

TABLE SET III: THE REVIEW COMMITTEE

B. OFFENSES: EXPLANATORY NOTES FOR TABLE SET III.B

Table Set III.B examines charging practices. As explained in the text, when the modern use of the federal death penalty began in 1988, the only offenses subject to capital punishment were narcotics-related offenses under the DKA, and therefore all 52 submissions in the pre-protocol period were in cases where the defendant was charged with committing such offenses. With the enactment of the FDPA in 1994, prosecutors were authorized to seek the death penalty for a variety of offenses. Accordingly, Table 13 reports the extent to which each federal offense punishable by death has been charged against the 618 defendants that the Review Committee considered, providing information about the total number of cases under each statute as well as the Review Committee's recommendations for and against seeking the death penalty. The information in Table 13 is reported on a statute-by-statute basis, and does not contain information about particular districts.

Tables 14-1 and 14-2 provide offense-related information about each district and are organized in the same manner as the corresponding tables in Set II.B. The explanatory notes set forth in that section are applicable here as well.
