gap between students in good schools and those in underperforming schools, it has not done that.

Unfortunately, the bill presented by the majority is deeply inadequate. It falls short of setting standards and support for the high quality education our students deserve. This bill was not a thoughtful response to the concerns of parents, students, teachers and school officials.

In fact, this bill takes several steps backwards. First, it reduces our investment in education. The underlying bill proposes to eliminate all Maintenance of Effort requirements, which would allow states and school districts to set their own funding levels and begin a race to the bottom. Furthermore, it would lock in the sequester spending cuts. I have yet to meet with any educator or parent who approves of the current sequester cuts to education.

Additionally, this bill treats Professional Development as an afterthought. Helping our teachers hone their schools and develop deep knowledge in their subject areas is critical to our students making progress in the classroom. Yet, the underlying bill does nothing to provide for a real investment in the professional development of teachers. Instead, it requires states and school districts to develop personnel policy through teacher evaluations that are inherently incomplete.

Furthermore, this bill would dismantle federal investment in STEM Education. While this Republicans bill does not mention Science, the proposal does nothing to tie high accountability measures to science assessments. Furthermore, the underlying bill would eliminate the largest and most successful STEM education program, the Math and Science Partnership. This proposal does not include any support for the recruitment and training of STEM teachers.

Passing this bill would mean abdicating our civil rights responsibilities to ensure that all children have access to a quality education.

Rather than voting on this deeply partisan bill, we should be considering a reauthorization proposal that fixes the problems that we know exist. A real proposal would not foster an expectation that lack of improvement is acceptable; a real proposal would not abandon students with disabilities; or a real proposal would not consider professional development a mere afterthought.

Instead, we should be considering a proposal that recognizes that federal investment and high standards in science and STEM fields, as well as literacy, and foreign language development are critical components to the high quality education that every student deserves.

Mr. KLINE. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Can I inquire how much time I have remaining?

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) has 5 minutes remaining. The gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. KLINE) has 7¼ minutes remaining.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. POLIS).

Mr. POLIS. Mr. Chairman, I want to respond briefly to some of Chairman KLINE's introduction. I think both sides can agree that there are flaws in No Child Left Behind. AYP is a flawed formula. Personally, I think the answer reflected in the Democratic substitute is to get accountability right, not take a step back from accountability.

The chairman mentioned that "now we have more information about the quality of teachers and schools" thanks to No Child Left Behind. And to his credit, in the initial draft bill, we replaced after 3 years the teacher evaluation system. However, unfortunately, that was amended on the floor with the Scalise-Bishop amendment.

So I think one thing we can be assured of in the underlying bill is it will lead to less information about the quality of teachers and any assurances that our Federal funds are going to fund teachers that have any kind of qualification or in fact are effective.

The Democratic substitute takes into account student growth, proficiency rates, graduation rates, and designs targeted interventions to help turn around our lowest-performing schools. Whereas H.R. 5 guts education funding, the Democratic substitute provides funding for critical programs like STEM, school turnaround grants, safe and healthy students.

This amendment would help invest in our Nation's teachers' quality. I strongly support the Democratic substitute and call on my colleagues to make sure we move forward in education reform to help serve all kids in our great country.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Chairman, I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. SCHNEIDER).

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Mr. Chairman, the Republican bill, unfortunately, represents a missed opportunity. Everyone agrees that NCLB has flaws and needs to be updated and improved. It is disheartening that instead of working together on an actual reauthorization, we are once again debating a divisive, partisan bill that only incorporates one ideology.

There is nothing more important to our Nation than educating our children. The most crucial element for ensuring our children's success is supporting our children's teachers. Teachers do an incredibly important and remarkably challenging job. The vast majority are excellent and their good work is overlooked far too frequently. Education at the elementary and secondary level is critical to the development of 21st century American jobs and global competitiveness. We need to get to work on a true bipartisan ESEA reauthorization.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the chairman of the Subcommittee on Early Childhood, Elementary, and Secondary Education, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. ROKITA).

Mr. ROKITA. I thank the chairman of Education and Workforce for yielding me time.

Well, here we are again, with perhaps the culmination of this debate that started yesterday afternoon here on the floor and what's been going on in committee now for several weeks and in this Nation for 12 years.

Mr. Chairman, it's been 12 years since we've been on the floor debating these issues. I'm encouraged by that fact alone—that some of us had the leadership, responsibility, and the courage to bring some of these issues to the floor for the betterment of our teachers, our parents, and most of all, our students.

I rise now in strong opposition to the substitute amendment offered by my colleague from California. I oppose this amendment for a number of reasons. It's more of the same "Washington knows best" that's brought us here today. It turns out, as we hear from parents in our districts, Washington doesn't know best. A bureaucrat sitting in an office in Washington, by definition, Mr. Chairman, doesn't know our children and can't possibly know what is best for a student in Indiana or anywhere else in this Nation.

Who do you believe, Mr. Chairman, knows a child best? Is it the bureaucrats in this 10- or 11-story rectangle-like building known as the Lyndon B. Johnson Department of Education? Or is it this mother or this father who knows their child? Who do you trust, Mr. Chairman, with your children? Do you trust the bureaucrats in this building a thousand miles away from where you live or do you trust you and your wife? Who do the parents of America trust more to educate their children? Their local teacher or these bureaucrats?

Throughout the amendment and debate process for the Student Success Act and the remarks offered now in support of this amendment, we've heard time and time again how the Student Success Act is an attack on children, teachers, and all other sorts of demagoguery and doom and gloom. Don't believe it. Because if you listen closely and certainly if you read the plain meaning of the text of this amendment and everything else that's been written and said about these reforms that we're going to make here on the House floor today, you would find that at the very essence of all of them we find that the other side and those that talk against the Student Success Act inherently trust these bureaucrats more than parents or teachers. They continuously say, We know best. We are smarter than those of us who raise our own children.

The truth of the matter is that this amendment offered by my colleague is the real attack on children, parents, and teachers. It attacks teachers by holding them to Washington-based standards, not local ones, when we know in fact that every school is different. It attacks parents by robbing them of the hopes and dreams that they have for their children and takes away so many decisions that these parents can make to guide their children's future. They know best. Worst of all, this is an attack on children. Washington-based education policy attacks children by endangering their chance at success and a brighter future by hamstringing them with teaching to test results as opposed to teaching to success in life.

The Student Success Act ensures parents can be in direct contact with those who are setting education policy for their children and their teachers and holds them accountable.

There's a reason why this bill has received so much support from groups like the American Association of School Administrators, the Council of Chief State School Officers, the National School Boards Association, and the School Superintendents Association. They all support this bill. The Student Success Act will give States and schools the flexibility and incentive to administer their policies effectively. The Student Success Act encourages teachers to be innovative while also responsibly measuring success.

It's been said here just recently and time and time again that tenure and credentialism should be what we measure teachers against. I say no. It doesn't matter how long, Mr. Chairman, a teacher has taught or how many classes they've taken. What matters is how well their kids are learning, what their success is. And that's what the Student Success Act does. It will give parents the authority and choice that they deserve as they make decisions about their child's future, and it will give the students themselves the best opportunity to succeed. That's the best thing we can do here on the floor of the House today.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. FOSTER).

Mr. FOSTER. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to speak against H.R. 5 and its impacts on STEM education.

As a physicist and someone who started a business in my parents' basement that manufactures over half the theater lighting equipment in the United States and provides hundreds of jobs in the Midwest, I know firsthand the importance of STEM education and driving our Nation's innovation and competitiveness by generating new ideas, new companies, and new industries.

The impact of this underlying bill would be devastating to STEM education. Under H.R. 5, funding for STEM programs would be combined into a single block grant with 70 other education programs, with no requirements for a school district to actually spend any funding on STEM education.

I encourage a "yes" vote on the Miller substitute.

Over the past 10 years, the number of STEM jobs has grown three times faster than non-STEM jobs.

What's more, out of 34 industrialized countries, the U.S. ranks 17th in science education and 25th in math education.

It is clear we should do more to improve STEM education and encourage students to pursue careers in the STEM fields.

Unfortunately, this Republican bill does just the opposite.

H.R. 5 would place all dedicated funding streams for STEM education into a block grant with no requirement that those funds actually be used for STEM education.

In addition, the Republican bill provides no support for the recruitment and training of teachers in the STEM fields, despite the fact that research has shown that the single largest factor in student success is a well-trained and high quality teacher.

The Miller amendment recognizes the enormous need for STEM education in this country and creates a comprehensive program for STEM education.

Under the Miller substitute, schools would have the requisite funding to develop STEM programs, curriculum, assessments, or professional development for teachers.

This amendment also addresses the skills gap in our current education system by requiring grant applicants to incorporate their state's STEM workforce needs into their programs.

This provision mirrors a component of the 21st Century STEM Competitive Jobs Act, which I've introduced with my friend JOE COURTNEY, a member of the Education and Workforce Committee.

This legislation was inspired by the Illinois Pathways to Prosperity Initiative, a program underway in my home state of Illinois that has greatly benefitted one of the cities in my district, Aurora, Illinois.

In Aurora, elementary educators, local employers, and institutions of higher education have come together to determine how to develop STEM courses that combine rigorous academics with strong technical education to equip students with the skills and credentials to succeed in STEM careers.

Like the Miller substitute, my legislation would create a competitive grant program for school districts that work with employers and an institution of higher education to further STEM education and encourage students to pursue careers in the STEM fields.

It provides students with workplace experience and college credit that will improve their ability to compete in the workplace while encouraging them to continue their education.

This type of program is already being successfully implemented at school districts in Illinois and across the nation.

If America hopes to maintain its position as the global leader in scientific and technological innovation, we must heed the call of our nation's business leaders and employers and provide our schools with the resources needed to improve our STEM education system.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, if I might inquire as to the time remaining.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) has 3 minutes remaining. The gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. KLINE) has 2¼ minutes remaining.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Chairman, Members of the House, this substitute that I have introduced on behalf of the Democrats creates a fundamental choice for this body in our vote later today. It creates a fundamental choice of whether or not this Nation is going to go forward and provide a high-quality education to every student or whether this Nation is going to go back to a time when students are left out of this system, when resources weren't provided, when schools weren't keeping up.

It's also a question of whether or not we're going to break a promise and go back on our constitutional responsibility to make sure that all students have access to that education—poor students, minority students, English-learning students, students with disabilities.

Are we going to hold school districts and schools accountable for providing that educational opportunity for those students, and will those students have the same access to a high-quality education that in many instances is available across town, in the next neighborhood, but not in their neighborhood or isn't accessible because it's not friendly or welcoming to students with disabilities or students who are learning the English language? Will they have the same rights to that education?

We know from this economy and this economic downturn that we need every one of those students to be able to be productive, successful, and achieving. But that's not what the Republican bill promises. It grinds down the funding available to these school districts for poor and minority children and for students with disabilities. It grinds it down because it marks it down to the sequestration label. So quietly and silently, school districts all over the Nation are going to be losing the resources for these poor children.

We're stealing money from the poorest people in this country to achieve deficit reduction, but tax reform maybe next year, the year after, or the year after. Economic justice sometime later down the road.

Today, this is about education justice and whether or not every student and every family is going to have access to a high-quality education that no longer depends on their Zip Code or the neighborhood or the town in which they live.

You know, it's been said very often from the other side that somehow all we want is a Washington-knows-best solution and what they offer is something opposite of that. No, what we've put together in this substitute is different than Washington knows best. This is about parents who know best, parents who demand the accountability that is in the substitute and not in the Republican bill. Because they want to know if their child is learning in that school—their child who may be poor, their child who may have disabilities, their child who may have learning problems. They want to know if their child is learning.

This is parents who want to know best, teachers who want to know best, who want the resources so they can teach those children; the business community that wants a well-trained workforce—

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Chairman, we apparently agree on both sides of the aisle that parents should be making decisions; parents should be in charge; parents need information.

We believe in the underlying bill that we are giving parents the information they need, the control they need, the choices they need, giving their children the best chance to succeed.

I think we agree on both sides of the aisle that the status quo is not working. In fact, the administration is engaged in instituting its own education policy through its conditional waiver scheme. It's moved so far down the line, Mr. Chairman, that they've even offered waivers to the waivers. And yet it's been 12 years since this body, or the Senate, or the United States Congress has passed an education law—12 years.

It is time for the Congress, the House, and the Senate to step up and do its job and write new law and get the administration out of the business of writing education policy.

I would hope that Republicans and Democrats would recognize that it is not the role of the administration, of the Department of Education, of the Secretary, or the President to write education policy—Republican or Democrat in the White House. It's our job to do it. It's time to do it.

I don't believe the substitute amendment is the right thing, and I oppose it. I'm asking my colleagues to oppose it. I believe the underlying bill moves us in the right direction and gives children a better opportunity. So I'm going to encourage my colleagues to oppose the substitute amendment, despite the passion that surrounds it, and support the underlying bill.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BENTIVOLIO. Mr. Chair, unfortunately, our country still has huge disparities in the quality of education, my own state included. We need to empower students and parents with the ability to leave failing schools.

While it is important to ensure all our public schools are high quality, it is immoral for us to tell parents and their children that they must attend a specific school simply because of where they live. This amendment empowers parents, the states, and students to offer solutions to improving our schools. Allow Title 1 to do what it was intended to do: improve the conditions of at risk children. I strongly support this amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER).

The question was taken; and the Acting Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from California will be postponed.

Ms. KUSTER (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to dispense with the reading.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from New Hampshire?

There was no objection.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I reserve a point of order against the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. A point of order is reserved.

The gentlewoman from New Hampshire is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. KUSTER. Mr. Speaker, this is the final amendment to the bill, which will not kill the bill or send it back to committee. If adopted, the bill will proceed immediately to final passage, as amended.

This week, we have debated how best to educate our children and prepare them for the lives and jobs of the 21st century economy. Mr. Speaker, this bill is not the answer.

In New Hampshire, we recognize that investments in education are investments in economic growth, job creation, and expanded opportunity for middle class families. Unfortunately, this bill fails to adequately make these investments in our economic future. It fails to reflect the bipartisan support in this House for STEM education, for fairness, and for accountability. Along with the Chamber of Commerce and a broad coalition of stakeholders, I believe that this legislation fails to deliver the education system that our students, our children deserve.

While some would rather abolish the Department of Education, I know that we have a responsibility to ensure that every child in this country has a chance to learn and succeed. We may have our disagreements, but we owe it to the people we represent to focus on those areas where we can find common ground.

I know that we can all agree on the need to preserve opportunity and safety for our students, and I'm hopeful that you will all support my amendment, which makes four very common-sense reforms.

First, this amendment protects children with autism and other disabilities. According to the Centers for Disease Control, an astounding 1 in 88 children and 1 in 54 boys across the United States are on the autism spectrum. My amendment would simply ensure that education plans do not deny opportunity to these students with autism or other disabilities.

Second, this would amend to protect children from abusive seclusion and restraint policies. A shocking 41 States have verified reports of inappropriate seclusion and restraint in their schools. The Government Accountability Office has documented hundreds of allegations of such abuse against students, including students with disabilities. Troubling reports have emerged of students pinned to the ground face down, students who have been confined in cardboard boxes, and students who have been literally duct-taped to chairs. As a result, some students have even died. My amendment would put in place minimum safety standards to prevent abusive seclusion and restraint in schools.

Third, this amendment would require thorough background checks for any school employees or contractors with access to children to keep sexual predators out of our schools. We can all agree on this part of the amendment. It would prohibit public schools from hiring or retaining anyone convicted of crimes against children, such as sexual assault and pornography. And importantly, it would ensure that schools report to local law enforcement when predators apply for positions with access to children.

Finally, this amendment would establish standards for protecting student athletes from concussions. I know that many of you are parents, and I have had sons with this condition. Research shows that 300,000 sports-related concussions occur every single year in our schools. Younger athletes are at greater risk of concussion, and this amendment would provide schools, athletes, and parents with the information on how best to prevent and manage these injuries. It would also require parental notification.

Together, these reforms will keep our children safe from injury and abuse in our schools.

I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to vote to protect children with disabilities, vote to improve safety for all students, and vote for this final amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time. Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my point of order, and I rise in opposition to the motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The point of order is withdrawn.

The gentleman from Minnesota is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, what States and school districts are asking for and have been asking for and clamoring for is more flexibility and less Federal mandates so they can address the individual needs of their students. We should not tie the hands of school officials and predetermine how they can best help their students and staff. Instead, this motion will force them to jump through hoops and meet burdensome requirements.

This motion is full of requirements. Some might be good, most will be burdensome, but at the heart, this is a motion that says my Democratic colleagues do not believe our school leaders and teachers have the best intentions for their kids, they do not trust them to know how to take care of their students, and we disagree.

I urge my colleagues to reject this motion to recommit and support the Student Success Act, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on H.R. 5 and to support the substitute to this bill, offered by my colleague, the Gentleman from California, Congressman GEORGE MILLER.

We can all agree, Mr. Speaker, that the Elementary and Secondary Education Act is in dire need of reauthorization. But this bill is not the best effort we can offer our children. This bill offers less support and less accountability for students, educators, and parents throughout the nation. It cuts critical funding and fails to give our students a well-rounded education.

But what makes H.R. 5 even worse is that it works against the initial purpose of the Act—it offers our students less equity and it leaves behind those children who are the most in need. It fails to give our lowest performing and lowest income schools the support systems they need to succeed in the classroom.

Mr. Chair, several amendments were introduced yesterday to correct some of the severe flaws in this bill. For example, I commend the passage of the amendment offered by my colleagues Congressman YOUNG and Congresswoman GABBARD to protect Native education programs. But it is a grave disappointment to me that this amendment was even necessary—that critical programs for our Indian, Alaska Native, and Native Hawaiian students were threatened under H.R. 5.

I stand in opposition to the underlying bipartisan bill which still fails as a whole to provide a quality education for all America’s students. We must give our students better. H.R. 5 is not our best effort. This bill is a huge setback for our children and for our nation. I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on H.R. 5 and to vote “yes” to the Miller substitute.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the previous question is ordered on the motion to recommit.

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to recommit.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the noes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Ms. KUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 and clause 9 of rule XX, this 5-minute vote on the motion to recommit will be followed by a 5-minute vote on passage of the bill, if ordered, and approval of the Journal, if ordered.

This is a 5-minute vote

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 196, noes 231, not voting 6, as follows:

So the bill was passed. The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The unfinished business is the question on agreeing to the Speaker's approval of the Journal, which the Chair will put de novo.

The question is on the Speaker's approval of the Journal.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

AUTHORIZING THE CLERK TO MAKE CORRECTIONS IN ENGROSSMENT OF H.R. 5, STUDENT SUCCESS ACT

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that, in the engrossment of H.R. 5, the Clerk be authorized to correct section numbers, punctuation, and cross-references, and to make such other technical and conforming changes as may be necessary to reflect the actions of the House in amending the bill, including the changes now at the desk.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CANTOR). The Clerk will report the changes.

The Clerk read as follows:

In amendment numbered 1, insert "the first place it appears" after "programs," in the instruction regarding page 366, line 6.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

(Mr. HOYER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I rise for the purposes of inquiring of the majority leader the schedule for the week to come, and I yield to my friend, the majority leader, Mr. CANTOR.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Maryland, the Democratic whip, for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, on Monday, the House will meet at noon for morning-hour and 2 p.m. for legislative business. Votes will be postponed until 6:30 p.m.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, the House will meet at 10 a.m. for morning-hour and noon for legislative business.

On Thursday, the House will meet at 9 a.m. for legislative business. Last votes of the week are expected no later than 3 p.m.

On Friday, no votes are expected.

Mr. Speaker, the House will consider a few suspensions next week, a complete list of which will be announced by close of business today.

In addition, the House will consider H.R. 2397, the Department of Defense appropriations bill, authored by Representative BILL YOUNG. This bill provides the resources necessary for our men and women in the armed services to carry out their vital mission.

There are also a number of bills the Appropriations Committee has reported which may come to the floor in the near future.

Furthermore, the House may consider two energy bills out of the Energy and Commerce Committee. The first bill, H.R. 2218, the Coal Residuals Reuse and Management Act, authored by Representative DAVID MCKINLEY, would create an enforceable minimum standard for the regulation of coal ash by the States, allowing their use in a safe manner that protects jobs.

The second bill, H.R. 1582, the Energy Consumers Relief Act, sponsored by Representative BILL CASSIDY, will require the EPA, before finalizing any energy-related rule costing more than $1 billion, to report to Congress on specific energy price and job impacts.

Both of these bills, Mr. Speaker, foster an environment of economic growth and lower energy costs for American families and businesses.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, as you know, the House acted last month to prevent the doubling of the student loan interest rate. Should the Senate send us legislation, the House may act as soon as next week.

Mr. HOYER. I thank the gentleman for his information with respect to the legislation for next week.

I note that there was not on the notice for next week—the Senate has now voted to go to conference on the farm bill. Clearly, that is a matter that I think both sides, or certainly our side, I think your side as well, feels is a priority item. Does the gentleman have any plans to move to go to conference now that the Senate has asked for a conference next week on the farm bill?

I yield to my friend.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I'd respond to the gentleman by saying that we are committed to acting with urgency to bring to the floor a bill under the nutrition title of what was formerly the farm bill, which that title married up with the agricultural provisions.

It is our hope that we can get a nutrition bill to the floor, because we believe strongly that the programs under those titles, providing a safety net to the country's most vulnerable, are something important that we maintain and we implement the kind of reforms to those programs that have long been called for by the GAO and others so that we can make sure of the efficient flow of dollars to those beneficiaries who most need it.

Mr. HOYER. I thank the gentleman for that comment; however, I'm somewhat perplexed, Mr. Leader.

You and I had a relatively animated colloquy some, I think, 2 or 3 weeks ago, at which point in time you said that we passed the farm bill that, of course, we didn't like and none of us voted for, that we passed the farm bill so that, in fact, we could follow regular order and go to conference. We passed that farm bill.

The Senate has now voted to go to conference, but what I hear the gentleman saying is, like the budget bill, we're not going to go to conference unless something else happens; in the case of the budget, until Mr. RYAN apparently gets Ms. Murray to agree on—I don't want to characterize it too heavily, but to agreeing with him as opposed to compromise.

But I'm a little, as I said, perplexed, because a few weeks ago you told me that the reason we passed that farm bill without the provision for nutrition, which had been in there for half a century, was so that we could go to conference. Well, now we're there, but there's no motion to go to conference. I'm perplexed, and I would appreciate if the gentleman—because we now have the opportunity to follow regular order. We now have the Senate who has voted to go to conference, acted on our bill that we sent there, substituted their bill for ours, and now have asked for a conference on the same. That is regular order.

Can the gentleman tell me: Are we now making a condition, as we lawyers say, precedent—that is, something's got to happen—before we go to conference? Because, very frankly, Mr. Leader, you and I both know that the nutrition bill is what made the farm bill apparently fall on the rocks, which is why you dropped it in order to pass the farm bill. It was a totally partisan bill, but now we need to get to agreement.

I tell you, we're running out of time, Mr. Leader, and I think we need to get this farm bill done; and I would hope that we could go to conference, as the gentleman said we were going to do, with the Senate on the House-passed bill.

I yield to my friend.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

And I know that the gentleman, in his call for regular order, also knows that the House has its prerogatives, as does the other body. We believe strongly that marriage of the two constituencies of the old farm bill was a marriage that began some 40 years ago. And, frankly, it is the sense of the majority in the House that that marriage makes little sense and that, instead, if we could, as a House, opt to be transparent and look at the policies on the agricultural side the way that we did and then look at the policies under the nutrition title in the same deliberative fashion, that we can actually make for a better product.

Now, the gentleman says that the farm bill that was passed was a partisan bill. Certainly, no member of the minority voted for the bill, but I would, and not to rehash colloquy from several weeks ago, say that the same attitude was taken with the old farm bill by the minority saying it was too partisan.

We intend to proceed deliberately, looking at policies that make sense in reforming these programs in the vein of trying to get to those most vulnerable the relief they need, at the same time paying cognizance to the fact that we have fiscal challenges we must deal with.

We're trying to be about truth in legislating, Mr. Speaker, and that is making sure that the purpose of agricultural policy is adequately addressed, as well as the purpose of the nutrition title and providing relief to our country's most vulnerable.

Mr. HOYER. I thank the gentleman for his observation.

The truth in legislating is that we are not legislating. We are putting forth the positions of your party in this House, not shared by the Senate, not shared by the President of the United States, also elected by the people of the United States; and absent agreement by those two entities, coequal branches of the Congress and a coequal branch of the government, the executive, absent their agreeing with your party's perspective, we're not legislating. That's the problem, Mr. Leader.

And again, I express to you, you said—and I don't have the words in front of me exactly, but we can pull them out. But I am perplexed because you said, when we passed the farm bill without the nutrition program in it—which had been done for a half a century. They had been paired by Republican Congresses and Democratic Congresses, signed by Republican Presidents and Democratic Presidents. It's only this last 2 years that we have been unable to come to grips with bipartisan agreement on the farm bill. It's only in the past 2 years that we've been unable to get a bill that was bipartisan in fashion to the floor and, ultimately, voted on final passage.

The bipartisan bills that came out of committee both in the last Congress and this Congress were turned into—the first one, of course, in the last Congress didn't come to the floor, as the gentleman knows. He didn't bring it to the floor at all, notwithstanding the fact it had bipartisan support in the committee. And notwithstanding the fact that the bill that was brought to the floor had bipartisan support and the support of the ranking member, Mr. PETERSON, notwithstanding he didn't agree with some portions that were adopted, for instance, on milk, he was, nevertheless, prepared to adopt it until three very partisan, we thought very harmful, amendments to people without means were adopted.

You knew that was the case. You then had told me—and I repeat, I know, and reiterate. But the simple representation you made was that we did that—and Mr. SESSIONS made that and said, by the way, that the nutrition part of the program, getting support for people who needed food, was extraneous to the bill. That's not our perspective over here, but that was the perspective that the chairman of the Rules Committee laid out when we considered the rule.

But you then said, in that colloquy, that the reason we did that was because you wanted to get a bill through. And, frankly, that's the only way you could pick up the overwhelming majority of the 62 of your Republicans who voted against it. I can only conclude that because you got the majority to do it, failing the first time because 62 Republicans decided they didn't like, apparently, the nutrition part of the bill and they voted against it. When you dropped the nutrition part of the bill, which had been in there for 50 years, then you got the majority on your side. That's when you got zero of us. You had 24 the first time.

So I'm perplexed that now that we have done what you said we were going to do, not about budgets, not about—you and I agree we need to get a handle on it. That's not what this issue is about. This issue is about whether or not we're going to have a farm bill and whether we're going to have such in a timely way. I'm going to talk a little bit about the CR.

But we have 17 days left to go between now and September 30, and we think it's timely to move. I don't know. Your nutrition bill is not on the program here. We'll have 1 week after next week.

We're not sure because we haven't seen a nutrition bill that you have. We don't know what's going to be in that. But we have passed a farm bill. The Senate wants to go to conference. The Senate wants to go to conference—at least the Democrats do—on the budget. And we're not doing it, Mr. Leader. And we need to do it.

Mr. CANTOR. Again, not to belabor the point but just to correct the facts and make sure that the record reflects what I did say before and what I represented, I said it was our intention to act with dispatch to bring to the floor a bill dealing with the SNAP program, that portion of which was traditionally the farm bill, and that we intend to be bringing that vehicle to the floor at some time in the near future. I did not say, Mr. Speaker, what it was the gentleman indicated.

We would like to say to all of our colleagues that we want to work together on a nutrition title. The gentleman heard what I said before. The marriage of those two bills and policies was done in an arbitrary fashion 50 years ago, as he indicated. There is no policy reason for that to be done. And we're trying to get down to what policy works and the reform of making sure that we pay attention to the efficacy of the programs, getting the dollars to the people who need it, and doing so in an efficient manner takes some deliberative approach. That is why Members on the majority side of the aisle felt very strongly that we should act in the way we did. And we intend to bring a nutrition title to the floor. We're working with the chairman of the Agriculture Committee to get that policy right.

So I hope that the gentleman, in his spirit of bipartisanship, will work with us to do that.

Mr. HOYER. It takes two to be bipartisan, Mr. Leader. You know that and I know that. I've got a pretty long record of working in a bipartisan fashion. But I will tell you, I disagree with the majority leader, respectfully, that there aren't the votes on this floor to pass the SNAP program and the agriculture program.

We agree on this side that there's a relationship between those who produce food and those who eat food. We think there's a direct relationship, which is why for half a century these have been related, so that the folks in the city would understand that those on the farm are very important people and we need to make sure that we have a partnership with them. Very frankly, it's worked for half a century. Unfortunately, it didn't work this year.

I will say to my friend, you are accurate in saying there are a majority of people on this floor—not in our party—but a majority on this floor, including Mr. LUCAS, who twice has reported out a bill with bipartisan support and argued for it on the floor. He argued for it and pleaded with your party to support the farm bill, even though from both parties' standpoint it wasn't a perfect bill. But 62 of your Members rejected his plea. And my view is Mr. LUCAS is still in that position of where he sees the rationale of having those together. He's the Republican chairman of the committee. I respect Mr. LUCAS for his comments both times the bill was considered on the floor.

I will move on. But allowing the farm bill to languish is dangerous for this country, for the farm community, and for others. It undermines our economy. Moving with dispatch is in the best interest of our country.

Now, let me ask you something. As I said, we have 17 days left to go until September 30. This Congress has not passed an appropriation bill. We've passed three appropriation bills. The Senate is going to consider one, apparently, next week. We won't be here on September 30. We're only here 2 weeks in September. There are holidays and Labor Day. So we're only going to be here 2 weeks.

I want to ask my friend if he or the majority or the Budget Committee or the Appropriations Committee and the leadership in concert has a plan for what we might do to assure stability in government and in our country's confidence that the government will be operating on October 1.

Mr. CANTOR. I would say to the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, that, yes, we are looking forward to the legislative activity for the remainder of this month, as I said earlier, to include appropriations bills. We also look towards the prospect of the other body perhaps beginning to act, as the gentleman indicated, at all on appropriations bills.

It does take two to be bicameral. We need that body to act as well. I look forward to seeing how we resolve differences on spending levels and policy differences as we approach the end of the fiscal year, very well aware that we have challenges ahead, and look to find resolution to those, yes, in a bipartisan way and necessarily in a bicameral way.

Mr. HOYER. There's a way to do that, of course. It is called regular order, as we've discussed. The conference committee is where you do that. But not withstanding that fact, we have for over 100 days now seen languishing the Senate-passed budget and our budget, and an attempt by the leader in the Senate, Mr. REID, to go to conference, but no effort to go to conference to, as you say, in a bicameral, bipartisan way to resolve differences. They're very substantial. But everybody is sitting in their corner.

PATTY MURRAY wants to come to the midpoint to have a conference. I've talked to her. She's the chairman of the Budget Committee. But we have not moved, unlike the Senate—and they haven't succeeded because of Republican opposition—but they have tried to go to conference. We have not made any effort to go to conference, Mr. Leader, and you can't have a bicameral resolution and compromise and bipartisanship if you don't sit down and talk to one another in conference.

Mr. RYAN asking Senator MURRAY, Do it my way, is not going to get us there. A conference may. I don't think it's guaranteed, but it may. And I would hope we could go to conference and follow regular order on the budget. We should have adopted a budget 4 months ago. We need to adopt a funding resolution by September 30 in some form or fashion. The failure to go to conference is undermining our ability to do that.

Mr. CANTOR. The gentleman knows that he speaks of two different things when it comes to spending and when it comes to the budget blueprint.

The gentleman and I, Mr. Speaker, have had this discussion several times in these colloquies about why it is that Chairman RYAN has taken the position he has, as has our Speaker and our leadership, in that we don't want to go into a discussion if the prerequisite is you have to raise taxes. That's the bottom line. It's not process. It's substance. It is one of those issues that continues to make the divide between the parties.

Frankly, if one thinks that Washington spends tax dollars well, that we should go ahead and ask the hard-working taxpayers to pay more. Our side doesn't believe in that approach. Until we get beyond that, I'm not so sure there's going to be resolution as to a budget conference.

It does not mean that we cannot continue the work that we are doing on the appropriations bills and on the other policy measures that are coming to this floor in hopes of finding areas we can agree on. But there is a strong one we disagree on—and that is the issue of additional revenues in an environment where Washington doesn't spend what it does spend well.

We're trying to get to the bottom of that, effect good policy, act in a deliberative manner, and are willing to work with the Senate. The problem is the Senate hasn't even begun their appropriations process on the floor there. And that was my point about bicameral and, hopefully, in a bipartisan way.

Mr. HOYER. I'm surprised to hear the majority leader say budget has no relationship to the appropriations process or the continuing resolution.

Mr. CANTOR. I didn't say no relationship. I said the gentleman knows that we're talking about two different things when we're talking about a budget blueprint and the spending bills. Two different things.

Mr. HOYER. I've been on the Appropriations Committee, as the gentleman knows, for 23 years. I'm not on it now. And you've adopted a budget, not because the budget passed but because you deemed the budget passed, you've pretended it passed. We did that ourselves to get a number. Why is that important? Because that's the spending number. Ours is $967 billion. The Senate's is $1.058 trillion. It's some $91 billion more.

So there's a very substantial difference between the two Houses. It has to be resolved. Maybe the gentleman can tell me, since we don't have a resolution of what the number is going to be, which is what a budget conference does, and what I hear the gentleman saying is, unless the Senate agrees with your perception of revenues—and I know that you repeat that all the time. I get it. I know your position. I know the position of your party. My position, of course, is we need to pay for what we buy. You're right. If we don't buy it, we don't have to pay for it. And we have to make that judgment on behalf of the American people. That's what they sent us here to do.

But the fact of the matter is, if your position is that unless they agree with your perception—they have a different point of view. They were elected by the American people. By the way, this side was elected by the American people, 1.4 million more of whom voted for us than voted for your side of the aisle. You have the majority. Redistricting provided for that, God bless you. I wish I were in your position, not in mine, from that standpoint. But the fact of the matter is more of the American people voted for us than they voted on your side. But you have the majority.

You ought not to be in the position, I suggest, respectfully, Mr. Leader, of saying unless the Senate will accede to our position, we're not going to go to conference. I don't understand saying you want a bicameral, bipartisan agreement without going to conference.

Let me ask you about immigration. There's nothing on here about immigration. The Senate has passed a bipartisan bill. Does the gentleman have any reason to believe that we're going to move ahead on immigration? President Bush said just the other day the system is not working. The system is broken. Your chairman of the Budget Committee, talking about the budget, said we have a broken immigration system that needs to be fixed.

Can the gentleman tell me whether there's any action contemplated on immigration?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members are reminded to address their remarks to the Chair.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, I say to the gentleman that, as he correctly indicated, our chairman of the Judiciary Committee, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. GOODLATTE), has said that our system of immigration is broken and that he and the members of that committee are fast about trying to look at the complex issues of our immigration system and trying to deal with them in a fashion that is discrete on each issue, with a solution thereto. And in that committee we are in the process, as the gentleman knows, of looking at all of that and intend on making sure we get it right. The chairman has said rather than just doing it, we want to do it right. And we intend to do so.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Leader, the last question. You said the defense authorization bill is coming to the floor. Can the gentleman tell me whether that will be coming to the floor under an open rule or a rule other than open?

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, I would say to the gentleman that the DOD approps bill will be coming to the floor, and the Rules Committee will decide on the structure and how that debate will occur. We will announce that, obviously, upon the Rules Committee meeting.

Mr. HOYER. I thank the gentleman, and I yield back the balance of my time.

ADJOURNMENT TO MONDAY, JULY 22, 2013

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that when the House adjourns today, it adjourn to meet on Monday next, when it shall convene at noon for morning-hour debate and 2 p.m. for legislative business.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Virginia?

There was no objection.

OBSERVANCE OF FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF AURORA THEATER MASS SHOOTINGS

(Mr. COFFMAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. COFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, tomorrow we will mark the first anniversary of the mass shooting that took place in my hometown of Aurora, Colorado, in the early morning hours of July 20 of last year.

We must never forget the names of those who lost their lives in this senseless tragedy:

Matt McQuinn,
Micayla Medek,
Jessica Ghawi,
Gordon Cowden,
Jesse Childress,
John Larimer,
Jonathan Blunk,
Veronica Moser-Sullivan,
Alex Sullivan,
Alexander Teves,
Rebecca Wingo,
and AJ Boik.

Aurora was devastated in the aftermath of the shooting, but we have come together as a community in a demonstration of both strength and resilience, and tomorrow we will come together again to remember those who were lost last year.

AURORA REMEMBRANCE

(Mr. PERLMUTTER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with Mr. COFFMAN, Ms. DEGETTE, Mr. POLIS, and Mr. GARDNER in remembrance of the 1-year anniversary of the Aurora theater shooting.

Over the past year, victims and their families and those who lost loved ones have shown incredible courage in the face of such a terrible tragedy. That fateful night claimed the lives of those we will never forget and whose lives we will honor every day. This tragedy has not and will not define the city of Aurora, or the Denver area, or Colorado.

We want to thank and recognize the outstanding work of the police officers, medical staffs, and first responders who acted bravely and selflessly on July 20 and continue to serve the people of Aurora and Denver every day.

Mr. Speaker, I ask for a moment of silence for those who were killed and for those who were maimed physically and emotionally last year in the Aurora, Colorado, theater shooting.

OBAMACARE

(Mr. RICE of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RICE of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, Democratic Senator MAX BAUCUS was dead-on when he called the President's health care law a "train wreck." Its effects are becoming clear and undeniable. It is stifling economic growth and job creation, premiums are skyrocketing, and record numbers of employers are delaying hiring or hiring part time to avoid the employer mandate.

I recently heard from a hardworking small business owner, Sue Lee, who owns a hardware store in Latta, South Carolina. Since the passage of ObamaCare, she has seen her insurance premium balloon to more than $2,100 per month, or $26,000 per year, for three employees. That's outrageous. How can we expect our small businesses to grow and expand when they are forced to comply with more and more burdensome Federal regulation?

I am so glad we have the Federal Government to dictate to we helpless citizens which coverages we need. We can't be trusted to make that choice ourselves. How can we expect our small businesses to hire when they can't afford to buy maternity coverage on every employee, regardless of their age, mental health coverage on every employee? And substance abuse coverage on every employee is mandated by this ill-conceived and poorly drafted law.

The American economy would have already recovered if we could get the Federal Big Brother out of the way. I'm glad we delayed the employer and individual mandates, but the only way to relieve this law's enormous drag on our economy and get hardworking Americans back to work is full repeal.

SUCCESSFUL LAUNCH OF SECOND MOBILE USER OBJECTIVE SYSTEM SATELLITE

(Mrs. DAVIS of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the uniform and civilian employees at the Navy's Space and Naval Warfare Systems Command, or SPAWAR, and their successful launch of the second Mobile User Objective System satellite MUOS-2.

With the MUOS-2 launch just hours ago, our services will have a next-generation narrowband tactical satellite communications system designed to significantly improve ground communications for U.S. forces. This achievement comes at a time when most DOD civilians, including those who worked on this project, are being forced to take a pay cut because Congress cannot fix sequestration.

It would be natural for our Federal workers to listen to the debate in Washington about the budget and feel that their work is not valued. Mr. Speaker, I value our Federal workers. And MUOS-2 is only the latest example of the important role they play even in these troubling times.

EMAIL SPYING BY GOVERNMENT AGAINST CITIZENS

(Mr. POE of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, a few minutes ago, I sent out an email. I tweeted about an hour ago and posted on Facebook this morning. We have a world of instant, unlimited email storage, high-speed broadband, social media, and cloud computing. However, after 180 days, government agencies can snoop through everything I just mentioned. How in the cloud is this possible?

Because current law allows spying government to seize without warrant or probable cause emails over 180 days old. Big Government can demand a private company turn over a citizen's information without their consent, without their knowledge, or telling citizens later their emails have even been seized. This is a violation of the Fourth Amendment.

That's why Representative ZOE LOFGREN and I have introduced bipartisan legislation to protect a citizen's right of privacy against government. Our legislation will update the Electronic Communications Privacy Act. Government can't seize and snoop through your mail. It shouldn't be able to seize and snoop through your emails without warrant or probable cause.

And that's just the way it is.

WE HAVE A PRESIDENT, NOT A KING

(Mr. STEWART asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STEWART. Mr. Speaker, I wish that our President had the same respect for our Constitution that our Founding Fathers had, but he doesn't. He simply doesn't; for far too many of his political decisions are made with little regard for the sacred document that has guided our Nation for more than 200 years.

Several weeks ago, the President announced that he is not going to enforce certain provisions of ObamaCare. Now, whether it is a good policy or bad policy is not the point. The point is the President does not have the authority to make such a decision. The President is constitutionally bound to enforce the laws of the land.

How would my Democratic friends feel if Mitt Romney had been elected and in his first day in office he had decided that he was going to pick and choose which parts of ObamaCare he was going to enforce? Or what if he decided that the capital gains tax was a drag on the economy and he was no longer going to enforce that law?

The President's willingness to pick and choose which laws he will enforce is dangerous and demeaning to our democracy. It's demeaning to the very idea of an elected form of government. We have a President, not a King.

I hope the President will remember his constitutional oath.

THE HUMAN TOLL OF PRESIDENT OBAMA'S WAR ON LOW-COST AMERICAN ENERGY

(Mr. ROTHFUS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROTHFUS. Mr. Speaker, this afternoon, I'm heading home, heading home to western Pennsylvania. People back home are being negatively impacted by President Obama's war on low-cost American energy and all the regulations that are emanating from the unelected Federal elites here in Washington, D.C. We've got power plants closing back in western Pennsylvania, resulting in hundreds of lost jobs. We've got miners with middle class incomes also being laid off. We've got truckers and shippers jobs also being threatened.

President Obama's anti-energy agenda hurts all of those folks in western Pennsylvania and around the Nation. These hardworking moms and dads are losing their jobs, their livelihoods, and their ability to support their families and communities. This is the human toll of President Obama's war on low-cost American energy. It's a tragedy, and it must end.

WORLD EVENTS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 3, 2013, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GOHMERT) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

Mr. GOHMERT. Mr. Speaker, so much is happening in the world today, so much that is really earthshaking in its potential effect.

In the Middle East, I've spoken before about the potential rise of a new Ottoman Empire that, unfortunately, our own country, this Obama administration, has helped jump-start.

In Egypt, we supposedly had a friend. There were comments to direct attention to. Back on June 2, the BBC reported an interview in 2009 where during the interview the President was asked:

Do you regard President Mubarak as an authoritarian ruler?

President Obama said, in part:

He has been a stalwart ally in many respects, to the United States. He has sustained peace with Israel, which is a very difficult thing to do in that region. But he has never resorted to, you know, unnecessary demagoguing of the issue, and has tried to maintain that relationship. So I think he has been a force for stability and good in the region.

He points out, obviously there have been criticisms, but he saw him as a force for good in the region.

That's rather amazing when you look at what happened—we recall it was an Arab Spring, that we've later since realized was more of a nightmare winter. Certainly, the people of Egypt did not see it as a "spring" after President Morsi got around 13 million votes from the potential, as I understand, 50 million or more that could have voted. And he took over; and he began creating problems; and he became dictatorial; and he started violating his own constitution and taking actions that only a monarch or a tyrant should be taking.

But going back to the disposition and disposal of Mubarak in Egypt, it creates problems for a country when their leader on one occasion says, as the President did:

He has been a stalwart ally in many respects, to the United States. He has sustained peace with Israel, which is a very difficult thing to do in the region. But he has never resorted to, you know, unnecessary demagoguing of the issue, and has tried to maintain the relationship. So I think he has been a force for stability and good in the region.

What kind of message does it send to the world from what has been referred to as the remaining superpower in the world when its leader says to the world, this man has been a force for stability and for good, and then, not so long later, the same U.S. leader says he's got to go? He's got to go. He just needs to be done.

Well, if he was a force for stability and good, if you were accurate in those comments, then one would think to get rid of him would bring about instability and bad—to use the antonyms. But push, cajole, make efforts to force Mubarak to leave, we did. And as the President said, you know, he had been an ally.

That doesn't look very good when other nations start trying to determine how should we deal with the United States.

In one of my trips overseas meeting with foreign diplomats, I was told that diplomats from China regularly stop by and ask, Have you learned that you cannot trust the United States yet? Because one of these days you are going to figure that out; you can't trust the United States. They'll say they're your friend one day and then turn around and be your enemy soon after. One of these days you're going to figure out the United States can't be trusted, they're not your friend, and we're ready to be your friend whenever that happens. Just let us know. We're always ready to be your friend. You can trust us.

Well, I'm not so sure about that, but I am concerned about the U.S. lack of credibility. So Mubarak was ousted and the Muslim Brotherhood took over Egypt. The people of Egypt, on the whole, very good, decent people. The moderate Muslims that reside there didn't want Muslim Brotherhood, didn't want tyrants, but enough people didn't come out early on.

The Muslim Brotherhood had the best organization, and anybody with any intelligence in the region or anybody that watched news other than CNN could figure that out, that the Muslim Brotherhood was going to take over, but they were not what the rank-and-file people really wanted. That became clear when the rank-and-file people saw Morsi, a Muslim Brotherhood member who actually technically said he was withdrawing since he was leader of Egypt. But his comments, so disparaging and slanderous of Israelis and Jews, and certainly uncomplimentary of Americans, did not make him someone that the United States should endorse so wholeheartedly.

In Libya, though Secretary Gates, Secretary of Defense, said we have no national interest in Libya at all, we had a President that decided unilaterally—at least, unilaterally in this country. He did have the support of the 57 States that comprise the organization Islamic Council and he had support of some of the NATO countries that got a lot of oil from Libya. He went in unilaterally, when it certainly did not appear there was any will of a majority of Congress to use American assets, military assets, to take out Qadhafi.

Make no mistake about it, Qadhafi was a man who had blood on his hands, there's no question. Qadhafi was a man who had been engaged and supported terrorism. But interestingly, after 2003, when the United States, under President Bush, went into Iraq because both Democrats and Republicans, most of them, believed he was a threat, and according to the CIA notes, some guy named Joseph Wilson also believed that they were trying to get uranium, and even though there had been reports of yellowcake uranium having been taken out of Iraq, President Bush went into Iraq and in record time Saddam Hussein, his defense became the mother of all weak defenses and he was ousted.

All of a sudden Qadhafi, in Libya, went from a man who had been supporting terrorism to a man who was afraid of the United States and all of a sudden wanted to be our dear friend. There was a document that was made public that says the United States rescinded Libya's designation as a state sponsor of terrorism in June of 2006. Libya renounced terrorism and weapons of mass destruction in 2003 and has continued to cooperate with the United States and the international community to combat terrorism and terrorist financing.

On July 20, Malian President Amadou Toumani Toure confirmed to the Malian press that Libya, Algeria, and Mali planned to coordinate military and intelligence efforts to fight security threats linked to al Qaeda in the lands of the Islamic Maghreb in the Sahel-Saharan region.

Interestingly, Qadhafi had a true conversion experience when he became afraid that the United States might invade him next because of his support for terrorism, and he actually and legitimately did become an ally in the war against terror. In fact, when we look at things that the U.S. did—this is from The Washington Post, certainly not one of my biggest fans. But July 9, 2009, they reported that:

Libyan leader Muammar Qadhafi, who former President Ronald Reagan once denounced as a "mad dog," supped on pasta just two seats away from President Obama at the Group of Eight summit today and even secured a handshake with the U.S. President.

It talked about Qadhafi attending the summit, and it said, as Obama was shaking hands with Qadhafi, there were families of Pan Am 103 victims gathered at the British Embassy in Washington, it goes on, because they still were concerned about the blood he had on his hands.

So that was rather interesting that all of a sudden this was a man we could shake hands with, be friends with, and work deals with. Of course, Senator McCain was one of those who had gone over and felt like there was an opportunity to be friends. In fact, with regard to Mubarak, Senator McCain, supportive of the Obama administration and Secretary Clinton, had said this: the case of Mubarak is a great example that Mubarak was a great friend of the United States. Mubarak's predecessor concluded Camp David agreements and he stuck to it. Basically, there was a stable relationship between Egypt and Israel.

With regard to Qadhafi, this article from Reuters from August 14, 2009:

Senator McCain and the delegation with him expressed their deep happiness to meet the leader—

and praised him for his wisdom and strategic vision to tackle issues of concern to the world in his efforts to sustain peace and stability in Africa.

So there were bipartisan feelings when the Obama administration started that, gee, Mubarak was an ally, Qadhafi had become an ally as somebody who could be trusted, and all these things. They're easy to find on the Internet, just a Bing search away from finding these things.

So the world watches this and they look for consistency. Because one of the things, for those who are fans of baseball, some umpires call balls and strikes with a different strike zone. But having been an umpire and having played baseball, you can live with somebody that calls a ball just off the outside corner as a strike as long as he's always consistent. So, you know, you can trust this umpire. He skewed a little bit, but he's consistent, so you can always trust him.

Consistency is critically important in the area of foreign affairs, yet we don't seem to have been very consistent when we used our military resources to help oust Muammar Qadhafi after he had a conversion experience and was doing what he could to help us fight terrorism outside of Israel. Some referred to him as the best friend we had in getting inside information on terrorism to help us combat it.

There was the sense here in Congress we had no business getting involved in Libya, especially as the reports emerged that al Qaeda was backing rebels and we didn't know how extensive that al Qaeda involvement was. But we knew it was there. We knew there were radical Islamists that were trying to drive Qadhafi out, and this administration did not pause long enough to get an answer to the question: If we drive Qadhafi out, will we be more safe in America or less safe?

Because, despite this desire to please the organization of Islamist Council and others in NATO, the number one obligation of this Congress and this President is to provide for the common defense of the people in this country. We took an oath to support this country under this Constitution against all enemies foreign and domestic.

The reasoned analysis of Libya during this so-called Arab Spring that was really a freezing winter was that we are going to be in more trouble if Qadhafi is thrown out than if he is kept there—at least, those of us who looked at it besides the OIC and some that were getting oil from Libya who felt otherwise. But most people could see you're helping create instability into the region. If you look at the map of the former Ottoman Empire, you can see it around north Africa coming around up through the Middle East and Turkey, and you can see this starting to take shape.

We helped get rid of Mubarak and all of a sudden we get a radical Islamist in charge of Egypt. We helped not just merely with words and coercion but with bombs to get rid of Qadhafi. Many believe it is doubtful Qadhafi would have fallen, and certainly wouldn't have fallen when he did, if it weren't for all our bombing and air support to help the al Qaeda-backed rebels to throw him out and ultimately have him tortured and killed.

So where was the reasoning about how much this would help America, to allow radical Islamists to take Egypt and Libya? And then coming on around, as things fomented in Syria, it looked like initially these were not al Qaeda-backed rebels in Syria, and perhaps, as some believe, if we had acted quickly enough, if we had someone that wouldn't vote "present," if we had acted quickly enough, maybe we could have supported rebels who were not al Qaeda rebels, not radical Islamist rebels. But as it has degenerated in Syria now, and even as recent as this week, people are admitting that it looks like Assad really is more in control now.

It is degenerated to the point where our national security interest is not to get into the middle of that fight. You have a tyrant of a leader on one hand, and you have radical Islamists, most of whom would like to destroy the United States as well, who are challenging him. Where in the world is the interest in spilling American blood or treasure in getting into Syria?

With regard to Syria, we can look at comments that this administration had about Assad. CNSNews.com reported, March 28, 2011:

Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, on Sunday, drew a contrast between Syrian President Bashar Assad and his late father and predecessor, and said U.S. lawmakers who recently have visited Damascus regarded him as a "reformer."

She made the startling comment while explaining why the United States will not intervene on behalf of Syrian civilians revolting against the regime as it has done in the case of Libya.

President Assad has been very generous with me in terms of the discussions we have had.

"And when I last went to—the last several trips to Syria—I asked President Assad to do certain things to build a relationship with the United States and sort of show the good faith that would help us to move the process forward."

He mentioned some of the requests, including the purchase of land for the U.S. Embassy in Damascus, the opening of an American cultural center, noninterference in Lebanon's election, and the improvement of ties with Iraq and Bahrain, and said Assad had met each one.

"So my judgment is that Syria will move; Syria will change as it embraces a legitimate relationship with the United States and the West and economic opportunity that comes with it and the participation that comes with it."

Also in March of 2009 from the Jerusalem Center for Public Affairs, it says:

In early February, in a reversal of a long-standing U.S. policy, the U.S. Department of Commerce approved a license to sell Boeing 747 parts to Syria . . . A few weeks later, the U.S. Treasury Department authorized the transfer of $500,000 to the Children with Cancer Support Association, a Syrian charity associated with President Bashar Assad's wife, Asma. Both decisions were seen as a softening of U.S. sanctions and an important U.S. diplomatic overture.

So it goes on, our cozying up with Assad. Perhaps that's why, when others around the world were saying that you have some moderates who were rebelling against Assad and that perhaps we can help them, this administration had already started having good feelings with the Assad administration, and perhaps that contributed to the slowness to want to move and act.

One thing is very clear at this point—it should be to anybody who looks objectively—Syria is not a place the United States should be involved in right now because, when the winner between two forces fighting is not going to be helpful—no matter who it is—to our country and when our oath and obligation is to this country, we should not get involved in that.

There are stories about gunrunning, running guns from Libya to Syria. Hopefully, at some point, we'll know exactly what the story was on that and is on that. Was it ongoing? Was it going on when Chris Stevens was in-involved? Hopefully, our leadership will allow us to pursue that properly and get the information so that we know exactly what happened, because we still have not gotten to the bottom of what happened in Benghazi, and there are families of dead patriots who died in Benghazi who deserve to know the answers.

So we supported and were thrilled—I say "we," meaning this administration, not the Congress, necessarily—and seemed to be pretty impressed with Morsi's taking over. Though reports came out of the slanderous things he said about Jews and Israelis and Americans, this administration seemed to be thrilled with his taking the position that he did, and seemed to be comforted by his saying—this is a Texas paraphrase—You know, I may have been part of the Muslim Brotherhood, but I'll kind of back off of that for a while.

If you look at what he did, here are developments as reported by FOX News in Cairo in 2012:

In June: Morsi was elected President with 51.7 percent of the vote. He was sworn in. He became Egypt's first civilian Islamist ruler;

In August: A gunman kills 16 guards near the border with Israel; Morsi scraps a constitutional document which handed sweeping powers to the military, and he ousted Field Marshal Mohamed Hussein Tantawi, who was Head of State after Hosni Mubarak's fall in February of 2011;

In November: Morsi decreed that he would have sweeping new powers for himself. Later that month, the Islamic-dominated constituent assembly adopted a draft constitution after a process boycotted by liberals and Christians;

In December: Morsi annulled the decree of giving himself increased powers after all of the rancor and the people began to rise up in Egypt. Later in the month of December, 64 percent of the voters in a two-round referendum backed the new constitution in a vote that was marred by low turnout. The people of Egypt could see what was going on. Egypt plunged into political crisis with demonstrations by Morsi supporters and opponents, and they sometimes turned deadly;

Coming through April 2013: Sectarian violence north of Cairo kills four Christians and a Muslim;

In May: Morsi carried out a cabinet reshuffle, which fell short of opposition demands. Later in May, gunmen kidnapped three policemen and four soldiers in the Sinai peninsula. They were freed on May 22;

In June: Egypt's highest court invalidated the Islamist-dominated Senate, which assumed a legislative role when Parliament was dissolved and a panel that drafted the constitution. The Presidency says the Senate will maintain its powers until a new lower house is elected;

Later in June: Egyptian and foreign non-government official employees were given jail sentences, ranging from 1 to 5 years, from working illegally, causing international outrage. We know there were some good people who were jailed for nothing except trying to help people;

On June 15: Morsi announced the "definitive" severing of relations with war-torn Syria;

On June 21: Tens of thousands of Islamists gather ahead of a planned opposition protest;

On June 23: Defense Minister Abdel Fattah al-Sisi warns the army will intervene if violence erupts;

On June 28: The U.S. says nonessential Embassy staff can leave after an American is killed during protests;

On June 29: U.S. President Barack Obama urges Morsi to be more “constructive” as the death toll rises. The Tamarod “rebellion” campaign, which called rallies for June 30, says more than 22 million have signed a petition demanding Morsi’s resignation and a snap election. The reports are that the largest demonstration may reach 33 million.

There had never been a demonstration in the entire world of as many as 20 million people, but the people of Egypt rose up. They recognized that radical Islamists in charge of their country were not a good thing even though the leaders of our country and the executive branch could not see the obvious.

In having talked to Egyptians who were furious with CNN—because most of them don’t get FOX News, and so they’re relegated to CNN. They were furious at how CNN seemed to take the side of the Muslim Brotherhood over and over, and they related that CNN was basically a part of the Muslim Brotherhood, at least as conveyed to me. There were people very upset.

Why are they not more objective?

And I tried to explain to them, Look, you have to understand that CNN has gotten such low ratings at times in the last couple of years that sometimes we’ve got more people watching C-SPAN—they’re that bored—than watching CNN. Even though we’re not part of the Nielsen ratings with the coverage here in the House, there are estimates. How sad is that for the once great Cable News Network?

What’s even sadder is that this administration, with all of its assets and intelligence ability at its fingertips and disposal and with supposedly all of the people it could ever want—the people they thought were the best in the world at analyzing foreign situations—they thought Morsi was a good thing. Then, as you look at the map and as you see this jump-start of an Ottoman Empire having developed, wow, a problem occurred.

As I’ve said on this floor, Egyptians have caught me and have said, Hey, you’re in Congress. Quit helping the Muslim Brotherhood. They’re not good for Egypt. We don’t like their tyrannical nature. We want to have a government where we have some say. We don’t want tyrannical people who are Muslim. We don’t want that.

Just as in Afghanistan, moderate Muslims say, We don’t want radical Islamists, like the Taliban, controlling our country.

I can’t blame the administration for the constitution that was forced on Afghanistan—that forced shari’a law, that forced a centralized nation. Many of them I’ve met with over in Afghanistan. Together with the Northern Alliance leaders we’ve met with, they’ve said, Look, if you could just give us a more federalist government like you’re supposed to have in America where States have more power; if you could let our regions elect our governors instead of the President appointing them and elect our mayors instead of the President appointing them; if you could let us have more control, we can keep the Taliban from taking over. We’re Muslim, but we don’t want the radical Islamists. Don’t leave us in a situation where that’s what we have.

That’s what we left them with and appeared to encourage in Egypt. It’s certainly what we left Libya with, and four Americans were dead in Benghazi as a result. Bad decisions, unfortunately, at the level of the highest positions in the United States of America have terrible consequences all around the world.

As I’ve mentioned, an elderly African from west Africa told me before I left a couple of years ago, We were so excited when you elected a Black President in America, but we’ve seen America. It appears to be growing weaker and weaker, and you’re not taking the strong stance you used to. We’re concerned because, if America does not stay strong, we will suffer around the world, those of us who count on you to stand for freedom and what’s right. Please don’t get any weaker.

There are people around the world pleading that, and they don’t even ask us to be the world’s policeman. They just ask us to stand strong so that, if we were needed to stop an outright injustice that could threaten the world, including us, we could step in. But unfortunately, in the Middle East, nobody fears the United States and nobody is threatened by the United States. They see us as a paper tiger.

It has been amazing, though. If you just watch certain cable news networks—and even FOX I don’t think has done quite an adequate job of really capturing what has been going on in Egypt. This is for the whole history of mankind. We are talking about a major, incredible, earthshaking revolution that has gone on in Egypt. These are people—moderate Muslims, combined with Coptic Christians, coupling themselves with liberal secularists—who don’t want radical Islam running Egypt. So this grand scheme of building a great caliphate, a new Ottoman Empire—whatever you want to call it—ran into a huge problem when these incredible, freedom desiring Egyptians rose up in greater numbers than has ever arisen anywhere in the world in the whole history of mankind.

This is incredible—incredible—and people need to recognize and need to be encouraged, not by the Arab winter that was originally called an Arab Spring, but by the true spring that is now happening in Egypt as moderate Muslims and Coptic Christians and caring secularists have arisen together and said “no” to radical Islam. We want freedom. We want a say in our government.

In having visited with a friend who has been over there and has taken pictures and talked to people, she said it was amazing to see the Egyptian pope have people—Muslims—come up and say, We are so sorry for the way Christians are being treated in Egypt by the Morsi administration. We are so sorry. We hope we can change this to where we can live together in peace.

That’s what they want. Twenty, thirty million people coming out in protest? That would scare the little, puny Occupy Wall Street people to death. It’s incredible.

The people of the United States, Mr. Speaker, need to understand we are living in a time that we are witnessing extraordinary international events, even when people at the highest levels of this country do not recognize how extraordinary it is. Perhaps they do, but perhaps they’re embarrassed because radical Islam, through the Muslim Brotherhood, is now taking over Egypt and Libya and trying to take over Syria and putting our allied King Abdullah in Jordan in the hot seat, trying to force agreements out of him over the threat of deposing him.

People over in the Middle East get it. The people in Russia and China, leaders there, they get it. This is a big deal. But perhaps our administration has been embarrassed by not recognizing the real truth of what was going on.

I thought it would be helpful to just look at some of the photographs just recently taken during these demonstrations to get more of a feeling of where the Egyptian people are as this most extraordinary of revolutions is taking place. And it’s important to note that you can talk to people in Egypt that say, Look, we want to be friends with the United States. We like the United States, but we cannot stand the fact that your government, we believe, really helped force us into having a Muslim Brotherhood, a radical Islamist in charge of our country. We didn’t want it. You forced the elections on us before we were ready. Some would say, Well, they chose their own elections. We were helping. We could’ve delayed them until more people had time to participate. But all the information that I was hearing here on the Hill, that was nonclassified, indicated that if elections occurred when they did, the Muslim Brotherhood would win. They were the most organized. And if they could be delayed to a time where the people themselves had a chance to organize and be heard, that there really would be a good turn in Egypt.

But this administration did not help, did not delay the elections long enough to allow the true Egyptian people to be heard, and as a result, no matter how unfair it may be or how fair it may be, the Egyptian people, millions and millions of them, have a terrible perception of the leadership of the United States. They make clear they like America, they like the United States, but the leadership currently did them great harm.

We know that when the President was elected, as he went around and spoke in the Middle East, some said that this was going to really increase the love and affection between the United States and majority-Muslim countries. The polling data seems to say just the opposite: that our country, because of the leadership of this administration, is respected and admired far less than it ever was even under the Bush administration, because at least under the Bush administration they knew that Bush would be consistent, whether they liked him or not.

So I think it would be helpful to look at some of these pictures, one of the big posters that was being used during the revolution. Make no mistake. When the Egyptians put messages in their big banners and signs in English, they want the message coming to America. The message these Egyptians had:

Egyptians spoke. Al-Sisi listened. We the people have spoken.

So they're appreciating the military leader that—after 20 million, 30-plus million Egyptians arose that dwarfed the small number of votes that Morsi got in the early election, the people of Egypt spoke. This was a revolution, an uprising by the people. And the military heard and witnessed the people rising up, and it answered and said, Okay, Morsi goes, because they recognized, as did the vast people across Egypt, that he had violated the Constitution. He had become a tyrant. He had become a dictator, and he had to go. Our administration here was slow to recognize. It's very sad because we do have a very intelligent President in the United States. Yet, the image they have in Egypt is that he sided with the wrong people, that the masses in Egypt did not want.

So on this same poster where they're praising the leader of the military in Egypt for listening to the majority of adults in Egypt and doing the right thing for democracy, they have a red "X" through our great President's face. It's terribly unfortunate. It does not actually do what this President and most of us in this country hoped—well, at least majority-Muslim nations will look on us more favorably, and this is what we're seeing.

I have another poster here during the massive protests. From what I was told by people that were there, they got really upset as CNN kept saying this is a coup, this is a coup, trying to diminish the importance of what was happening with 20 million, 30 million Egyptians rising up. So obviously they mean this for United States consumption. But these are things that massive numbers of people in Egypt were supportive of. It's a revolution, not a military coup, 33 million Egyptians protesting peacefully against Morsi, the tyrant and terrorist, who was supported by the USA. They want to make sure that we understand this is the real people of Egypt rising up. We need to be supportive of that.

Another sign:

New supreme guide of the Muslim Brotherhood. Anne Patterson, hands off Egypt.

There were multiple of those signs around as people were gathering.

They've seen what this administration did, and they didn't like it. These were the masses. The symbol of the Muslim Brotherhood was in the same circle with CNN because they began to feel in Egypt that CNN was not reporting accurately, that the people did want to live in peace with Christians and did want to live in peace with secularists, and not at the hands of a Muslim Brotherhood tyrant.

This sign, in both English and their language, says, "Obama supports terrorism." Well, of course President Obama doesn't support terrorism. Of course he does not. But the way it looked to Egyptians when we were supporting a terrorist, they presume we must and our President must support terrorism. We know he doesn't, but they don't know that because this Nation, this administration has supported terrorists in Libya and Egypt, and is now trying to get support for terrorists in Syria.

Another sign during the demonstrations obviously for U.S. consumption:

My dear American friend, when you get killed by terrorists, do not blame anyone but your President Obama and his administration.

Well, that's ridiculous. When we're killed by terrorists in America, we should not blame the President. There may be negligence in America by many people when it occurs, as I believe happened with the Boston bombing. We were given information that was not properly utilized because of the handcuffing that has gone on within our FBI, within our intelligence community, within our State Department, and the purging of training material to keep us, as one intelligence officer said, from being able to see who our enemy is. We have hurt ourselves in a terrible fashion in our ability to understand who wants to kill us.

I don't support any of these signs. I don't think they're proper. But I think it's important to understand what the people in Egypt are seeing and thinking so that we can give them the proper perspective on American people.

You can't really read the whole thing on this one, but it is basically making it clear this is not a coup, it's the people:

Thanks to our great Army that supports our great revolution.

In the October Revolution in the Soviet Union, Lenin appeared there in St. Petersburg and persuaded some people to support his revolution, but that revolution, that little gathering would not have done any good, as historians know. It was not until Trotsky went across to the military, across the river—I've been there—and he got up on something and he starts speaking eloquently to the military. Once he convinced the military to side with Lenin, then there was a true revolution that occurred. Nobody called that a coup. It was a small handful of people around Lenin rising up, but they convinced the military to support the October Revolution. As a result, there was a revolution and not just a tiny little uprising, which it would have otherwise been without Trotsky's eloquence.

That's why it's important to understand that when 33 million in Egypt rise up, this is not an in-house coup. This is the masses of a great country rising up to say, We yearn to be free, and we don't want a radical Islamist controlling our country. And it's important for people of the United States to understand this is where we are. And 33 million people, the vast majority of the adult voters in that country, want to make clear they want to live in peace with Christians, secularists. Those are the people we can hold accountable and trust more that they will do the right thing because the support for the persecution of Christians around the world, the persecution and the killing of Christians, the torturing of Christians around the world, is growing like never before, and this great nation that arose based on Judeo-Christian ethics stands idly by as the last public Christian church in Afghanistan closed, as the last Jew, publicly admitting Jew, leaves.

That's when Afghanistan still had vast American presence. Even today, we could still turn the tide if we choose to, but we are not. And there may be an accountability issue some day with the judge of all judges. Because as John Quincy Adams argued, right down here below us in the old Supreme Court chamber downstairs, in the Amistad case, as he stood there representing Africans who were free Africans, but then they were wearing chains, and they were said to be slaves because they had been captured by other Africans and sold and brought to the Caribbean and then put on the Spanish ship the Amistad, and then they landed in America by mistake, and the Africans wanted to be free and the Spanish said, No, they're our property. Ultimately, the Supreme Court downstairs—you can find online, Mr. Speaker, the last part of John Quincy Adams's oral argument as he was literally frightened because he knew if he had not done an adequate job to argue his case, that those Africans would wear chains for the rest of their lives, and their children would and possibly their children, if he did not do an adequate job in representing them.

He didn't feel good about the first 2 days of his argument. So he finishes by asking, Where is Chief Justice Marshall? And he ran through the names of every justice that had been on the court and was dead.

One of the Justices of that nine-Justice Court had died during oral arguments one night. It was not during the arguments themselves, but during the course of the arguments. So they were down. He asked where he was. He asked where the solicitor general was that had last argued a case against him in the early 1820s. And he ends up pointing out, in essence, they've all gone to meet their Judge, and the biggest question about their lives is did they hear, Well done, good and faithful servant?

John Quincy Adams won the case, and those Africans left as free as they should have been.

But some of us have a fear that if we do not do more to support truth and justice and the American ideals that this country was founded on, there will come a day of judgment; and but for grace, it would be a horrible thing. But we still have an obligation to do the best we can, to meet our sworn obligations, and to let people like this in Egypt know that we want to stand with free nations and be friends of free nations.

Here's another big banner that was there during the Egyptian protest:

And then with an American in the picture, the caption says:

We know what you did last summer.

They've gotten the wrong impression of the people of America, and it's up to the Americans to demand our leadership give the people of Egypt the proper impression that we do care about freedom-loving people.

Here's another one. It's hard to read, but:

Obama and Patterson support terrorism in Egypt.

Well, we know that's not true, but there are masses over there that believe that. We've got to correct that, and the way you do that is by supporting people who really do want to be free.

And another picture that just came from Egypt, I was told the Egyptians love America, but they don't trust our leadership.

We have an obligation. Our obligation is to the United States of America. And in this Congress, our obligation is to our oath, to fulfill our oath. And those of us who are Christians, to whom oaths mean so much more, we owe everything we have, owe everything we can do to support our Constitution and to protect people in this country from all enemies, foreign and domestic, and to protect our Constitution from all enemies, foreign and domestic.

And there are some who would say, you know, the Muslim Brotherhood, they got pretty violent over to Egypt and Libya and other places, and there are Muslim Brotherhood members in the United States. As one Egyptian article pointed out with pride, gee, they can be proud, they have six Muslim Brotherhood members who are high level confidants in this administration, in important positions of really advice in this administration.

The Muslim Brotherhood members here in America, as I understand it, did not support the Boston bombing because their position is we are doing such a great job of infiltrating and getting key positions of advice where we can monitor and watch and talk people into doing what we believe should be done, we don't want to stir up violence in the United States now; but maybe at some point it'll be necessary, but right now we're doing so well helping infiltrate the government and take over that we don't want violence right now. It may wake up the American people.

But the truth is anyone in this country or around the world that wants to subvert our Constitution to sharia law is an enemy of the United States. Whether they live here domestically or they live abroad, if their allegiance is to subvert the U.S. Constitution to sharia law, they are our enemy. And they are people from whom we took an oath to protect our Constitution and this country. The people of Egypt, God bless them, they have arisen and made clear, we don't want radical Islamists running our country. We don't want to see Christians persecuted and killed and tortured, as has been going on. Those are the kind of people this Nation should befriend and not try to rush in and shore up those who would persecute, torture, and kill Christians and Jews and secularists that just want to be free.

Mr. Speaker, we have an awesome obligation. We have an obligation to the people of the United States of America to get things right around the world so we do not put Americans at risk. And for those who would try to put a racial label on anything, there's nothing racial about wanting right and truth and justice. And I wonder where they were when I was supporting Alan Keyes. It's not about race; it's about truth, justice. It's about the life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness with which we were endowed by our Creator. But just like any inheritance, any endowment, if we're not willing to protect it, if we're not willing to fight for it, we will lose it.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, PRESIDENT NELSON MANDELA

(Ms. JACKSON LEE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Speaker, let me thank the gentleman from Virginia for his courtesy, and I thank the Speaker.

Yesterday was the 95th birthday of former President Nelson Mandela. What a joy to be able to hear that during the time of celebration that we had here in the United States Congress, President Mandela, who had been ill for a period of time, had earphones on and was looking at television. The words that came from the minority and majority leader, Republicans and Democrats, the Speaker and leader, Republicans and Democrats and various leaders of the House, commended and recognized that a man who had come from the tyranny of separation and apartheid, who had to be against his government in order to free his people, could be recognized and applauded, because when he walked out of Robben Island, he walked without bitterness.

And one of the greatest opportunities that he gave to the world was the idea that there could be a democratic election in South Africa. And from that time, he has been a man who promoted peace and promoted love and led his nation out of the devastation of separation and bitterness with kindness and love.

I'm delighted to stand on the floor today and say: happy birthday, Madiba; happy birthday, President Nelson Mandela. And if it's God's will, may you live forever onward in better health.

UNANSWERED BENGHAZI QUESTION NO. 4

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 3, 2013, the Chair recognizes the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF) for 30 minutes.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, today I ask my fourth question in a series of unresolved issues surrounding the Benghazi terrorist attacks. With only eight more legislative days before the Congress departs for August recess, I'm increasingly concerned that these questions will remain unanswered by the time we mark the 1-year anniversary of the Benghazi attacks the week we return from recess in September.

That is why I continue to raise these questions to provide the American people with a better understanding of how little we really know about this incident, despite nearly a year of investigations in multiple committees. Unless these questions are answered by the committees, or rather by a select committee focused on Benghazi as I have advocated for more than 8 months, the American people will never learn the complete truth.

Today I am pleased to share one piece of good news before I raise the fourth critical unanswered question. At my request today, the House State and Foreign Operations Appropriations Subcommittee reported out a bill that prohibits funding from the Millennium Challenge Corporation (MCC) from going to the country of Tunisia.

Last year, Tunisia detained the first suspect in the Benghazi terror attacks, Ali Harzi, after he was deported from Turkey in the weeks following the attack.

Tunisia, despite being a beneficiary of more than $300 million in U.S. foreign aid by the American people, refused to allow the FBI access to this suspect for nearly 5 weeks. It was only after congressional threats to cut off the aid that the Government of Tunisia reconsidered its position.

Ultimately, the FBI interrogation team returned to Tunisia and was allowed just 3 hours to interview Harzi, with his lawyer and a Tunisian judge present. Not long after the FBI interview, Harzi was inexplicably released by the Tunisian authorities, and his release was celebrated by the terrorist group Ansar al Sharia.

Consider that for a moment the Tunisian Government kept the FBI interrogation team waiting on the ground for 5 weeks before they ultimately left the country. Only under the threat from certain Members of the U.S. Congress did Tunisia relent and allow the FBI team to return to interview this suspect for a mere 3 hours. Then, when the terrorist is released, there is a celebration. That's shameful. We lost four Americans in the attack on Benghazi and a number were wounded and two were wounded very seriously.

Because of Tunisia's obstruction of the FBI's investigation, the House has taken the first step today to send a signal to Tunisia and other countries harboring the terrorists responsible for the death of four Americans in Benghazi. This is an important and overdue step—overdue because the Obama administration could have long ago suspended or terminated its payments to Tunisia or other countries that failed to cooperate with the FBI in this investigation.

This brings me to today's question, the fourth in a series of critical unanswered questions: Why has the Obama administration not taken any steps to apply pressure to countries that have refused to allow the FBI access to terrorists responsible for the Benghazi attack?

After nearly a year of investigation, has the FBI had access to any other suspects in any other country other than their brief interview with Harzi?

Even more importantly, nearly a year after the Benghazi attacks, why has no Benghazi terrorist faced any form of justice for the killing of four Americans, including a sitting U.S. Ambassador?

Reports indicate that upwards of 100 terrorists may have attacked the consulate and annex. We can't even bring one of those 100 to justice after a year? How is it that after nearly a year of investigation, and despite the full resources of the U.S. intelligence, defense, and law enforcement agencies, we are still unable to locate, apprehend, and bring to justice any of the suspected terrorists?

One can't help but ask whether the administration really wants a full and transparent accounting of what transpired on that fateful night. The administration's record certainly does not reflect it.

The American people may wonder if the government really wants progress made in this investigation for fear that it will no longer be able to hide behind the FBI investigation as its excuse not to comment on what happened in Benghazi.

Consider that in May, the Associated Press reported, and I quote from the Associated Press:

The U.S. has identified five men who might be responsible for the attack on the diplomatic mission in Benghazi, Libya, last year, and has enough evidence to justify seizing them by military force as suspected terrorists, officials say. But there isn't enough proof to try them in a U.S. civilian court as the Obama administration prefers. The men remain at large while the FBI gathers evidence.

If this report is accurate, it recommends a stunning abdication of responsibility on the part of this administration to allow known Benghazi terrorists to continue to walk free because the President refuses to use military force to capture or eliminate them.

When will the FBI be able to gather enough evidence to use in a civilian trial against them if they're denied access by countries because the administration refuses to use the tools of American diplomacy to bring pressure to bear on those countries?

Additionally, there's a larger question of whether it is even appropriate, if enough evidence is gathered, to bring the terrorists to the U.S. for a civilian trial. Benghazi was a battlefield, not a crime scene. Those responsible should face justice as enemy combatants, not as common criminals.

As we mark the 1-year anniversary of the Benghazi attacks, how can any of us really say to the families of the victims, or the wounded survivors—and we should know who the survivors are, because they are heroes—that the U.S. has done everything they can to locate, capture, and hold accountable those responsible?

I want to credit Representative KAY GRANGER, the chair of the Appropriations Subcommittee that blocked additional funding for Tunisia. I hope this Congress will similarly hold accountable the other countries that obstruct the FBI's efforts to arrest or interview other suspects. It is increasingly clear the Obama administration will not.

How many years will it take until any, if not all, of the Benghazi terrorists face justice for killing four Americans and seriously wounding several others?

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

PAMELA JONES-MORTON, FROM ESTERO, FLORIDA, AWARDED THE CARNEGIE MEDAL

HON. TREY RADEL

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. RADEL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to congratulate Pamela Jones-Morton for being awarded the Carnegie Medal for her bravery in saving Audrey L. Hart and Colleen M. Page from a burning car in Bonita Springs, Florida. I am submitting a copy of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission's news release which includes Mrs. Jones-Morton's story.

[From the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, June 25, 2013]

Pamela Jones-Morton saved Audrey L. Hart and Colleen M. Page from burning, Bonita Springs, Florida, December 10, 2011. Audrey 3, was the back-seat passenger in the sport utility vehicle drive by her grandmother, Page, 49, that collided with another vehicle and overturned onto its passenger side. Page was suspended, restrained by her safety belt, and Audrey was secured in a child safety seat as flames erupted on the undercarriage of their vehicle. Driving nearby, Jones-Morton, 64, retired educator, witnessed the accident. She approached the sport utility vehicle and attempted to open the only accessible door, at the rear, but it was locked. At Jones-Morton's urging, Page unlocked the doors. Jones-Morton opened the rear door, cleared items from the cargo area, and entered. The only passageway inside the vehicle was between the tops of the seats and the ceiling, and Jones-Morton maneuvered through it, discovering Audrey as she did so. After struggling to release Audrey from her seat, Jones-Morton carried her to the back of the vehicle and stepped outside. She then reentered it for Page. She made her way to the front of the vehicle and released Page's safety belt, Page then falling to the passenger door. The two women made their way to the back of the vehicle and exited. Flames spread quickly, engulfing the vehicle before firefighters arrived.

SPEECH OF

HON. JOHN CONYERS, JR.

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 18, 2013

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 5) to support State and local accountability for public education, protect State and local authority, inform parents of the performance of their children's schools, and for other purposes:

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Chair, I rise today in opposition of H.R. 5, the so-called Student Success Act.

H.R. 5 reauthorizes the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), and it is one that we have waited a long time to revisit.

I hoped that we could work together on this bill because all of us care about our children's growth and development. Both Republicans and Democrats share concerns over the rate at which we are falling behind other nations. And whether you are liberal or conservative, we know that we need to hold our schools accountable for their performance.

That is why this bill is so distressing. H.R. 5 is as dysfunctional as anything else that has come to the floor this Congress. It may not be as pointless as the 38th and 39th votes to repeal Obamacare that we had Wednesday. And it may not have been rammed down our throats quite as aggressively as the Farm Bill was last week. But this bill is still a piece of unilateral maneuvering—when we could be working together.

Instead of spending public funds for the public good, H.R. 5 creates a quota system that shifts funds to private schools that are meant to go to low-income children and schools. Along the way to privatizing our public schools, it decreases accountability for states and school districts by block-granting specialized grant programs—allowing funds meant to address specific hardships to be diverted elsewhere.

I will admit to my friends across the aisle, that while I know some in your base may buy into that pipedream—it is not the way to rebuild America. Formalizing the distinctions between our two Americas is not the key to healing our nation. Nor is depriving extra help to students with special learning barriers.

Give our children their future. Give them a bill that will guarantee a 21st century school system to lead the world. I urge my colleagues to use this opportunity for something greater than mere posturing, and oppose this bill.

SPEECH OF

HON. GENE GREEN

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 18, 2013

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 5) to support State and local accountability for public education, protect State and local authority, inform parents of the performance of their children's schools, and for other purposes:

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Chair, I rise today to express my opposition to H.R. 5, the Student Success Act. This bill undermines the fundamental purpose of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), which was created to ensure that disadvantaged children are provided a high-quality education that allows them to compete on a level playing field with their more-advantaged peers.

Among its many problematic provisions, this bill locks in devastating sequestration-level education funding, fails to hold States and districts accountable for supporting and improving the achievement of all students, eliminates and weakens protections for disadvantaged students, and lacks critical support systems for our Nation's educators.

I believe No Child Left Behind (NCLB) is flawed and must be reformed, and reauthorization presents a tremendous opportunity to make much-needed improvements and bring our education system into the 21st century. However, instead of fixing the problems of NCLB, the Student Success Act does not reflect best practices and fails to strike the appropriate balance between flexibility and accountability.

Reauthorization should support college and career-ready standards, address the overuse of testing in teacher and school evaluations that currently forces educators to substitute test preparation for instruction, and feature an accountability system that includes meaningful targets for improving student attainment that gives schools and districts flexibility in how they achieve those goals.

I urge my colleagues to vote against H.R. 5 and instead support reauthorization that restores our Nation's commitment to providing equal opportunity for all students regardless of background.

SPEECH OF

HON. CHRIS VAN HOLLEN

OF MARYLAND

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 18, 2013

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 5) to support State and local accountability for public education, protect State and local authority, inform parents of the performance of their children's schools, and for other purposes:

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Mr. Chair, I rise in opposition to the legislation on the Floor today, a missed opportunity to reform our education system and ensure that every student has access to a high quality education.

We should be working in a bipartisan manner to correct the widely-acknowledged flaws of No Child Left Behind and make the law more fair, flexible, and responsive to the needs of students. Instead, the bill before us shortchanges our schools and eliminates supports for our most vulnerable populations.

We should be providing the resources our schools need to fix the achievement gap and put a good, supported teacher in every classroom. Instead, today's bill locks in post-sequestration funding levels for K-12 education and cuts back on professional development.

We should be setting high expectations for our schools and giving States flexibility to create accountability systems that improve achievement for every student. Instead, this legislation eliminates requirements for districts to fix struggling schools and ensure that all students make it to graduation.

• This "bullet" symbol identifies statements or insertions which are not spoken by a Member of the Senate on the floor.

Matter set in this typeface indicates words inserted or appended, rather than spoken, by a Member of the House on the floor.

We should be providing additional support for students with additional challenges—students with disabilities, English-language learners, and at-risk youth. Instead, we have a bill that allows funds to be directed away from these students and allows all students with disabilities to be taught at a lower standard.

We should be encouraging innovation in the classroom, empowering teachers and allowing charter schools to test new ideas. But while this bill would expand charter school availability, it does not require those schools to be accountable or transparent with taxpayer dollars.

Mr. Chair there are many missed opportunities in this bill. It continues the exclusive focus on math and reading, with no support for STEM, geography, history, the arts, or other subjects that provide a well-rounded education. It eliminates funding for afterschool programs and wraparound services that ensure students are prepared to learn.

Our students, teachers, and parents deserve better than this bill. We should come together in a bipartisan fashion, as we have always done with education in the past, to develop real reform that gives our students the skills they need to succeed in our 21st century global economy.

SPEECH OF

HON. THOMAS E. PETRI

OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 18, 2013

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 5) to support State and local accountability for public education, protect State and local authority, inform parents of the performance of their children's schools, and for other purposes:

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chair, I rise today in support of this amendment and am pleased to be a cosponsor. Charter schools are a critical component of our Nation's public school system and are helping to foster an array of high-quality public school options for parents and their children. Today, more than 6,000 public charter schools serve a diverse student body of more than 2.3 million students in 40 States and the District of Columbia. Unfortunately, however, almost one million students find themselves on charter school waiting lists, unable to attend the school of their choice. We must do more to expand access to these high-quality public school options.

One recent study conducted by the Stanford Center for Research on Education Outcomes found that schools that have a strong start tend to remain highly successful schools in the future. The federal Charter Schools Program has been a crucial tool in helping many charter schools get this strong start. Unfortunately, however, many schools aren't able to use the funds provided through this program in ways that would be most effective for their students. This amendment would simply expand the ways in which charter schools can use the startup funds provided through this program, including for professional development, teacher training, instructional materials, and minor facilities improvements.

The amendment would also give priority to States that allow funding provided to charter schools to be shared when a student is enrolled in multiple schools. This flexibility will help support the growth of a wide array of high-quality virtual schools and other expanded learning opportunities provided through partner organizations.

Lastly, the amendment simply ensures that charter schools receiving funds under the federal Charter Schools Program are doing outreach to low-income and underserved populations. While charter schools often serve a disproportionate number of low-income students, this amendment will simply ensure that they continue to lead the way in providing access to high-quality public school options.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

SPEECH OF

HON. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 18, 2013

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 5) to support State and local accountability for public education, protect State and local authority, inform parents of the performance of their children's schools, and for other purposes:

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Chair, funding for education and STEM education is an investment in our future, and perhaps one of the most important investments we make as a Nation. I am very concerned that H.R. 5 guts education funding by 1.3 billion dollars in order to lock in the sequester preventing Congress from being able to appropriate above sequester levels. According to an analysis carried out by the Information Technology and Innovation Foundation, the United States ranks second to last of the 44 countries and regions analyzed in terms of progress in innovation-based competitiveness over the last decade. It used to be that the world's best and brightest flocked to our shores. Now many of our own best and brightest are finding better opportunities in other countries, and we are losing our edge in the competition for top talent from around the world.

Mr. Chair, I have many concerns with this bill. H.R. 5 opts to convert Title 1 funding into a block grant program. This change will disproportionately harm many disadvantaged low-income students. Schools across the country, including some in my Congressional district, rely on these funds to help ensure that all children meet State academic standards. Even the highest performing students in the urban schools are faced with an uphill battle in obtaining the same academic achievement present at the high performing schools. While college preparatory courses are standard for many students in our highest performing public schools, urban school districts often lack the resources to provide the same advantages to their students.

According to the National Education Association, H.R. 5 "as a whole it erodes the historical federal role in public education: targeting resources to marginalized student populations as a means of helping to ensure equity of opportunity for all students . . . [and] perpetuate[s] a system that intentionally delivers unequal opportunities and quality to children across this country." Even according to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, H.R. 5, "Would reduce school-level accountability, would not provide consequences for low-performing schools, and would not require states to adopt college- and career-ready standards and assessments."

Mr. Chair, the cuts in this bill which will ultimately result in a poorer education for future generations of young Americans represent a gigantic step backwards for our Nation. I strongly believe an investment in education funding is the most sensible investment we can make. The Elementary and Secondary Education Act was first enacted at the height of the Civil Rights Movement in order to increase investments in primary and secondary education, strengthen equal access to education and establish high standards and accountability. Mr. Chair, in conclusion, I cannot support the bill we have before us today which erodes and dismantles the key principles of this law.

SPEECH OF

HON. TREY RADEL

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 18, 2013

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 5) to support State and local accountability for public education, protect State and local authority, inform parents of the performance of their children's schools, and for other purposes:

Mr. RADEL. Mr. Chair, I rise today in support of Mr. LUETKEMEYER's amendment that expresses the sense of Congress that States and local education agencies should maintain the ability and responsibility to set curriculum and measure achievement for their students.

This historically has been the case, but today, under current law, the Federal Government believes they should dictate policy at all levels of government.

The Department of Education heavily incentivized and pressured States into adopting the Common Core State Standards Initiatives. These national standards and assessments ultimately determine the curriculum and teaching materials used in the classroom across the nation. Common Core is a one-size-fits-all approach to instructing kids from Florida to Alaska. Washington cannot demand a similar teaching style or test result from a teacher in Cape Coral as they would from one in Milwaukee.

Common Core was adopted by many States through a heavy-handed waiver for the Administration's "Race to the Top" grant program and Title I funding. This "Race to the Top" program imposes a national K-12 core curriculum-testing program in return for funds. This top-down influence erodes state authority over education.

We have little to show for the trillions we have spent on national education mandates. Failed federal education mandates have done enough damage and it is time to once again allow our public schools the freedom to make decisions on what is best for their students.

Mr. Chair, you make the best decisions on how your child should be raised, where your child should go to school, and what your child should learn—not Washington bureaucrats. Teachers, principals and members of your local school boards, should run your child's classroom, school, and school district, not some random bureaucrat in Washington who has no clue about the challenges they face.

You know what's best for your kids, not an empty suit thousands of miles away, and that is why I rise today to support Representative LUETKEMEYER's efforts to fight for competitive excellence and innovation in our nation's education system.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, it is rare in life to have the chance to recognize and honor a truly selfless person. A person who has dedicated his life to healing humanity by engaging in selfless activities for the betterment of mankind, asking only that they surrender their faith and devotion in return. This is why I am extremely proud and humbled to be here in order to honor his holiness, Avdhoot Baba Shivanad Jr., the father of sacred Ancient Indian Healing, and master of spirituality, for his work in helping United States citizens. We all will honor Babaji's noble accomplishments and teachings, and it is my deepest hope that as we move on with our lives we will continue living less for our own selfish desires, and more for those around us as Babaji does.

STUDENT SUCCESS ACT

SPEECH OF

HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 18, 2013

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 5) to support State and local accountability for public education, protect State and local authority, inform parents of the performance of their children's schools, and for other purposes:

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Chair, I thank Chairman KLINE and Ranking Member MILLER for their work to improve education for our Nation's children. I thank the Rules Committee for making in order Jackson Lee Amendment #5 for full consideration by the House of Representatives.

My amendment to H.R. 5, the "Student Success Act," is simple and is an important addition to this bill. I believe that my amendment to H.R. 5 can be supported by every member of the House.

JACKSON LEE AMENDMENT # 5

Jackson Lee Amendment #5 would direct States with insufficient funding to target funds to schools serving neglected, delinquent, migrant students, English learners, at-risk students, and Native Americans, to increase academic achievement of such students. The purpose of the Amendment is to make the best use of the funds available to focus resources on students with the greatest need.

According to research conducted by Chester Hartman, titled, High Classroom Turnover: How Children Get Left Behind, found that a disproportionate number of schools with predominantly low-income African American and Hispanic students have low stability, and that such students are much more likely than others, to switch schools in the middle of the year. High student mobility has consequences for students, teachers, and schools and can result in lower achievement levels, slower academic pacing, and lower teaching satisfaction.

Poor families move 50–100 percent more often than non-poor families. Welfare reform has resulted in residential mobility. Migrant children typically move from community to community. Foster children often change schools each time they are removed from a home. The education administrators' role in education should emphasize meeting the needs of disadvantaged students, and students who are mobile are among the most disadvantaged.

In the past, the government has taken limited steps to address this issue. Jackson Lee Amendment #5 is intended to support schools educating children who are neglected, delinquent, migrant students, English learners, at-risk students, and Native American youth.

The topic of delinquency also presents challenges to schools and educators. Children live in their own worlds, which can present threats to their health, safety and emotional well being.

Children become delinquent or can become at-risk for a number of reasons including school bullying and violence.

Consequences of bullying:

15 percent of all school absenteeism is directly related to fears of being bullied at school.

According to bullying statistics, 1 out of every 10 students who drops out of school does so because of repeated bullying.

Suicides linked to bullying are the saddest statistic.

STATISTICS ON HOUSTON INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT AND LARGE SCHOOL DISTRICTS

1. HISD has over 200,000 students, 80 percent of which are eligible for free and reduced price lunch. This means that, 80 percent of students come from low socioeconomic households. HISD has approximately 25 percent African American students, 63 percent Hispanic students, and 30 percent students with limited English proficiency.

2. The 100 largest districts represent less than 1 percent of all school districts in the nation, yet enrolls 21 percent of all students, including 25 percent of the Census poverty students, 33 percent of the black students, 32 percent of the Hispanic students, and 31 percent of all minority students.

Houston Independent School District's challenge in providing a world class education faces many of the challenges that Jackson Lee Amendment #5 would address.

The Nation's first line of national defense is a well educated population. Much of the Nation's defense depends on what is developed and created by STEM jobs. It is also important that men and women serving in the Armed Forces have a basic working knowledge of STEM to succeed. For these reasons, it is vital that every child have the best education that this Nation can provide. There is no one size fits all, and there are changes with each generation of teachers and students, but the one constant are the needs of all children are not the same.

There is no deterministic model that decides which child will succeed and which will fail. What we do know is that given the right learning environment with teachers with the right training and support we can graduate students who can create, innovate, lead and succeed in life.

I urge all members to vote in favor of these amendments.

JEREMY LYNN JOPLIN HIGH SCHOOL TENNIS STATE CHAMPION

HON. BILLY LONG

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker, I rise to congratulate Joplin High School's Jeremy Lynn for winning the Missouri Class 2 Boys State Tennis Championship.

Jeremy's victory demonstrated hard work, dedication, and courage. Despite battling increasing pain during the match, he won the State championship and finished with a 36-1 record for the season.

Jeremy's victory served as the capstone of a brilliant high school career. In addition to being a State champion, Jeremy is a three time district champion and a three time conference champion. His senior year established him amongst the Nation's best, ranking second in the United States Tennis Association (USTA) Missouri Valley region, as high as 47th in the entire Nation, and as the champion of the 2012 Boy's 18's USTA National Open Championship in Denver.

Jeremy's accomplishments are not just tied to the court; they extend to the classroom. In his first semester of his senior year, Jeremy earned a 4.3 GPA, achieving academic all-conference status.

I urge my colleagues to join me in congratulating Jeremy Lynn on his Missouri Class 2 Boys State Tennis Championship and a stellar athletic and academic career.

IN MEMORY OF CHRISTOPHER DOUGLAS

HON. RAUL RUIZ

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. RUIZ. Mr. Speaker, today I wish to make a statement in memory of a brave firefighter in California's 36th Congressional District, Christopher Douglas, who tragically lost his life in the line of duty.

Christopher Douglas, a native of Colorado Springs, lived in Temecula, California. Chris was an avid surfer who was well-known and respected by the local community. Chris served his country in the United States Air Force and, after leaving, became an Engineer and Paramedic for CAL FIRE. On Friday, July 5, 2013, he was struck by a vehicle along Interstate 10 in Riverside County, California, while preparing to leave the site of a traffic collision to respond to another incident. He was rushed to the hospital, but tragically passed away. Chris Douglas, an eight-year veteran with the fire department, was only 41 years old. He leaves behind his expectant wife Amy, their two-year-old son Samuel, and family members and friends. Chris died with the same courage as he lived, helping those in need.

This brave man died before his time. He was an honorable, passionate man who devoted himself to his country, his duty, and his family. His service and life are to be commended. His memory will live on in the people whose lives he inspired with his final act of sacrifice.

IN HONOR OF JOHN P. CATALDO, SR.

As a resident of Warminster, he was a volunteer on several local boards and committees, and also an elected Warminster Township supervisor. He proudly served on the military veterans' advisory board in Pennsylvania's 8th Congressional District. For many years, he was active in the Southampton Radiant Star Lodge No.

806 and the Free and Accepted Masons. We mourn the passing of a true gentleman and acknowledge his faithful service to country and community.

HONORING THE MEMORY OF ROBERT D. GETZOFF

HON. MIKE QUIGLEY

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today along with my colleague from New York, Representative TIM BISHOP, to honor the memory of Robert D. Getzoff. Rob was a dedicated brother, a beloved son, a caring uncle, and a fiercely loyal friend.

To his many friends, he was one of the warmest, brightest, and funniest people on Capitol Hill. Though he was a self-described "Jewish rocker from Philadelphia," Rob was a friend of the Illinois Fifth District, having worked for my predecessor, then Congressman Rahm Emanuel, for four years.

Rob served as Congressman Emanuel's Legislative Counsel for the Budget, Financial Services and Ways and Means Committees—a full plate of challenging policy responsibilities and assignments that Rob fulfilled with great skill and success. No one loved it more and worked harder than Rob Getzoff. In an office that prided itself on long hours, Rob made a point of being the first person in the office in the morning, and on many nights he was the last to leave. He served his country and tackled complex challenges and tight deadlines with intelligence and humor.

Rob began his Hill career in the office of his idol, Senator Ted Kennedy, and tackled every aspect of his Hill career with the passion and dedication to public service exemplified by the late Senator. Rob's impressive record of accomplishment was built on his distinguished academic credentials. He held a bachelor's degree from George Washington University, a law degree from Temple University, and an MBA from Georgetown University. In addition to his service on the Hill, he added to his impressive credentials by becoming an expert in financial services regulatory policy while working for industry leaders including Citigroup and Bank of New York Mellon.

Rob was a true policy wonk and a brilliant political strategist. He defended his views with passion whether he was trying to expand the Earned Income Tax Credit to help low-income Americans, explaining the greatness of eighties hard rock, or the eating habits of Great Cats. He was unrelenting in pushing his colleagues to do the right thing, whether the question at hand was a pivotal vote or a quality timepiece. He left a legacy of legislative accomplishments including meaningful lobbying reform, janitors insurance, closing the corporate jet loophole, and reducing the size of the "tax gap." He also played a pivotal role in drafting comprehensive tax reform legislation that made the tax code simpler and fairer for all Americans.

Rob was beloved by many who had the privilege to work with him and share his passion and dedication to work and friends. A legislative staff in a Congressional office is a small unit, and Rob was part of a family. That small group of people crammed into a not-so-large shared space working long hours on difficult issues got to know each other about as well as you can with people assembled by someone else. In stressful moments full of "pushback" and "red flags", he could be counted on to pitch in to help, or simply remind his fellow staffers "you love this song".

Even after Rob left the Hill, everyone wanted to stay in touch with Rob, either through a "pop-in" to the Longworth office or to meet for a cup of coffee for some advice and a few laughs. He maintained his relationship with the Fifth District even after his former boss moved on to the White House, serving as a friend and mentor to my staff.

Rob brought that same joie de vivre to all of his work, on and off the Hill. It is no surprise that so many people in Washington and beyond have a story about Rob helping them out with a thorny issue, providing career advice or simply helping them during a challenging time. Rob will also be remembered by so many of us for how easy it was to become and stay good friends with him, and how we were frequently uplifted by his sense of humor, including his spot-on impressions, and his very infectious laugh.

Mr. Speaker, it's not often I find myself in the position of singing the praises of a Flyers fan, and while I'm still happy his team finished second in 2010, there's no question he's first in the hearts of his friends and family. A few years ago the derisive term "little punk staffer" became a badge of honor among the many who've toiled in tiny cramped spaces like 1319 Longworth. Rob was among the best little punk staffers this institution has ever seen.

He was taken from us prematurely, and so many people are devastated by this loss. But Rob wouldn't want us to be sad. He would say "go out and enjoy your young life." He would want us to put on some Green Day, walk past the Capitol Dome and remember why we came to Washington in the first place. The best way to honor Rob is to do a great job while giving everything you have to some great friends. Rob, we miss you already.

17TH NATIONAL BOY SCOUT JAMBOREE

HON. DAVID B. MCKINLEY

OF WEST VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. MCKINLEY. Mr. Speaker, this week close to 50,000 Boy Scouts and members of the Scouting community are gathering in Glen Jean, West Virginia for the 17th national Boy Scout Jamboree. This 10-day event features some of the most physically challenging events in its history, including rock climbing, rappelling, white water rafting and biking. The Jamboree is a monumental event for Scouting and is a highlight for the thousands of Scouts who attend.

The first Jamboree was held in 1937 in Washington, D.C. and featured more than 27,000 Scouts who camped on the National Mall under the Washington Monument. Since that time, the Boy Scouts of America has held National Jamborees at several locations across the country, with the most recent in 2010 in Fort A.P. Hill, Virginia.

As an Eagle Scout, I could not be more proud that the Mountain State is hosting the Jamboree for the very first time and will serve as the permanent home for the event in the coming years.

This week, thousands of Scouts from around the United States, their leaders and others have travelled to the new facility near the New River Gorge in beautiful Fayette County, West Virginia. The site, known as the Summit Bechtel Family National Scout Reserve, will house Scouts, staff and adult leaders, who will enjoy the outdoors and test their abilities in a number of ways. During the Jamboree, the Summit will be the third largest city in West Virginia.

Also, because of its location in the beautiful mountains of West Virginia, physical activities will be more intense and will provide a more diverse terrain for Scouts of all ages. The Summit will challenge Scouts with programs like BMX biking, climbing, whitewater rafting, and gliding along one of the fastest zip line courses in North America.

Construction of this permanent home for the national Boy Scout Jamboree has pumped nearly $170 million into the West Virginia economy over the past four years.

The new home for the jamboree, sitting on 10,600 acres in a world-renowned adventure sports region, will undoubtedly provide a huge economic boost for the state and hopefully the participants will keep coming back to enjoy all our stunning state has to offer.

But the greatest impact the Summit will have will be on the thousands of Scouts and adults who participate. This type of impact may be not measured immediately, but will be felt for generations to come. I know that, first hand.

As an Eagle Scout from Troop 6 in Wheeling, W.Va., I can say that the lessons I learned as a young man in the Boy Scouts have stuck with me throughout my life and guided my decisions in my personal and professional career.

My experience in Scouting has helped shape who I am today.

Sadly, many of the values held true by the Scouts are sorely missing in society today. Too often, duty to God and country are not valued in our culture. That is why it is so vital that we help the Boy Scouts continue their mission.

For over 100 years the Boy Scouts have made this country a better place. More than 2.6 million Scouts are continuing to build character, promote physical, spiritual and mental growth, and acquire leadership skills for generations of young men. You can look no further than the 300,000 hours of community service that will be performed during the Jamboree to understand the positive impact Scouting has on its members and the community as a whole.

Now, the Boy Scouts of America have a brand new home to carry on their jamboree tradition in the beautiful state of West Virginia. We are also excited that for the first time in 52 years, the World Scout Jamboree will be held in the United States at this same site in 2019.

While thousands of Scouts are here to "Go Big, Get Wild," we welcome them to our beautiful country roads!

IN HONOR OF DAVE PLATT

HON. MICHAEL G. FITZPATRICK

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, Dave Platt, the owner of the Newtown Swim Club, in Newtown Township, Bucks County, has provided thousands of families with healthful recreational activities since 1983. Dave is closing the business and in this next chapter of his life, he plans to concentrate on his family and his health. We congratulate Dave as a man who has contributed so much to area youth and the community, overall. A veteran of the U.S. Navy, he is a past member of the board of directors of Frankford Hospital, Northeast Federal Savings, The George School and the Bucks County Planning Commission. For many years he was the owner of the Somerton Springs Golf Centers where he held the annual Richie Ashburn Golf Classic, raising over $1 million for the Boy Scouts of America. Now, we wish Dave Platt and his family, a happy and successful future as we acknowledge his many contributions and, especially, the example he has set for others to follow.

RECOGNIZING AUGUST 26TH AS "NATIONAL ELECTRICAL LINeworker APPRECIATION DAY"

HON. DENNIS A. ROSS

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. ROSS. Mr. Speaker, I solemnly rise in memory of Marc Moore, a resident of my hometown of Lakeland, and a Florida electrical lineworker who was tragically killed while serving Floridians on August 26, 2002.

Lineworkers have one of the most dangerous occupations across our country. Utility companies throughout the United States employ over 100,000 electrical lineworkers. These individuals are some of the first people on the job after natural disasters, and are a critical component of maintaining our nation's infrastructure after hurricanes, blizzards, tornadoes, and earthquakes.

They are unsung heroes who literally put their lives on the line 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year, to keep electricity flowing to our nation's homes, hospitals, military bases, schools, and churches.

Florida linemen not only respond to local and state emergencies; they travel to other states that experience weather related disasters to help restore service, such as the Alabama tornadoes and Hurricane Sandy on the East Coast.

Hardworking men and women, like Marc Moore, who is survived by his wife, Tracy, and two boys, risk their lives daily in dangerous circumstances to ensure reliable delivery of electricity to citizens across the state and across the country.

With that in mind, I would like to encourage my colleagues to join me in annually recognizing August 26th as "National Electrical Lineworker Appreciation Day."

WINTECH, INC., "MAKE IT IN

Founded in 1991, WinTech, Inc. custom manufactures high quality, cost-effective windows for metal and modular buildings. WinTech also manufactures access doors, view ports, and panels for the HVAC industry. The company recently added a new division

WinTech continues to develop innovative products, reach new markets, and create jobs through their company values of integrity, honesty, self discipline, and continuous improvement. It is these values that enable WinTech to live up to its mission of building quality, cost-effective products while striving each day to reach its full potential.

The ingenuity, creativity, and hard work of American manufacturers helped build our nation, and it is our manufacturers that are vital to keeping our nation strong. I am honored to recognize WinTech, Inc. for their contributions and outstanding work in being named the NIST MEP "Make it in America" Manufacturer of the Week. I am proud of the work they do and jobs they provide for Missourians in the 7th District.

REINTRODUCING THE NATIONAL WOMEN'S RIGHTS HISTORY PROJECT ACT

HON. LOUISE McINTOSH SLAUGHTER

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce legislation to reauthorize the National Women's Rights History Project Act, co-sponsored by my upstate New York colleagues Representatives TOM REED, DAN MAF-FEI, and RICHARD HANNA. I originally worked with then-Senator HILLARY CLINTON to pass this bill into law in 2009. With the current authorization for the project set to expire this year, it is vital that Congress pass this reauthorization and ensure that the women who shaped our nation's history and fought for every woman's rights are remembered and honored for generations to come.

The National Women's Rights History Project will establish an auto route linking sites significant to the struggle for women's suffrage, known as the Votes for Women Trail. It will also add to the National Register of "Places Where Women Made History," a variety of historic sites that were home to pivotal moments in our nation's struggle for gender equality. Finally, this Project will establish a public-private partnership network to offer financial and technical assistance for educational programs about the history of the fight for women's rights.

On this day in 1848, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Lucretia Mott, and Mary Ann M'Clintock convened the first women's rights convention at Wesleyan Chapel in Seneca Falls, New York. This event marked the beginning of a 72-year struggle for women's suffrage. During the convention, 68 women and 32 men signed the Declaration of Sentiments, which set out radical notions such as women's freedom to own property, receive an education and earn fair wages.

I am especially proud that it was in Rochester, New York where Susan B. Anthony fought so hard for the rights that women throughout this country rely on today. Among her many efforts, Susan B. Anthony established the Equal Rights Association to refute ideas that women were inferior to men and to fight for women's right to vote. She also fought to tear down the walls holding women back from higher education.

In 1880, a woman launched a brave petition to be the first female student at the University of Rochester. For almost twenty years, the petition was flatly denied—until 1898, when the University said that women would be allowed if they raised $100,000 for the school. In today's terms, that is equal to $2 million. By June of 1900 a group of women had managed to secure $40,000, and the University decided that women would be allowed to enroll if they could raise another $10,000 by September. Scrambling to reach the new goal, the women were $8,000 short a day before the deadline. With hours remaining, Susan B. Anthony stepped forward and raised $6,000 from friends and family before pledging her own life insurance policy to raise the final $2,000 and throw open the doors of higher education in Rochester. Now, more than 100 years later, the University of Rochester is home to the Susan B. Anthony Institute for Gender and Women's Studies—one of the pre-eminent educational institutions in the world.

These are the stories of incredible courage, dedication, and unyielding belief in equality that the National Women's Rights History Project is designed to honor.

The fight for women's rights and equality still continues today. It was just 93 years ago that women were finally granted the right to vote. The struggle for women's suffrage was never easy and it is vital that we honor the sacrifices and commitment of those who blazed the trail that led us here today, where a record number of women serve in the 113th Congress.

Reauthorizing the National Women's Rights History Project Act will ensure that this important civil rights story is celebrated for generations to come. I urge my colleagues to support this bill and reauthorize the National Women's Rights History Project.

LUNCH PROGRAM

HON. RODNEY DAVIS

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. RODNEY DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to highlight the problems created by the Healthy Hungry-Free Kids Act.

We are trying to balance the needs of hungry children against fighting childhood obesity in America. Kids including my three children, Toryn, Griffin, and Clark are not getting enough to eat because of athletic programs and physical education classes.

I am concerned that the food only requirements of this program are creating excessive waste and have put a financial burden on already cash strapped schools across the country. Many kids are rejecting these new menus and throwing their food away and going home hungry. While we need to look at the nutritional content of school lunches, we must also not forget the importance of physical education classes.

Illinois is currently the only state that requires students in kindergarten through high school to have PE every day. A combination of good nutrition and exercise is essential to the health of our children.

That is why I would like to take this time to recognize and wish my children's junior high teacher Joe Champley a Happy Birthday. Joe has been a long time PE teacher in my hometown at Taylorville Jr. High School. Happy Birthday Mr. Joe!

CELEBRATING THE RED CAPS OF THE SAINT PAUL UNION DEPOT

HON. BETTY MCCOLLUM

OF MINNESOTA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Ms. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of the Red Caps who served generations of the traveling public at the Union Depot in Saint Paul, Minnesota. For many years, the Red Caps were the first faces that many travelers saw upon arriving in Minnesota's capital city. These welcoming and dedicated men performed an important role in Minnesota's transportation history and served a vital community role as well—as the backbone of Rondo neighborhood, historically home to many of Saint Paul's African-American families.

The hard work of the individuals who served as Red Caps can be traced to the end of the Civil War, when many former slaves found work on the railroad. The growth of our nation's railroads was made possible by the tireless work of these individuals. By the 1860s Pullman porters could be seen in the station greeting passengers, carrying luggage, serving food and beverages, tending to the sleeper bunks, cleaning, and even shining shoes. The duties of these porters eventually extended to the Red Caps by the time the original Saint Paul Union Depot opened in 1881. The Red Caps filled critical jobs not only on the trains, but in the stations as well, receiving small salaries and earned tips. Many of these men settled and raised families in Saint Paul's old Rondo neighborhood. The Red Caps created a solid African-American middle class in Saint Paul that has lasted well over 85 years until traveling preferences and diminished employment led to many of the Red Caps becoming sky caps at the airport and eventually to the closure of the Saint Paul Union Depot in 1971.

This weekend marks the 30th Anniversary of Rondo Days, a vibrant community festival. As part of this anniversary, the Red Caps will be honored and celebrated for their generations of contributions to the community.

Today Red Caps can still be seen working in several stations throughout the country, continuing their strong legacy. The re-opening of the Union Depot just this past year marks another wave of change in transportation for the region, the City of Saint Paul, and along with it a dedication to the Red Caps. As a child, I remember the Red Caps fondly, and was delighted to be present during the recent commemoration of the Red Cap Room at the Saint Paul Union Depot. It is an appropriate gift for those who gave so much to our community.

Mr. Speaker, in honor of the Red Caps, I am pleased to submit this statement to recognize their hard work and contributions to the Rondo neighborhood and the city of Saint Paul.

ONE YEAR ANNIVERSARY OF THE MOVIE THEATER SHOOTING IN AURORA, COLORADO

HON. CORY GARDNER

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. GARDNER. Mr. Speaker, tomorrow will mark the one-year anniversary of the movie theater shootings in Aurora, Colorado. The 12 killed and 82 injured never thought the midnight screening of a movie would end in violence.

We stand here today as members of the Colorado delegation to remember and honor the victims of this tragedy.

And we stand here today to honor the strength and resilient spirit Coloradans have shown in the wake of an event that sent shockwaves around the world.

The victims included children, members of the military, and people from across Colorado and the country. As accounts of the shooting began to come out, we heard more and more stories of heroics from those inside the theater.

People jumped up to shield their loved ones from harm, putting their lives on the line to save the lives of others. Complete strangers helped bring the wounded outside to safety. And first responders reacted quickly and worked urgently to save lives.

These are the people we honor today, who, in the face of evil, showed true courage.

Mr. Speaker, we will never forget the events of July 20th, 2012. And we will never forget the lives and legacies of those who lost their lives that day.

HONORING RESIDENTS OF THE
NEW JERSEY 1ST CONGRES-SIONAL DISTRICT KILLED IN AC-TION OVERSEAS

HON. ROBERT E. ANDREWS

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the bravery and sacrifice of sixteen of my constituents who have been killed in action overseas and were recently honored at the Harleigh Cemetery this past Memorial Day: Corporal Terry P. Allen, Lance Corporal Curtis Christensen, Captain Gregory Dalessio, Specialist Anthony J. Dixon, Sergeant Michael Egan, Private First Class Adam Froehlick, Lance Corporal Jon T. Hicks, Jr., Sergeant Jeremy Kane, Lieutenant Jason Mann, Captain Maria Ortiz, Captain Charles D. Robinson, Corporal Marc T. Ryan, Lieutenant Colonel John C. Spahr, Petty Officer First Class David M. Tapper, Staff Sergeant Joseph Weiglein, and Private Robert White. They join the ranks of countless Americans before them who fought on behalf of this country. These sixteen service members gave their lives in service not only to New Jersey, but the nation as a whole. They will not be forgotten.

Since before this country was even founded, young Americans have stepped forward to defend its ideals. They have fought with distinction in every corner of the globe. From the beaches of Normandy to the deserts of the Middle East, they have stood shoulder to shoulder in defense of freedom. Unfortunately, not all have returned.

These young service members laid down their lives in the preservation of liberty. They chose to devote themselves to the defense of this country and its people. The patriotism and resolve displayed by these sixteen men and women stand as a model for the rest of us. Their service should be mirrored; their sacrifice honored.

Mr. Speaker, the decision of these young men and women to serve their country will not go unrecognized, nor will their sacrifice fade from memory. I want to personally extend my condolences to their loved ones, who have also sacrificed greatly. We as a nation owe these sixteen brave men and women, and their families, a deep debt of gratitude.

75TH ANNIVERSARY OF BEST
WESTERN ROUTE 66 RAIL HAVEN MOTEL

HON. BILLY LONG

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the Best Western Route 66 Rail Haven Motel, located in Springfield, Missouri.

Founded in 1938, the Best Western Route 66 Rail Haven Motel has a long and storied history of serving Southwest Missouri and travelers from all over the United States. Brothers Elwyn and Lawrence Lippman built the original motel on their grandfather's apple orchard located on the eastern city limits of Springfield and Route 66. From 1938 and on, the Lippman brothers continued to expand their motel to accompany more customers. In 1948, the Best Western motel chain was founded and Lawrence began to serve on their board of directors in 1951, making Rail Haven part of the Best Western family. The motel is the oldest continually operating national branded Best Western hotel on Route 66 and is listed on the National Registry of Historic Places.

Throughout the next half century, Rail Haven and the City of Springfield saw vast growth and change. In 1994, local Certified Public Accountant Gordon A. Elliott acquired the property and through his vision and leadership, the Best Western Route 66 Rail Haven Motel extensively remodeled and upgraded its facilities. Today vintage gas pumps and classic cars can be found on the Rail Haven grounds, which shed light on the motel's humble beginnings.

Through Gordon's hard work, innovation, and leadership, Rail Haven has seen tremendous success in recent decades. In fact, Gordon was recognized as the 2013 Springfieldian by the Springfield Area Chamber of Commerce.

The Best Western Route 66 Rail Haven Motel has a very distinct honor to be one of the original Route 66 motels. A very few number of these motels were part of the national chain, and it is very rare to find one that retains that affiliation to this day. I am honored to recognize the Best Western Route 66 Rail Haven Motel for its steadfast hard work and dedication over the past 75 years and look forward to watching its success for years to come.

HONORING THE RE-LAUNCH OF THE CHARLES W. MORGAN

HON. JOE COURTNEY

OF CONNECTICUT

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. COURTNEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the re-launching of the Charles W. Morgan this weekend at the Mystic Seaport: The Museum of America and the Sea.

The Morgan, a 172-year-old whaling vessel, was built and launched from New Bedford, Massachusetts, in 1841. For more than 200 years, vessels like her were the economic backbone of New England. Since its retirement from the whaling industry in 1921, the Morgan has served as a living artifact and a testament to the ingenuity, risk, and entrepreneurship of the United States. Today, the Morgan is a National Historic Landmark vessel, the only remaining wooden whaleship in the world, and the oldest commercial vessel in the United States.

The Morgan has completed a 5-year, multi-million dollar restoration at the Preservation Shipyard of Mystic Seaport and the Sea and will be relaunched this weekend. Individuals and organizations from 22 States have contributed materials and expertise to make this launch possible. From educational curriculum to whaleboats, research to anchors, the contributions to the restoration of the Morgan represent a truly national effort and will help make the Morgan's mission that much more meaningful. The reach of these efforts touch literally every region and corner of our nation, with contributions from the following states: Alaska, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin.

Next summer, the Morgan will embark on a ceremonial 38th voyage, embarking on a new mission devoted to history, education, science, and ocean awareness. Most notably, the Morgan will sail with the wood from trees blown down from recent hurricanes in her frame and decks—giving new life to these trees as the Morgan embarks on her own new life. For instance, live Oak wood from trees in Texas damaged in Hurricane Ike is used in the ship's frame, live oak trees from Florida blown down in Hurricane Ivan, White Oak and White Pine wood blown down by Hurricane Sandy in New York, and live Oak wood from trees in Mississippi damaged during Hurricane Katrina. That we can turn the devastation of these storms in to a positive outcome that will have lasting impact is a unique and special part of this weekend's ceremony.

Mr. Speaker, there is an understandably high level of excitement for this weekend's festivities and the Morgan's upcoming mission of education, exploration and discovery next summer. I ask all my colleagues to join me in offering our congratulations to the Mystic Seaport and all those who made the restoration of the Morgan possible.

IN RECOGNITION OF RON COOPER

HON. DORIS O. MATSUI

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Ms. MATSUI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Mr. Ron Cooper as he retires from Access Sacramento. As his family, friends and colleagues all gather to celebrate his outstanding career, I ask my colleagues to join me in tribute to Mr. Cooper's decades of service.

Mr. Cooper selflessly served the Sacramento media, television and radio community for 26 years at the non-profit organization, Access Sacramento. For more than 22 of those years, he was its executive director. Under his leadership, Access Sacramento became nationally recognized as a pioneer in media technology and advocate for voicing unheard, marginalized voices and opinions.

Access Sacramento has succeeded in providing important and timely ideas, thoughts, sights, and sounds, especially for minority programs that commercial and public television and radio did not find economically viable. Mr. Cooper founded and cultivated the annual "A Place Called Sacramento" film festival, which supports local filmmaking and offers training, coaching and production assistance to community filmmakers.

Mr. Cooper also gave a voice to the youth of Sacramento by creating Neighborhood News Bureaus, which initiated ingenious methods of newsgathering and collaborations with neighborhood community centers through the implementation of current media technology and training. He also worked with college students from Cosumnes River College, high school students, seniors, and individuals with disabilities, creating and fostering cooperative training arrangements to provide practical media production experience and opportunities in media careers. Mr. Cooper's tireless service enriched our democratic values by offering voter education programming during election cycles.

Mr. Speaker, I am honored to pay tribute to Mr. Ron Cooper, who has served the Sacramento community and its people for more than two decades. His service has greatly contributed to the community and ensured the exercise of free speech. I ask all of my colleagues to join me in recognizing this man whose leadership has strengthened and broadened Sacramento's very best attributes.

LANCASTER HEROES

HON. JOSEPH R. PITTS

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, July 19, 2013

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, today, I come to the floor to recognize two young heroes from Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Last week, a young five-year-old girl was abducted from her front yard by a stranger, an older man who turned out to be a previously convicted sex offender.

Temar Boggs and Chris Garcia set out on their bikes with other friends.

When the boys spotted a suspicious car wandering through their development, they checked it out and saw the young girl inside.

They relentlessly chased the driver on their bikes for 15 furious minutes.

Recognizing that the boys wouldn't give up, the man let her out of the car and drove away.

She immediately ran to the boys asking for her mother.

They safely brought her back home, and while they might not think of themselves as heroes, they certainly are.

and women of Carl Junction High School for winning the Destination Imagination Global Finals.

The Destination Imagination Challenge is a global competition where students from all over the world imagine, create, and develop solutions to world problems in the areas of science, technology, engineering, mathematics, fine arts, and service learning. The problem solving competition is held over a four day period at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville where 1,200 local, state, and regional winners from 45 states and 13 countries gather to compete in the global competition.

The Carl Junction team put their device against 66 other teams competing in the area of wind energy and bested them all, including teams from Mexico, Singapore, China, Turkey, and South Korea.

These outstanding world champion students include seniors JW Keckley, Parker Fitzgerald, Carter Richardson, Nate Demery, Morgan Ross, Julie Jones, and junior Abigail Danley. Through the team's hard work, dedication, and guidance from their gifted education teacher, Lori Good, the team was able to extensively research wind energy and incorporate the research into a technical device and presentation. Team member Parker Fitzgerald stated, "The technical device was essentially a reduced-friction neodymium-magnet motor powered by compressed air. The device utilized the properties of magnets to precipitate motion without any physical contact between gears."

In addition to the global championship, the team also placed first in Destination Imagination's Instant Challenge. In this challenge, teams apply their quick-thinking problem solving skills to create solutions to challenges they have never seen before in as little as five minutes.

I am proud of the job these brilliant young men and women performed. This is the first time a Missouri team at the elementary, middle level, or high school level has placed first at Destination Imagination Global Finals.

firefighters from California's 36th Congressional District, William Warneke and Chris MacKenzie, who lost their lives tragically in the line of duty.

William "Billy" Warneke grew up in Hemet, California, where he attended Hemet High School. As a student, he enrolled in the Junior Air Force ROTC, and served four years in the United States Marine Corps, including a tour in Iraq. When Billy returned from serving his country, he went to school in Tucson, Arizona, utilizing his hard earned veteran education benefits. While at school, he attended fire training and became a firefighter with the Prescott Fire Department. As a firefighter in Prescott, Arizona, Billy was a member of the highly trained, elite Granite Mountain Hotshots, who placed their lives on the line every day. On Sunday, June 30, 2013, Billy Warneke was fighting the 13-square-mile Yarnell Hill Fire when was overrun and perished with 18 other members of the Granite Mountain Hotshots. Billy was only 25 years old, leaving behind his wife Roxanne and their baby due to be born in December. Billy's death cut short a brave and selfless life of service, but he died just as he lived—serving with honor and protecting the lives of others.

Chris MacKenzie grew up in the San Jacinto Valley in Riverside County, California, and graduated from Hemet High School in 2001. Chris loved snowboarding and dreamed of becoming a firefighter like his father, and worked hard to achieve that dream. Chris joined the United States Forest Service in 2004, and in 2011 transferred to the Prescott Fire Department. As a firefighter there, he served in the elite Granite Mountain Hotshots, who placed their lives on the line every day. On Sunday, June 30, 2013, Chris MacKenzie was fighting the 13-square-mile Yarnell Hill Fire when he was overrun and perished with 18 other members of the Granite Hotshots. He was 30 years old, leaving behind his mother, Lauri Goralski, and his father, Michael MacKenzie, as well as family members and friends. Chris died just as he lived—protecting the public from a dangerous fire.

These two brave young men died before their time. They were heroic public servants and upstanding members of the communities they gave their lives to serve. They were honorable, passionate men who devoted themselves to their country, their duty, and their family. Their service and lives are to be commended. Their memories will live on in the people whose lives they inspired and their final act of sacrifice.
