On March 20, authorities from Shenzhen criminally detained another "New Generation" editor Wei Zhili in Guangzhou municipality, Guangdong, on the disturbance charge. Authorities had already detained a third "New Generation" editor, Yang Zhengjun, in January 2019. "New Generation" website monitored worker rights issues in China, including the health hazard pneumonconiosis. Authorities initially held Wei, Yang, and Ke at the Shenzhen No. 2 PSB Detention Center. Authorities also detained Shang Kai (August 2018) and Chai Xiaoming (March 2019) who were associated with a leftist website that had covered the rights of workers at Jasic Technology in Shenzhen (RFA, 25 March 19).

The criminal charge for his detention remained unknown, however, RDN indicated that the detention may have been connected to the December 2018 large-scale arrest of church members from Early Rain Church in Chengdu municipality, Sichuan province. Gou's home is located in a village in Yankou town, Pingchang county, Bazhong municipality, Sichuan, and Gou's father visited him in a police station basement--likely to be in Sichuan--reporting that his son looked poorly and had not seen daylight in months. Authorities previously sentenced Gou Zhongshan to 13 years' imprisonment in December 2006 for allegedly "illegally providing intelligence to overseas entities." Prison authorities reduced Gou's sentence 3 times, releasing him on April 27, 2016. (CPPC, 23 January 17; RFA, 26 January 17).

According to JSGRSYT (17 January 19, 24 February 19), Peiking University medical school graduate Feng Junjie disappeared in mid-January 2019. His whereabouts remained unknown as of February 24. Reports suggest that Feng's disappearance was connected to his support for factory workers' attempts to form a labor union at Shenzhen Jasic (Jiashi) Technology Co. Ltd. Previously, on November 9, 2018, several unknown individuals physically assaulted Feng near Peiking University campus in Beijing municipality, loaded him onto a car, and threw him out to the side of the road after 2 to 3 minutes of driving (JSGRSYT, 14 November 18, 10 December 18). The school denied any connection to the incident. On November 21, Feng's family, reportedly out of pressure from school officials, transported Feng by car to his home in Henan province and confined him to his home for 2 weeks. On December 4, Feng filed a disclosure request with the Peiking University, asking for information about a case of another student who was subjected to home confinement and later "voluntarily" suspended academic work.

Under the PRC Criminal Procedure Law, authorities should have released Zhang on February 26, marking the end of his criminal detention. Authorities, however, forcibly committed Zhang to a psychiatric facility, but sources did not have further information about the facility's name or location. Additionally, authorities apparently intimidated Zhang's family from communicating with Zhang's online friends and supporters.

Anhui Province	According to CRLW (28 December 18), RDN (28 December 18), and Boxun (3 January 19), some time after July 26, 2018, public security authorities from Yingshang county, Fuyang municipality, Anhui province, criminally detained rights defender Li Hui, holding her at the Fuyang PSB Detention Center. Earlier in the year, on March 16, 2018, Li posted online her opinions about the constitution, after which police summoned her for questioning and confiscated 3 of her computers and one mobile phone. When authorities did not return her property, Li brought an administrative lawsuit against the Yingshang PSB. Yingshang authorities apparently "disappeared" Li before the July 26 administrative trial, though allowed her to return home afterwards. On December 28, the Yingshang County People's Court held a trial, and sentenced Li to 3 years in prison on the charge of "picking quarrels and provoking trouble." Li participated in advocacy for Zhang Lin's daughter, Zhang Anni, in 2013. Local authorities refused her passport application many times.

A Twitter post of November 2, 2018, from Wang Fazhan, noted that authorities had detained Liu for 30 days prior to the arrest and that a lawyer who met with Liu indicated that Liu was arrested in connection with re-tweeting Twitter posts. On August 29, 2019, a court in Chongqing tried Liu on the disturbance charge, and sentenced him to serve 1 year in prison, suspending the sentence for 2 years (RDN, 29 August 19). Although no longer in custodial detention, Liu remains liable to serve the full period of detention should his activities during the suspension period violate the law (CL, art. 73(3)). Authorities formally arrested her on October 10. Sources indicated that Qin had written slogans on her family's private car such as "Public Disclosure of Officials' Assets," "Freedom of the Press," "Constitution," and "Independent Judiciary." National security officials apparently had warned her about the slogans, and had assisted her in removing them, but she continued to put slogans on her car. Authorities refused to allow her defense counsel lawyer Wang Lei to see her at the detention center in mid-September, stating that her alleged crime fell within the three types of criminal cases that "harm national security." Lawyer Wang disputed this assertion, arguing that posting statements on one's own car was within the legal right to freedom of expression for citizens.

Guangdong Province	According to RDN (23 August 19), on August 23, 2018, police from the Shangchuan Police Station in Shenzhen municipality, Guangdong province, detained Lin Shengliang, holding him at the Bao'an District PSB Detention Center in Shenzhen. The Bao'an People's Court tried Lin on April 12, 2019, and sentenced him to 2 years in prison in August on the charge of "picking quarrels and provoking trouble." Lin's detention reportedly was connected to his criticism of the Chinese Communist Party on a social media platform and his plan to publish a list of "wicked" officials on Twitter. In April, Lin said in a letter that he suffered a range of mistreatments including physical violence and being handcuffed and surveilled around the clock. Lin's August 2018 detention came within a month after he completed a term of 1 year and 2 months in prison, which reportedly was imposed for Lin's support for an outspoken critic of the Chinese Communist Party.

Police released Nong on August 20, but criminally detained Zhou on suspicion of "organizing and using a cult to undermine implementation of the law" after finding Falun Gong-related materials in Zhou's backpack. Guangxi police then searched Zhou's apartment in Chengdu municipality, Sichuan province. Zhou's associate told RFA that Zhou was not a Falun Gong practitioner. Authorities formally arrested Zhou on the cult charge in September, but in December indicted him on the charge of "inciting subversion of state power." Zhou was previously detained for his role as a student leader during the 1989 Tiananmen protests, later fleeing to Hong Kong and the U.S., where he became a permanent resident. Hong Kong authorities detained him in 2008 for entering on a false passport, then reportedly turned him over to mainland authorities who sentenced him on fraud charges, releasing him in 2015.

After 10 days, authorities placed Sun and his wife under home confinement. The raid interrupted Sun's live interview with VOA during which Sun criticized central authorities' policy of spending large sums of money abroad rather than helping the poor domestically. Sun's detention took place shortly after the CCP Propaganda Department and Organization Department jointly announced a campaign aiming at aligning intellectuals with the Party and government's objectives (Xinhua, 31 July 18). A VOA reporter interviewed Sun at his home on August 13, but he and his assistant were taken away by some unknown individuals, who detained them until after midnight. Previously, authorities sentenced Sun to 7 years in prison in 1978 for "attacking the great leader Chairman Mao," and confined him to his home in 2016 when he ran for the local-level people's congress. Sun is a signatory of Charter 08, a treatise advocating political reform and human rights.

Supervisory commission officials in Chenzhou municipality, Hunan, reportedly instructed PSB officials to deny lawyer meeting requests because the case involved bribery. Some lawyers said that the supervisory commission did not have jurisdiction over Chen because he was not an employee of the government or a public institution. Some media professionals reported that officials of the Party propaganda department had orally asked them to not gather information or report on the case. (general location)	Qinghai Province	According to TCHRD (19 April 19 (E); 19 April 19 (C)), and RFA (23 April 19), in July 2018, public security authorities criminally detained Gedun Zoepa, Choesang, Bende Dorje, Tashi Tsering, Sonam Gyal, Dargye, Shawo Tsering, Khajam Gyal, and Drugbum Tsering, all of whom are Tibetan villagers from Horgyal village, Rebkong (Ch: Tongren) county, Malho (Ch: Huangnan) Tibetan Autonomous Prefecture (TAP), Qinghai province, in connection with their efforts to reclaim village property expropriated by local government authorities. Authorities formally arrested the 9 villagers in August 2018. Between April 10 and 14, 2019, the Tongren County People's Court held a group trial for them on the charges of founding an "evil organisation" to engage in "forced business transaction," "extortion and deceit," and "disturbing social order by mobilising support from the public" (Tongren County People's Court, 16 April 19). The court sentenced them to between 3 and 7 years in prison though sources did not specify individual term lengths. The villagers presumably were held somewhere in Malho TAP. Tongren authorities apparently implemented the criminal proceedings under a three-year campaign to crackdown on alleged criminal syndicates.

2018-00343	DET	Dong Yaoqiong			董瑶琼	F	28	Han			speech	2018/07/04	admin-psych	Zhuzhou No. 3 Hospital (psychiatric hospital)	Hunan Province	According to CRLW (26 July 18; 1 August 18), VOA (23 July 18), and RFA (5 July 18), on the afternoon of July 4, 2018, public security officials from Shanghai municipality took into custody Dong Yaoqiong in connection to her having livestreamed video of herself splashing black ink on a poster of Xi Jinping earlier that day in Lujiazui district, Shanghai. Before and after throwing ink, Dong shouted, "I oppose Xi Jinping's tyranny and dictatorship, and the oppressive brain control perpetrated on me by the Chinese Communist Party" (YouTube, posted 11 July 18). Her detention site in Shanghai was unknown, but on July 16, Shanghai authorities brought Dong to You county, Zhuzhou municipality, Hunan province, where they had Dong's mother sign paperwork for Dong to be admitted to Zhuzhou No. 3 Hospital, a psychiatric facility. CRLW raised concerns that Dong's detention was politically motivated rather than based on provisions in the PRC Mental Health Law that permit involuntary psychiatric commitment only if an individual is at risk of harming another or herself, or if the individual has already harmed another or herself. Authorities also detained Dong's father, Dong Jiangbiao, and artist Hua Yong in July 2018 (RFA, 9 August 18).

Region	According to RDN (16 October 18; 29 November 18) and CRLW (19 December 18), on July 2, 2018, plainclothes public security officials from Changle town, Hepu county, Beihai municipality, Guangxi Zhuang Autonomous Region, took into detention Yang Qian as well as Yang's mother and younger brother on suspicion of "picking quarrels and provoking trouble." Authorities held them at the Hepu PSB Detention Center. In early May, Yang, together with his mother and brother, traveled to Changle government offices to request an explanation for the forcible demolition of the family's mining establishment. On August 10, the Hepu PSB formally arrested Yang Qian and placed his mother and brother under residential surveillance. On November 26, the Hepu People's Court held a closed-door trial and sentenced Yang to 2 years' in prison on the disturbance charge. Authorities reportedly did not notify Yang's defense counsel lawyer Yang Zaixin of the trial date, and refused several times to allow Lawyer Yang to meet with Yang Qian in detention. Yang Qian refused food to protest violent abuse and beatings that he received, noting in a complaint that detention center authorities did nothing to stop or investigate the maltreatment.

Authorities detained him and other monks at Xiahe's Bora Monastery in March 2012 after Bora monks held a peaceful political protest calling for the Dalai Lama's return to Tibet and religious and linguistic rights for Tibetans. After Lhamo Drolma brought Sanggyal Gyatso food and clothing during his time in detention, authorities restricted her ability to travel during politically "sensitive" times, including the March 10 anniversary of the 1959 Tibetan uprising in Lhasa.

The centers are a type of detention facility throughout the XUAR that authorities began using in 2017 to arbitrarily detain Uyghurs and others for reasons such as having "strong religious views." Reports from rights groups and international media indicated that hundreds of thousands of individuals had been or remained detained at such facilities since their inception (see, e.g., RFA, 27 March 18.) Security personnel at the centers reportedly subjected detainees to torture, medical maltreatment, and other forms of abuse. Authorities reportedly detained Bekri in Kashgar city, but her exact whereabouts remained unknown.

2018-00228	DET	Hajinisa Memtimin				F	43	Uyghur			ethnicity / religion	2017/mm/dd	PSB	Hetian [Hotan] (general location)	Xinjiang Uyghur Auto. Region	According to RFA (12 September 17), on an unknown date in 2017, public security officials in Hotan and Kashgar prefectures, Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region (XUAR), took into custody a group of young amateur martial artists, detaining them on suspicion of "terrorism." RFA reported the identity of one of the detainees, 21-year-old Ablimit Metyasin, a resident of Ilchi (Yiliqi) town, Hotan city, Hotan prefecture; the others reportedly lived in Mekit (Maigaiti) county, Kashgar prefecture. RFA did not report the date, location, or circumstances of their initial detentions. An unknown court reportedly sentenced Ablimit Metyasin to 20 years in prison; the date and location of his trial and sentencing were unreported, as was the exact charge against him. Authorities also detained his mother, 44-year-old Hajinisa Memtimin, reportedly accusing her of failing to properly educate her son and to provide a timely report to authorities that he was studying martial arts. She was held in a "political reeducation" center, a type of extrajudicial detention facility, in Hotan city. Their detentions came amid a campaign of arbitrary mass detentions targeting Uyghurs and other ethnic minority XUAR residents begun by XUAR officials in 2017.

As of February 2018, Zhang had gone missing for over a year. The student learned that administrators in Zhang's neighborhood had forcibly taken Zhang to the hospital on October 19, 2017. Zhang told her student that she was bound, beaten, and was forced to take medication. Hospital staff interrupted the conversation, and the hospital director denied the student's requests to meet with Zhang or to release her, insisting that the government was Zhang's only guardian in the absence of family members. The student called the police, who did not offer assistance. On the following day, several people tried to visit Zhang but were unable to see her. Two local officials reportedly threatened to take away those who wanted information.

His brothers Rexim Hoshur and Shawket Hoshur, whom Chinese authorities detained from 2014 to 2015, were detained in September 2017 at the “Loving Kindness School,” a Qorghas “political reeducation” center. Qorghas officials reportedly stated that the detained relatives “are members of a blacklisted family.” In a Congressional-Executive Commission on China hearing (26 July 18), RFA Uyghur Service journalist Gulchehra Hoja testified that at least 24 of her relatives had been detained in the XUAR, possibly in “political reeducation” centers. Region	According to the Washington Post (10 August 18), on an unknown date believed to be in 2017, authorities in Urumqi municipality, Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region detained Zheniskhan Baghdal, a 50-year-old ethnic Kazakh resident of Urumqi, at his Urumqi home. His mother told the Washington Post that authorities “found something on his phone”—likely referring to banned audiovisual content—“and took him away.” She was unable to find out if he had been charged or tried; information on his whereabouts was unavailable. His detention came amid a campaign of arbitrary mass detentions by XUAR officials targeting Uyghurs, Kazakhs, and members of other largely Muslim ethnic minority groups, in which many prisoners are held in “political reeducation” centers, a type of extrajudicial detention facility, for reasons including having connections with individuals or entities outside of China.

Officials reportedly accused him of being “two-faced,” referring to officials who “pretend to support national unity but secretly spread separatism and extremism” (Global Times, 17 April 17). After retiring as village Party secretary in 2007, he became more involved in his local mosque, prayed regularly, and in 2015 undertook the Hajj on his own without enrolling in an official pilgrimage group. A source told RFA that because of his age, authorities did not imprison Ziyawudun Choruq, instead holding him in a “political reeducation” center, a type of extrajudicial detention facility used by XUAR officials in a campaign of mass arbitrary detentions by XUAR officials targeting Uyghurs, Kazakhs, and members of other largely Muslim ethnic minority groups.

Region	According to the New York Times (10 August 18), a family member and friends of 52-year-old Uyghur ethnographer Rahile Dawut said she had disappeared in December 2017, and they believed authorities in the Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region (XUAR) had detained her in a "political reeducation" center or another type of detention facility. "Political reeducation" centers are a type of detention facility throughout the XUAR that authorities began using in 2017 to arbitrarily detain Uyghurs and others without charge (Human Rights Watch, 10 September 17). Dawut, who taught at Xinjiang University, is well-regarded for her research on traditional Uyghur culture, and her work had been supported by Chinese government funding. Friends of Dawut and other observers suggested authorities may have detained her due to her efforts to preserve Uyghur culture and heritage, or her foreign connections. Security personnel have detained people in "political reeducation" centers based on factors including their foreign connections and previous travel abroad (RFA, 30 October 17 and 14 March 18). According to a rights advocate cited by the NYT, at least one of Dawut's graduate students had also disappeared. Dawut's exact whereabouts remained unknown.

Hebei Province	According to RDN (25 December 17) and RFA (20 December 17), on December 16, 2017, public security officials took lawyer Wu Quan into custody from his home in Yu county, Zhangjiakou municipality, Hebei province. Wu told his lawyers that police blindfolded him and took him to a basement, where he was bound to an interrogation chair for 48 hours and was deprived of water, sleep, and sufficient clothing for the first 24 hours. Police did not loosen the hand and leg shackles until after Wu had gone on a hunger strike for 30 hours. On December 18, officials from the Zhangjiakou PSB criminally detained Wu on suspicion of "extortion," holding him at the Zhangjiakou PSB Detention Center in Qiaodong district. On December 13, Wu posted online a complaint against a local official, accusing him of a range of misconduct, including forcibly taking land from farmers, wasting state assets, and misreporting the death toll in two mine accidents. The police officer handling the case initiated a meeting with one of Wu's lawyers, during which he asked the lawyer not to believe Wu and said the evidence would shock him. Shortly before the meeting, the PSB reportedly issued a notice soliciting leads on the case. A lawyer said the notice suggested that police detained Wu before they had enough evidence.

Authorities detained 28-year-old Adiljan Abla on April 15, his mother 56-year-old Pezohre Omer on September 5, and his father 58-year-old Ablajan Hebibulla in October. The specific charges against either were unknown. Information on their whereabouts and the reasons for their detentions is unavailable. Their detentions came amid a campaign of arbitrary mass detentions targeting Uyghurs, Kazakhs, and members of other largely Muslim ethnic minority groups in the XUAR, in which authorities have detained individuals for reasons including having traveled outside China or having connections abroad. Three daughters from the family have reportedly studied outside of China; one of them told RFA she believed her parents’ and brother’s detentions were related to their religious belief.

Authorities later arrested Xie on the same charge. Sources linked Xie's detention to his advocacy as a non-lawyer representative in his brother's home demolition case. Xie's lawyer said an official had asked him to persuade Xie to accept the government's proposed terms of compensation for the brother and to stop going to Beijing to petition. On January 19, 2018, authorities released Xie on bail. In October 2014, authorities administratively detained Xie for 10 days reportedly due to his public support for the pro-democracy demonstrations in Hong Kong. Authorities sentenced another one of Xie's brothers, Xie Changfa, to 13 years in prison for "subversion of state power" in 2008 for his participation in the China Democracy Party.

Region	According to RFA (7 May 18), on September 10, 2017, authorities in Urumqi municipality, Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region (XUAR), detained Gulbahar Abdurahman, a 52-year-old voice actor and resident of Tianshan district, Urumqi. One of her daughters who lives in the United States told RFA that she believed her mother's detention was connected to her having visited her daughter for several weeks in July 2017. While in the United States, Gulbahar Abdurahman received multiple telephone calls from Urumqi, likely from officials, requesting that she cut short her visit and return to China, which she did. Upon her September detention, authorities reportedly ordered to serve 3 months in a "political reeducation" center, a type of extrajudicial detention facility used by XUAR officials in a campaign of arbitrary mass detentions targeting Uyghurs and members of other largely Muslim ethnic minority groups, for reasons including travel abroad or contacts with individuals outside of China. As of May 2018, information on her whereabouts or possible release was unavailable.

Immediately prior to being taken into custody in Zibo, Wang Lizhen had traveled to Beijing municipality where she reportedly planned to appoint a new lawyer in her father's case. Guangdong Province	According to RDN (19 August 17), on July 1, 2017, public security officials detained petitioner Li Ronghao, originally from Zhongshan municipality, Guangdong province, at the apartment she was renting in Fengtai district, Beijing municipality. Authorities reportedly did not inform Li's daughter about Li's detention until 13 days later, although the daughter had contacted a police station in Zhongshan several times concerning her mother's whereabouts. In an arrest notice dated August 19, officials from the Zhongshan PSB informed Li's family that they had arrested Li on suspicion of "picking quarrels and provoking trouble" that day and were detaining her at the Zhongshan Municipal PSB Detention Center. While the basis of Li's July 2017 detention is unknown, Li began petitioning in 2006 because village officials from Xiaolan township, Zhongshan, which is managed like a corporation by residents of the township, did not recognize her mother-in-law as a resident and refused to give her dividends. Previously, authorities reportedly had criminally detained Li, ordered her to serve reeducation through labor, threatened her family, and physically assaulted her husband in connection with her petitioning (RDN, 15 December 11).

As of August, Wen's detention location and the reason for her disappearance remained unknown. Wen's disappearance came after PSB officials detained her husband Xu Wenshi in March. Sui Muqing, Xu's lawyer, said that Wen's detention was possibly for the same reason as Xu's. Xu began helping others in rights defense work after his employer terminated his employment in 2008. Xu also helped the families of those detained in the Suzhou crackdown that began on September 8, 2016, in which authorities detained at least 11 people including Hu Cheng, Ni Jinfang, Xing Jiezhong, Ge Jueping, Zhu Xueying, Wang Wanping, Wu Qihe, Wang Mingxian, Xu Chunling, Lu Guoying, and Gu Yimin, reportedly for the publishing of politically sensitive comments online and for showing support for rights defenders (RFA, 19 December 15; 13 October 16; 2 November 16). After authorities detained Wen's husband in March, they accused Wen of "obstructing official business" and summoned her for questioning, reportedly in connection with a laptop computer that authorities did not retrieve when they raided the couple's home (CRLW, 22 March 17).

Henan Province	According to VOP (14 May 17; 25 May 17), on May 10, 2017, public security officials in Luoning county, Luoyang municipality, Henan province, took into custody Luoning petitioner Wu Zhenhe, criminally detaining him later that day at the Luoning PSB Detention Center on suspicion of “picking quarrels and provoking trouble.” Police reportedly told Wu’s family that the reason for his detention was his “illegal petitioning.” On May 24, authorities formally arrested him on the “picking quarrels” charge (CL, art. 293). Wu began petitioning after local police detained and beat him in 1997 over accusations that he had stolen livestock. Authorities reportedly agreed to compensate him over the false arrest, but did not implement the agreement. Authorities previously detained Wu at least once, ordering him in March 2012 to serve 1 year, 3 months’ reeducation through labor (RTL) related to petitioning provincial officials.

According to Freemuse and RFA (2 November 17), authorities detained Heyit in connection with a Uyghur-language song he had performed, taking one phrase from the song to "brand him a religious extremist" despite government censors' prior approval of the lyrics. Freemuse also reported that security personnel detained Abdurehim Abdulla, a poet who wrote the lyrics of the song, around the same time. Police visited Heyit "several times" prior to detaining him. Both Freemuse and RFA stated that Heyit's detention was part of the government's broader detention of Uyghurs, including writers and artists, in the XUAR. Heyit performed in state-sponsored music and dance groups for many years. Freemuse and RFA reported that authorities may have detained Heyit in a "political education center," a type of site that XUAR authorities used in 2017 to detain large numbers of Uyghurs, ethnic Kazakhs, and others. Heyit's exact whereabouts remained unknown.

Kashgary's sister-in-law, Asiya Yasin (50), was detained in April 2017. Two other relatives were detained on unknown dates in 2017: Abduhamit Ablet and Abdurusul Ablet ("both in their 20s"). RFA reported that authorities held Asiya Yasin in a "political reeducation" center, a type of extrajudicial detention facility used by XUAR officials in a campaign of arbitrary mass detentions targeting Uyghurs and members of other largely Muslim ethnic minority groups. Information on the others' whereabouts was unavailable. Seidiehmet Yunus previously served 16 years in prison after protesting against the Chinese government in 1997.

Authorities detained the family upon their return from Egypt, where Hezriti'eli was studying, in response to an official demand for Uyghurs abroad to return to China. On May 23, a court (likely the Yopurgha County People's Court) sentenced Memet Ablet to 7 years in prison on unknown charges. A Yopurgha official told RFA that his sentence may have been connected with his family's travel to Egypt, or with religious instruction he gave to family friends; he previously served as an imam at a mosque in Urumqi municipality, XUAR. Authorities reportedly held Buzorigul Rishit in a "political reeducation" center, an extrajudicial detention facility used by XUAR authorities in a campaign of arbitrary mass detentions of Uyghurs and members of other largely Muslim ethnic groups. Her status and whereabouts were unknown. Authorities reportedly released Hezriti'eli after an unspecified period of detention.

In addition, authorities had frightened Ren's wife to the extent that she was unwilling to meet with several rights defenders who had prepared a document to appoint a defense lawyer. Sources did not report where authorities held him or on what charges. Abduwasip Omer's detention came during a crackdown on Uyghurs in Kashgar prefecture during 2017, where authorities reportedly held hundreds of Uyghurs in "political reeducation" centers in connection with government policies restricting Uyghur Muslims' religious and cultural practices. Sources told RFA that authorities imprisoned many Uyghurs without trial, and that courts provided police with pre-written judgments that required only prisoners' personal information to be filled in. Abduwasip Omer's brothers said that authorities detained him after he helped a woman buy a cell phone for an unspecified "illegal" purpose, sentencing him to 10 years in prison, and that they were only informed of the sentence after the fact. In or around August 2017, authorities reportedly detained his sister, Xeyrinisa Omer, after she inquired after Abduwasip Omer's whereabouts, holding her in a "political reeducation" center.

After a Uyghur activist living in exile reported that XUAR officials had detained Rahman, RFA reporters confirmed that authorities were holding him in a "political reeducation" camp in or near Atush. The reason for Rahman's detention was unconfirmed, but the Uyghur activist in Turkey suggested that it may have been related to his being a fan of prominent detained Uyghur musician Abdurehim Heyt. Beginning in or around 2017, XUAR officials detained Uyghurs and members of other largely Muslim ethnic groups for reasons including travel or residence abroad, association with individuals already detained, and expressions of religious or cultural identity. Rahman, who was 23 at the time of his detention, is originally from Ongeriq (Weng'airike) village, Azaq (Azake) township, Atush.

Hubei Province	According to RDN (8 December 16; 12 December 16; 22 December 16), on December 8, 2016, security officials from Hong'an county, Huanggang municipality, Hubei province, detained independent scholar and blogger Xiong Yingxue (pen name: Xiong Feijun) on suspicion of "illegal business activity." Five days after his detention, Xiong's family received a criminal detention notice that indicated authorities held him at the Hong'an County PSB Detention Center. On December 20, lawyer Sui Muqing attempted to meet with Xiong but PSB officials refused his request. Sui noted that the crime of "illegal business activity" is not one of the 3 categories of criminal charges for which lawyer meetings with individuals in detention require senior official approval, thus Sui filed a complaint at the local procuratorate that the PSB had illegally obstructed a lawyer's right to meet with a client. A lawyer who was later able to meet Xiong at the detention center reported that police interrogating Xiong mainly asked about his writing and publishing (RFA, 2 January 17). Xiong has written several books about Chinese history and contemporary affairs. On January 13, 2017, authorities reportedly released Xiong on bail (RDN, 13 January 17).

Zhang also mailed the books to customers in China. When authorities detained Zhang, they reportedly took possession of 291 books stored at a temporary residence and parking storage, of which 288 were found to be illegal. Authorities charged him with "inciting separatism" (CL, art. 103) on March 4, 2016, and indicted him on the same charge in early January 2017 (AL, 18 January 17). On January 4, 2017, he pleaded not guilty at his trial before the Yushu TAP Intermediate People's Court. On May 22, 2018, the court sentenced him to 5 years in prison; he later appealed the sentence (Phayul, 20 June 18). An NYT documentary that shows him "trying to file a lawsuit to compel the authorities to provide more Tibetan education" was used as evidence in trial. His lawyers reported that authorities beat him in detention. On August 13, the Qinghai High People's Court rejected his appeal (Liang Xiaojun, Twitter, 22 August 18). Described as "a vocal but moderate advocate for bilingual education," Tashi Wangchug had reposted a Sina Weibo message that "urged the legislature and legislative advisory committee of Qinghai Province . . . to enhance bilingual education and hire more bilingual civil servants."

On May 13, Chongqing PSB authorities formally arrested Jiang on the charges of "subversion of state power" (CL, art. 105) and "organizing others to illegally cross the border" (CL, art. 318). In 2009, authorities sentenced Xing to 2 years in prison for "gathering a crowd to disrupt social order." RFA (3 February 17) reported that authorities released Tang and Xing on bail in December 2016, but that Xing had not contacted his lawyer as of early February.

According to TCHRD (3 May 10), he had shouted slogans calling for the Dalai Lama’s return to Tibet, the release of the Panchen Lama (Gedun Choekyi Nyima, the Panchen Lama identified by the Dalai Lama in 1995), and “proper allocation and delivery of earthquake relief from international donors” to nomads in Yushu TAP, Qinghai province, where a quake struck on April 14, 2010. He had also held up a banned Tibetan flag and wore another during his protest. As of 2015, Samdrub Gyatso reportedly suffered kidney disease and required medication regularly.

The source stated that information on the monks location and status was unavailable. Based on the TPI report and a Tibet Express report (26 June 13), in October 2012 security officials had detained Namgyal Tsultrim, aged around 40, and accused him of being a "separatist" because he possessed discs of the Dalai Lama providing a religious teaching. Authorities reportedly tortured him and imprisoned him at the TAR Reeducation Through Labor Center, located near Lhasa, and released him in May 2013.

Authorities alleged that Haliq Mehmud removed a bullet from the leg of a "suspect" in the Elishqu clashes; the specific charges against Haliq Mehmud were not reported, but authorities later sentenced him to 8 years in prison. He reportedly served his sentence in Urumqi No. 6 Prison in Urumqi municipality, XUAR. Overseas Uyghur rights advocates and Uyghur sources alleged that the Uyghur residents shot in the Elishqu clashes were protesting against an official crackdown during Ramadan, while official accounts described it as a terrorist attack on government offices and a police station (UAA, reprinted in UHRP, 29 July 14; RFA, 29 July 14; Xinhua, reprinted in China News Service, 29 July 14).

Authorities reportedly searched Lu’s home and confiscated a computer, cell phones, and other items. Lu’s detention is reportedly related to his online essays criticizing the government and his democracy advocacy. On August 13, authorities arrested Lu on the subversion charge (CL, art. 105). On June 17, 2016, the Hangzhou Intermediate People’s Court sentenced Lu to 11 years in prison (RDN, 17 June 16). On November 1, the Zhejiang High People’s Court rejected Lu’s appeal; Lu’s lawyer did not find out until over a month later (ICPC, 8 December 16). Authorities previously sentenced Lu in February 2008 to 4 years in prison for “inciting subversion of state power,” (CL, art. 105) related to articles he wrote online about corruption. State security officials reportedly threatened Lu’s daughter after she revealed details of her father’s mistreatment in detention (RDN, 30 December 16). Authorities have reportedly denied Lu medical attention for diabetes and high blood pressure.

The verdict did not state their date of detention. The Leiwuqi People's Procuratorate accused the men of adding insulting text to images of Tibetans wearing traditional Tibetan chubas (jackets) trimmed with leopard fur and sending the edited images to a WeChat group with 15 members. The verdict stated that the images were forwarded "massively," "repeatedly" (three times), and resulted in the "2.02 incident," which allegedly "seriously disturbed social order." The verdict provided no details on the incident. The court sentenced to Jamyang Gyatso and Namgyal Wangchug to 7 and 5 years' imprisonment, respectively. Prison details were unavailable. In 2006 the Dalai Lama urged Tibetans to stop wearing or using wild animal fur or parts.

The guard found him to possess DVDs on Falun Gong. Public security officials detained him, held him at Wuxi No. 1 PSB Detention Center, and confiscated his computer during a search of his home. The detention took place 4 months after his release from a reeducation through labor center where he was held as punishment for practicing Falun Gong. Later in October 2013, police detained Pu Ruijing after material found in Shi's residence implicated her. The Binhu District People's Procuratorate, also in Wuxi, prosecuted the case after reportedly initially rejecting it for lack of evidence. On May 8, 2015, the Binhu District People's Court sentenced Shi and Pu to five and seven years' imprisonment, respectively. (In such Falun Gong cases, the charge likely would have been CL, Art. 300.) Information on their places of imprisonment was not reported. In connection with his Falun Gong practice, officials reportedly had also held Shi in a "transformation through reeducation center" and in 2000, 2005, and 2011 had ordered him to serve periods of reeducation through labor.

Jiangxi Province	According to RDN (11 July 13, 28 August 13, 23 October 13); HRIC (15 October 13, 6 December 13); and HRW (24 October 13), between April 28 to 30, 2013, PSB officials in Xinyu city, Jiangxi province, detained anticorruption and transparency advocates Liu Ping, Wei Zhongping, and Li Sihua, and arrested them on June 4th for "illegal assembly." Officials based the charge on their participation in peaceful demonstrations calling for disclosure of officials' assets and for shouting slogans, and planning rights defense activities. Officials later modified the charge to "picking quarrels and provoking trouble." Officials held Liu in the Xinyu Detention Center and Wei and Li in the Fenyi County Detention Center. In August, authorities also charged Liu and Wei with "gathering a crowd to disrupt public order" and "using a cult to damage enforcement of the law," for election campaigning in 2011 and for an Internet posting urging people to attend a trial for a Falun Gong practitioner in 2012. The Yushui District People's Court tried them on October 28 and on June 18, 2014, sentenced Liu and Wei to 6 years and 6 months in prison and Li to 3 years in prison. On August 5, the Xinyu Intermediate People's Court rejected their joint appeal and upheld the sentences (RDN, 11 August 14).

(general location)	Sichuan Province	According to a Phayul report (1 November 13) citing a Tibetan source with local contacts, in March 2013, public security officials detained a Tibetan Buddhist monk, Tseyang, age 33, who hailed from Banma (Pema) county, Guoluo (Golog) Tibetan Autonomous Prefecture, Qinghai province. Family members were unaware of his location or status until officials contacted them later in 2013 and told them Tseyang allegedly had been involved in "anti-government protests" in Ganzi (Kardze) TAP and Aba (Ngaba) Tibetan and Qiang Autonomous Prefecture, both in Sichuan province. A court reportedly sentenced Tseyang to seven years in prison on the charge of separatism (CL, Art. 103). The report provided no details on Tseyang's place of residence, his monastery, his initial place of detention, the name and location of the court (whether in Ganzi or Aba prefecture), the sentencing date, or his place of imprisonment. (Generally the case would have been tried where the alleged crime took place; if more than one location was involved, the court that accepted the case first would have tried it; if it was "more appropriate," the case could have been tried where Tseyang resided (CPL, Art. 24-26).)

The reports alleged that police officials "fabricated 'evidence'" against the sisters. On November 29, 2013, the Tiefeng District People's Court reportedly sentenced Xie Li and Xie Wei to seven and nine years' imprisonment, respectively. The reports provided no details on the alleged evidence, accusations, or criminal charges against them. (In such Falun Gong cases, the charge likely would have been CL, Art. 300.) The reports provided no information on their prison location. The sisters allegedly had appealed to government officials to "clarify the facts" about Falun Gong since 1999 (when the government initiated an anti-Falun Gong campaign); security officials allegedly had detained and "tortured" them on multiple occasions.

Sichuan Province	Based on differing accounts in RFA and Phayul reports (17 March 13), and Global Times and VOA reports (19 March 13), on March 13 or 14 public security officials detained Drolma Kyab after his wife, Konchog Wangmo, committed self-immolation overnight on March 12 in Dazha (Tagtsang) town, near the seat of Ruo'ergai (Dzoege) county, Aba (Ngaba) T&QAP, Sichuan province. RFA said police detained Drolma Kyab after he refused to state that Konchog Wangmo burned herself to death because of a family quarrel. Global Times reported that police detained Drolma Kyab on suspicion of murder and accused him of strangling his wife as they argued about his alcoholism, then taking her body by night to a spot near their residence and burning it. On August 15, 2013, the Aba Intermediate People's Court sentenced him to death for murder (CL, Art. 232) on March 11 (Global Times), 16 August 13; the sentence apparently included a two-year reprieve. (A CECC summary lists Konchog Wangmo's self-immolation. An SPC, SPP, and MPS joint "opinion" called for persons authorities regard as linked to a self-immolation to be prosecuted for "intentional homicide" (Gansu Daily, 3 December 12; translated in Dui Hua).)

Lai Yiwa			赖亦瓦	M			Eastern Lightning		religion / speech	2012/12/16	chg/tri/sent	Beijiang Prison (Shaoguan)	Guangdong Province	According to Dui Hua (29 August 13) and China News Service (2 April 13), a Chinese state-run news outlet, on December 16, 2012, public security officials in Shaoguan municipality, Guangdong province detained Lai Yiwa at his home. Lai is reportedly a follower of the "Church of the Almighty God," also known as the "Real God" church or "Eastern Lightning," a quasi-Christian sect banned by the Chinese government as a "cult" in 1995. Authorities alleged Lai received instructions from other members of the Almighty God sect to rent equipment to photocopy and distribute 1600 handouts relating to their belief in a prophesied apocalypse in December 2012. Lai's detention coincided with a larger crackdown by authorities on the Almighty God sect in December in which more than 1300 people were reportedly detained (China News Service, reprinted in Xinhua, 21 December 12). On April 2, 2013, the Shaoguan Municipal Qujiang District People's Court sentenced Lai to 7 years' imprisonment on the charge of "using a cult organization to undermine implementation of the law" (CL, art. 300(1)). Authorities transferred Lai to the Beijiang Prison in Shaoguan to serve his sentence. Dui Hua reported in November 2015 that Lai received a six-month sentence reduction on August 9, 2015 (Dui Hua, 10 November 15).

Three, including "senior monk" Khedrub Gyatso, were identified as Bongtag monks. On May 29, a court summoned to trial Khedrub Gyatso and five persons the report described as "connected to" Bongtag (but not confirmed as monks): Sanggye, Kalsang Jangsem, Damchoe Tsultrim, Jamyang Oezer, and Dragpa. Prior to a verdict, Khedrub Gyatso reportedly interrupted the proceedings, declared his innocence, and objected to "over 100 days" of detention. Officials reportedly suspended the proceedings. RFA subsequently reported (3 July 12) that a court sentenced "Khendup" [likely Khedrub Gyatso] to 11 years in prison for "instigating" the self-immolation. Information is unavailable on the court, criminal charge, and prison. [An AMI Tibet map shows Bongtag in Wulan county, not Tianjun.]

Authorities detained him after he tried to obtain information about running in a local people's congress election. On December 26, the Guiyang Municipal Intermediate People's Court, reportedly treating him as a recidivist, sentenced him to 10 years in prison. Previously, Guiyang authorities held him in custody on multiple occasions to prevent him from organizing local human rights symposiums or activities commemorating UN Human Rights Day. In 1996, officials sentenced him to 10 years in prison on the charge of "organizing and leading a counterrevolutionary group" (local chapter of the China Democracy Party); and in 1989 to 3 years in prison for organizing a group during the 1989 Tiananmen protests. Authorities were holding Chen in Xingyi Prison, Qianxi'nan Buyi & Miao Autonomous prefecture.

Police reportedly from the Guiyang municipal PSB bureau, the Nanming district PSB bureau (under Guiyang municipality), and the Fenggang county PSB bureau (under Zunyi municipality, Guizhou) all participated in the detention under the direction of officials from the Guizhou "610 office" —an extralegal, Party-run security apparatus set up to eliminate the Falun Gong movement. The Fenggang People's Procuratorate reportedly received Ma's case on November 4 and submitted her case to the Fenggang People's Court on November 8. She was hospitalized on November 15 in weakened condition from a hunger strike and other illnesses. On November 23 the same court sentenced her to 9 years' imprisonment. The report provided no information on Ma's alleged Falun Gong activity, evidence or accusations against her, or criminal charges. (In such Falun Gong cases, the charge likely would have been CL, Art. 300.) Authorities transferred her to Guizhou No. 1 Women's Prison.

Region	According to Radio Free Asia (13 July 11, 15 July 11), a court in the Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region sentenced Qurbanjan Abdusemet and his brother Abdugheni Abdusemet, of Nilqa county, Ili Kazakh Autonomous Prefecture, to 10 years' and 3 years' imprisonment, respectively, around April 2009 for crimes connected to "splitting the state" (Criminal Law Article 103). Information on the sentencing court, precise dates of sentences, and initial dates of the brothers' detentions is not available. Authorities released Abdugheni, who reportedly has a mental illness. Sources do not report the precise date of his release. According to Qurbanjan and Abdugheni Abdusemet's mother, authorities detained them for "engaging in illegal religious activities" after they sold to Uyghurs state-sanctioned religious publications from other provinces. Authorities also detained the brothers' father, Abdusemet, for 40 days, apparently around the time of his sons' detentions, and called on him to answer for his sons' deeds. Information on Qurbanjan's prison location and the location where Abdugheni served his sentence is not available.

In court, officials cited online essays that were critical of government policy in Xinjiang. Until June 2009, Gheyret Niyaz worked as an editor and manager for the Web site Uyghur Online, which officials later accused of contributing to incitement of rioting in July 2009. He also had worked for two Xinjiang newspapers. A Dui Hua report (24 August 12), confirmed Niyaz to be imprisoned in the Xinjiang No. 3 Prison.

He operated a Tibetan-language Web site, Chomei (The Lamp), that he and a Tibetan poet established in 2005 and that featured Tibetan cultural content. Officials searched his home, confiscated his computer, and took him to a detention center in Gannan. After a closed trial, the Gannan Intermediate People's Court sentenced Konchog Tsephel on November 12, 2009, to 15 years in prison for disclosing state secrets (Criminal Law, Art. 111), according to an ICT report (16 November 09). Information is unavailable on his prison location. The Tibetan writer Woesser said in a Middle Way blog entry (Chinese, 19 December 09) that he published essays on the 2008 Tibetan protests and "oppression of Tibetans" during the protests. From 1989 to 1994 Konchog Tsephel visited India and attended a Tibetan-run school for 3 years; he attended universities in Beijing and Lanzhou city, Gansu's capital, from 1996 to 1999. Gansu PSB officials detained him for 2 months in 1995 and allegedly tortured him under interrogation.

Region	According to a Tibetan government-in-exile report (15 May 10), in mid-2008, officials allegedly from China's "intelligence bureau" (state security bureau) detained Lhamo Kyab, a teacher since 1982, from a primary school in Biru (Driru) county, Naqu (Nagchu) prefecture, TAR. She had begun teaching at the school three days prior to detention. Officials reportedly covered her head, took her to her residence in Nagchu, the prefectural capital, searched her home, then took her to a "secret" detention center in Sangyib, a Tibetan name referring to the general location of the TAR Detention Center, located in Lhasa city. (A November 2009 view of the rebuilt TAR Detention Center is available on Google Earth at these coordinates: 29 41'24.96" N, 91 09'30.37" E.) Authorities interrogated her about "alleged involvement in political activities." In January 2010, approximately one-and-a-half years after detention, a court sentenced Lhamo Kyab to 15 years in prison. Information is not available about the court, the criminal charge against her, or the location of the prison where she is serving her sentence.
2008-00341	DET	Xie Changfa			谢长发	M	55	Han			democracy / association / speech	2008/06/26	chg/tri/sent	Chishan Prison	Hunan Province	According to Radio Free Asia and Boxun, on June 26, 2008, Yuhua public security officials in Changsha, Hunan province, detained democracy activist Xie Changfa on charges of "inciting subversion" on June 26, 2008 and formally arrested him on August 1 for the more serious charge of "subversion of state power." The sentencing document for Xie indicates that the charge is related to Xie's attempts to convene a national meeting of China Democracy Party (CDP) members across China, for establishing a CDP branch in Changsha, and because of his writings, including a CDP charter and articles advocating for a more democratic China. On September 1, 2009, the Changsha Intermediate People's Court sentenced Xie to 13 years in prison for subversion. Previously, Xie served 2 years of reeducation through labor for "counterrevolutionary propaganda incitement" after he tried to register the Hunan Preparatory Committee of the CDP in 1998. 59-year old Xie is reportedly required to labor 10 hours a day. Xie's lawyer said he was not able to meet with him until more than four months after his detention. Xie is currently being held at Chishan prison in Yiyang city near Changsha.

Police immediately detained Lobsang Geleg (a monastic chant master), Thangnye (a former chant master), and Lobsang Palden when they attempted to stage a peaceful political protest in front of the Ganzi county government offices. No details are available about their place of detention or criminal charges, if any, against them. A September 13, 2013, RFA report referred to one of three Beri monks who staged a protest on an unspecified date in 2008 as Lodro Palden (Lodroe Palden) and noted that the Ganzi TAP Intermediate People's Court had sentenced him to 9 years in prison. The report provided no information on the criminal charge, sentencing date, or the other two monks. Authorities "temporarily freed" him (likely a release on medical parole) to seek treatment for conditions that resulted from torture and abuse in prison, an RFA source said. (Lodroe Palden is likely the monk initially reported as Lobsang Palden.) A November 20, 2014, VOA report stated in November 2014 officials had given "Lobsang Palden" an early release (details not reported.)

On May 18, officials detained Phurbu Tsering, regarded as a reincarnated Tibetan Buddhist teacher, who headed the nunnery. Aggressive patriotic education campaigns and demands that the nuns denounce the Dalai Lama had angered the nuns, as well as government claims that the Dalai Lama "masterminded" the Tibetan protests following March 10. TCHRD (19 February 09, reprinted in TCHRD Press 2009) reported that a court had sentenced Sonam Lhatso ("Soe Lhatso") on an unknown date to 10 years in prison. A Ministry of Public Security list (via Zhengqi Net) of organizations officially banned as "cults" mentions Gong and the SCC, and authorities have given other SCC members sentences in connection with SCC activities. Authorities charged Gong with "using a cult to undermine the implementation of the law" (a crime under Art. 300 of China's Criminal Law), assault, and rape, but later dropped the cult charge. In December 2001, the Jingmen Intermediate People's Court in Hubei convicted Gong of intentional bodily harm and rape (crimes under Art. 234 and 236(2)(b) of China's Criminal Law) and gave him a life sentence. Twenty-one SCC members and all 10 women whom Gong was accused of raping reportedly later submitted statements to the UN Working Group on Arbitrary Detention stating that authorities coerced them into accusing Gong of assault and rape. Gong is now in Hongshan Prison, Jiangxia district, Wuhan city, Hubei and has reportedly suffered abuse in prison.
